MORE MARINES GO; SITUATION IS TENSE AT HAITI

Expect 1,500 Troops to Restore Quiet.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Conditions in Haiti, where 700 American marines are concentrating to maintain order, after widespread rioting, were still tense tonight as congress prepared to take quick action on the President's appeal for the appointment of a commission to study the situation.

The navy department reported that the Galveston, with 300 bluejackets, had arrived at Jacmel, after a record run from Cuba. With the arrival of the airplane tender Wright in Haitian waters, some time tomorrow or Tuesday, the United States will have a total of 1,500 men in the trouble zone.

State department officials tonight expressed the view that it will not be necessary to send additional reinforcements to Haiti, although the administration will be guided largely by the recommendations of John H. Russell, the American high commissioner.

Americans Removed.

The latest Russell communication to the state department, dated yesterday, reported that American women and children were being removed from certain of the outlying communities to Port au Prince. Women and children at Aux Cayes embarked yesterday on the steamer Martinique of the Columbia line. This vessel, Commissioner Russell reported, was ordered to stop at Jeremie and pick up about five American women and children at that port.

Commissioner Russell advised the state department that a French priest and three members of the constabulary held off a crowd of 2,000 which surrounded the garde outpost building at Chantel, yelling "Down with Borno! Down with Freeman!"

Russell Sends Report.

"The garde, assisted by the French priest, held the crowd off," Commissioner Russell said. "At Torbek, near Aux Cayes, where there is another outpost, a crowd estimated at 1,000 gathered on the morning of Dec. 7 and threatened to kill the corporal of the garde who was alleged to have telephoned into Aux Cayes the approach of the mob that descended on Aux Cayes on the afternoon of Dec. 6. The crowd had been shouting 'Down with Borno, down with Freeman,' but had not attacked the garde. Directions have been issued to call in the above two small outposts to Aux Cayes in order to prevent rushing the outpost at night, and the capture of rifles and ammunition."

The telephone line between Aux Cayes and Port au Prince was being destroyed when Commissioner Russell reported.

State department officials explained that the Freeman referred to is George E. Freeman, the American head of technical service in the government of President Borno.

State Department on Watch.

President Hoover and Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson were kept constantly informed of developments in Haiti during the day. A state department official remained at the department so as to keep in as close touch as possible with the situation.

A resolution authorizing the President to appoint a commission to study and review the policies of the United States in Haiti was introduced in the house yesterday, and a similar resolution will undoubtedly be introduced in the senate tomorrow. While it is probable that the question of future American policy in the Caribbean republic will be made the subject of much debate, especially in the senate, indications are that congress will comply with the President's desire to have the commission appointed.

Quiet Throughout Sunday.

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Quiet prevailed today throughout Haiti. Wire communications were open to all points. Threatened demonstrations scheduled for last night and this morning at three points failed to materialize.

The cruiser Galveston with its regular marine detachment of fifty men arrived at Jacmel at 8 a. m., and found the city quiet. The inhabitants plainly showed relief that fears of attack had been dispelled.

News of the action taken so promptly by President Hoover and the dispatch of marine reinforcements from the United States was published as a bulletin by the newspaper La Presse and this contributed to the feeling of stability.

72 DIE AS CREW FIGHTS PIRATES ON BURNING SHIP

Passengers in Panic Jump Into Sea.

HONGKONG, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The crew of the British steamer Haiching beat off a swarm of Chinese pirates today after they had set the ship on fire. Third Officer K. F. Woodward and an Indian guard were killed and 10 pirates slain. About 60 of the native passengers, including mothers with babes in their arms, leaped overboard in a panic and were drowned. First Mate R. Perry was wounded.

The battle was witnessed by three American women who were among the passengers. They escaped without injury. The Haiching was en route from Swatow to Hongkong and limped into port after the raiders had been subdued with aid of sailors from two British warships.

The pirates, who had shipped as passengers, attacked before dawn at Chalang Point. In answer to an S O S the British destroyer Sterling went to the rescue and arrived in the thick of the fight, when the pirates had set fire to the deck and the bridge.

Thirty-eight Pirates May Die.

When the steamer reached here tonight with its superstructure partly burned away 38 wounded buccaneers were sent to hospitals. The condition of most of them was said to be serious. Others were brought ashore securely bound and thrown into jail. The ship was under escort by the British destroyers Sirdar and Sterling.

The Haiching left Swatow yesterday afternoon with 300 passengers, including an Englishman and the three American women. Early this morning 20 or 30 of the pirates sprang upon the decks with bloodcurdling yells and attempted to seize the ship. They stormed the bridge, firing revolvers indiscriminately.

Pirates Storm Bridge.

The bridge, however, was protected by barbed wire, and the officers and Indian guards opened fire on the outlaws. A rapid exchange of shots forced the pirates to retire, but Third Officer Woodward was killed in the fighting.

After a brief lull in the combat the pirates again charged the bridge, but the accurate fire of the officers and guards picked off the leaders and when they again withdrew they left dead and wounded lying about the deck. No other frontal attack was made, but the pirates took up protected positions, from which they did much sniping.

Pour Kerosene on Decks.

Meanwhile the young Chinese radio operator kept his head and sent out distress calls which were picked up by the destroyer Sterling. While the destroyer was speeding under full steam to the rescue, the pirates used kerosene to set fire to the deck and bridge.

Panic stricken Chinese passengers swarmed from below as the smoke poured over the vessel. Mothers clasping children in their arms leaped overboard, while others of the passengers attempted to launch lifeboats. In their haste three of the boats, overcrowded by the frightened people who jumped into them, overturned and many were drowned.

When the Sterling came alongside it quickly captured the remaining pirates and extinguished the flames. The Sirdar arrived soon afterward. The uninjured passengers were transferred to the warships, which then proceeded slowly to this city with the crippled ship.

3 BANDITS ROB GIRL CASHIER IN W. SIDE HOSPITAL

The Lutheran Memorial hospital at 1116 North Kedzie avenue was robbed of $200 last night by three men who walked into the office and threatened Miss Zada Palmiter, 1100 North Spaulding avenue, a cashier. Two of the men covered Miss Palmiter with guns while the third leaped over the information desk and, pushing her to one side, grabbed the money from a cash drawer.

All three, who were young and appeared nervous, wore caps pulled down over their eyes. The leader seemed to be familiar with the hospital and knew where the money was kept, Miss Palmiter said.

THREE MARKET COMPANY HEADS ROBBED OF $8,540

Four robbers early this morning held up two men and a woman, all executives of the General Market House company, operators of a chain of meat markets, and robbed them of $8,540 in money and jewels, and an automobile.

The victims are Jack Siegel, 7711 Yates avenue, president of the company; Martin Andreas of the Morrison hotel, general manager, and Andreas' wife, Lenora, vice president. They were driving to Siegel's home from a theater when they were forced to the curb by the robbers' car at 69th street and Cottage Grove avenue.

Siegel lost $175 and a $2,500 diamond pin. From Andreas the robbers took $200 and a ring valued at $3,500. Then they tore a $1,600 ring from Mrs. Andreas' finger, snatched her $550 fur coat and a purse containing $15 and escaped in their own car and in Siegel's.

DRYS NAB TWO IN HALL WHERE STUDENTS LIVE

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Prohibition sleuths paid their second successive week-end visit to the vicinity of Harvard university, when a squad of local police entered an apartment in exclusive Fairfax hall last night to seize 20 gallons of alleged liquor.

Two men were arrested charged with keeping and exposing liquor for sale. They identified themselves as John O. Ware, 29, and Edward Dunlin, 34. The hall is the place of residence of many Harvard students. Police said the building was the property of the university. Neither Ware nor Dunlin, however, were connected with Harvard.

Just a week ago federal prohibition agents arrested two alleged bootleggers outside of Russell Hall after Harvard students had complained that persistent liquor salesmen were becoming nuisances in the dormitories.

GIRL, 11, SCOLDED BY HER MOTHER, DRINKS POISON

Because her feelings were hurt over a reprimand by her mother, Helen Kwot, 11 years old, drank poison at her home at 1911 South Albany avenue last night. She was taken to the county hospital, where her condition was pronounced serious. Helen's mother, Mrs. Jennie Kwot, a widow, returned home from St. Mary's hospital a week ago after an operation. She said that she had been nervous since then and she scolded Helen for playing the radio loudly while she was talking to neighbors. Helen then went to the bathroom, where she swallowed the poison.

Four persons were killed in Chicago traffic yesterday. In two of the accidents the drivers sped on, leaving their victims to die in the street, a circumstance which aroused at least one police commander to launch a drive against hit and run motorists last night.

Mrs. Norah Moriarty, 54 years old, wife of Battalion Chief Patrick Moriarty of the fire department, was killed by a northbound automobile as she and two companions awaited a street car at 86th street and Stony Island avenue. Her cousin, Mrs. Anna O'Donnell of New York City, a guest at the Moriarty home, 1527 East 85th place, suffered internal injuries.

Hit After Leaving Church.

Mrs. O'Donnell, who is 60 years old, may not survive, according to Jackson Park hospital attendants. The third woman, Miss Mary Healy, 30 years old, a niece of Mrs. Moriarty and housekeeper for the Rev. J. P. Doran, pastor of St. Ailbe's church, 9150 Harper avenue, escaped with minor injuries. All three had been attending vespers at St. Ailbe's.

Early this morning Peter Smaszcz, 36 years old, 606 South Francisco avenue, was arrested at his home and held as the motorist who struck the women. The police said he had been drinking.

Another hit and run victim, George Hack, 59 years old, who lived with his crippled son at 1358 Belmont avenue, was killed after leaving church. Hack attended an early mass at St. Alphonsus' church and was crossing the intersection of Southport, Lincoln, and Wellington avenues.

A sedan, northbound in Lincoln at 50 miles an hour, hurled him forty feet. Hack died en route to the Alexian Brothers' hospital. Capt. Thomas Duffy, commander of the Sheffield police district, who said Hack was the fifth person killed at that intersection in recent months, posted a plain clothes detail there.

Hold Gangster for Death.

The third traffic death was inflicted by an alleged gangster whom police captured in flight. John Montague, 53 years old, 1347 Edgemont avenue, was crossing Loomis street at Taylor, a few paces ahead of his wife, when a battered touring car hit him.

The driver, later identified as Sam Domico, 23 years old, 904 South Claremont avenue, reputed member of the Forty-Two gang, lifted his victim into his car and drove to the county hospital, where Montague was pronounced dead. Domico refused to give the hospital authorities his name and was driving away when Police Sergeants Lester Breitenreiter and Fred Vocaur arrived with Mrs. Montague.

The fourth death, which, with the others, raised the county motor toll this year to 941, was that of Chris Mutterer, 83 years old, 6714 South Lincoln street. The aged man succumbed yesterday in Holy Cross hospital to injuries suffered Friday when the car of Edward Sherman, 1357 East 53d street, struck him at Lincoln street and Marquette road.

In a collision for which the police held no one responsible, Mrs. Marian Levi, 37 years old, 5036 Drexel boulevard, was perhaps fatally injured at 11th street and Michigan avenue. A bus passenger, Miss Dorothy Nelson, 826 North Waller avenue, had fainted and was transferred to a taxi at Michigan avenue and 9th street. The cab driver, Richard Harrington, was speeding her to St. Luke's hospital when, with the red light against him, his cab hit the car driven by Mrs. Levi's husband, Jerome, a wealthy meat packer.

Oak Park Garage and 50 Trucks Burn; Loss $200,000

Damage estimated at $200,000 was caused by fire which early this morning wrecked the garage of the Worth Motor service at 1138 North boulevard, Oak Park, and destroyed fifty 5 ton trucks owned by the motor service and the Oak Park Transfer service. The blaze was discovered by Coe Davis, 4850 Fulton street, Chicago, night watchman at the garage. He summoned Oak Park firemen, who battled for nearly two hours before the flames were controlled. The origin of the fire was undetermined.

Victim Beaten with Gas Pipe in Apartment

BULLETIN.

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 9.—[Monday.]—Dr. Floyd Leach, 42 years old, a Rockford dentist, was taken into custody by the police early this morning as a suspect in the slaying of Miss Cordelia Gummersheimer. Dr. Leach's office is in the Blackhawk building, which adjoins the Grantway apartments, where Miss Gummersheimer's body was found. He was arrested after the police had been informed that he was seen in an automobile in front of the office building at 5 o'clock Sunday morning, a few hours after the teacher was clubbed to death.

Leach was found with a shotgun over his arm patrolling the road in front of his cottage, seven miles north of Rockford. Two loaded pistols and a blood stained handkerchief were found in the cottage. The dentist declared he had never seen Miss Gummersheimer.

Dr. Leach was arrested six months ago on a charge of abandoning his wife and child in Los Angeles, and is fighting extradition. Since that arrest he has acted strangely, neighbors said.

Rockford, Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Miss Cordelia Gummersheimer, 36 years old, a Rockford High school teacher, tonight was found dead in her apartment here, nearly 24 hours after she had been clubbed with a piece of gas pipe. There was no apparent motive for the crime. Miss Gummersheimer had not been raped, and nothing in the apartment had been disturbed.

Miss Gummersheimer had been a teacher of dramatic art at the Rockford High school for eight years and was very popular here. Neighbors said that she had a number of men callers and letters and telegrams found in the apartment indicated that she had corresponded with several men.

Friends Find Body.

The body was found by two friends who called to learn why Miss Gummersheimer was late for an appointment for dinner. The body, clad only in a pink nightgown, was lying on a folding bed in the living room of her three room kitchenet apartment, just as she had retired last night. Beside the bed was an open book, indicating that the teacher had read before turning out the light sometime after 11 o'clock last night, and a piece of gas pipe, 18 inches long, with which she had been beaten over the head.

Other occupants of the apartment building, at 516 West State street, told the police that they saw a light in the apartment last night and saw Miss Gummersheimer moving about at 11 o'clock. Earlier in the day she had had visitors, Miss Alice Walker, a teacher of history at the Rockford High school, who occupies the next apartment, and Miss Genevieve Griddell, a nurse, had heard her talking to them.

Body Lying on Bed.

Miss Gummersheimer had made an appointment to meet Miss Sarah Burd, an English teacher in the Lincoln Junior High school, and Miss Marie Dobbins, a teacher of history at the high school, at 5:30 o'clock this evening to accompany them to dinner. When she failed to appear they called her by telephone and, receiving no answer, went to the apartment at 7 o'clock. Their rings at the doorbell were unanswered and they went to the rear door of the apartment through Miss Walker's apartment and saw the body lying on the bed.

They notified Chief of Police A. E. Bargren and Detectives Roy Ferns and Tony Shakotus broke in. They found the front door of the apartment open. A screen at a window opening on to the rear porch had been removed yesterday by Miss Gummersheimer, and the window was open when the police arrived.

Finger Prints on Pipe.

The only clew to the identity of the murderer was the piece of pipe on which Herbert Reinert, Bertillon expert, found several finger prints. The pipe had been taken from a bucket of pipe and plumber's tools which had been left on the ground floor by plumbers who were working at the apartment building yesterday.

The police believed that the woman's slayer entered the apartment by jimmying the window from which the screen had been removed and then left by the front door, which he left open, after clubbing her, walking down three flights of stairs to the street.

Dr. Norman L. Sheehe, former coroner's physician, who made a cursory examination of the body, said that he was certain that Miss Gummersheimer had not been criminally assaulted before she was slain. A post-mortem examination was to be made by the coroner.

HOOVER DIRECTS ENVOY TO SIGN; FIGHT IN SENATE

Adherence Favored by Stimson.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—In a defense of his action made public tonight, President Hoover revived the fight to put the United States into the world court.

The President gave out the text of his instructions to Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson to have the United States sign at Geneva tomorrow the statute of the court as revised to accord in part with the reservations of the United States senate.

Mr. Hoover also gave out the text of a letter from Secretary Stimson declaring it safe for the United States to join the court under the terms of the compromise reached between Elihu Root and the representatives of the league of nations who refused to accept unqualifiedly the senate reservations.

Jay Pierrepont Moffatt, chargé d'affaires ad interim of the American legation at Berne in the absence of Minister Hugh Wilson, is expected to sign for the United States.

Writes Instructions.

"I have received your note of Nov. 18, analyzing the situation created by the almost unanimous signature on the part of the members of the Permanent Court of International Justice to the protocol of accession of the United States of America and to the protocol of revision of the statute, and in accordance with the request contained therein I authorize you to make the necessary arrangements for the signature on behalf of the United States on Dec. 9, 1929," wrote Mr. Hoover.

In the letter of Mr. Stimson, written before he had been rebuffed by Russia for invoking the Kellogg anti-war pact in the Manchurian war, that pledge to renounce war bobs up as furnishing a new reason for American entrance into the court. The Kellogg pact, because it commits its signatories to pacific settlement of disputes, "renders the world court more vitally important than ever before," says Mr. Stimson.

Need More Pressing.

"Not only," adds the secretary of state, "has the need of developing judicial means instead of war to settle the inevitable controversies between nations become more pressing but it has become even more important to establish and clarify the standards and rules of international conduct by which such controversies can be prevented or minimized. Never has there been a period in the world's history when there was such an imperative need for the development of international law by an international court."

When the President deems the hour propitious he will submit to the senate the revised protocol of American adherence to the court and ask its ratification. This will be the signal for a renewal of the controversy over the wisdom of the United States entangling itself in a tribunal which the opposition characterized as not a court but a political agency of the league of nations.

Borah to Lead Attack.

Although the senate in 1926 approved the entrance of the United States into the court with five reservations protecting national rights and interests, Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], chairman of the foreign relations committee, will lead another attack on the new program of adherence. The opposition this time will dwell on the argument that the league of nations refused to accept the terms set forth in the five reservations on which the United States agreed to join the court and that the new proposal, in effect, calls upon the senate to assent to a modification of its terms.

According to the opposition the Root formula modifying the fifth reservation, in effect, is cunningly devised to entangle the United States in league politics and compel it to acquiesce against its will in the submission of disputes in which it claims an interest to a court dominated politically by nations intent upon exploiting America.

Root Formula Assailed.

As the opposition views it, the program of the internationalists is to get us into the world court under the Root formula, then to procure American acceptance of the optional clause providing for compulsory submission of all disputes to the court, and finally to get us into the league of nations. The Root formula will be assailed as the product, not so much of Mr. Root as of Sir Cecil Hurst, who is said to be its real author, and other British statesmen collaborating with the leaders of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, of which Mr. Root is director, and other American internationalists.

The fifth senate reservation provides that "the court shall not render any advisory opinion, except publicly after due notice to all states adhering to the court and to all interested parties, and after public hearing or opportunity for hearing given to any state concerned. Nor shall it without the consent of the United States entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest."

By this reservation the senate intended that the United States should be able to veto interference by the league by means of a world court advisory opinion in an affair involving, for example, the right of the United States to restrict immigration.

The league was unwilling to give the United States this veto power. So, the league statesmen and Mr. Root devised certain amendments to the statute of the court under which the United States can veto an advisory opinion only when the league assents to the veto and is given the option of withdrawing from the court if the league refuses to accept the American veto.

Carolia Case Cited.

One amendment provides that "in the exercise of its advisory functions, the court shall further be guided by the provisions of the statute which apply to contentious cases to the extent which it recognizes them to be applicable."

The statute of the court from the first has provided that in no contentious case is a nation obliged to submit to the jurisdiction of the court unless it has accepted the optional clause providing for compulsory jurisdiction. In the Eastern Carelia case in 1925, the court refused to render an advisory opinion, because Russia had refused to take any part in the proceedings. The court held it to be well established in international law that no state can without its consent be compelled to submit its dispute to other states whether to mediation or to arbitration or to any other means of pacific settlement. . . . The court, being a court of justice, cannot even in giving advisory opinions depart from the essential rules guiding their activities as a court."

Under the circumstances of the Eastern Carelia case the court applied to advisory opinions the principle governing the submission of disputes themselves to the court in contentious cases. So with regard to the amendment to the court statute governing advisory opinions, Mr. Stimson in his letter to the President says that "the court, having already recognized this principle of contentious cases to be applicable, is required by this provision in its charter now to forever hereafter act accordingly."

Opposition Sees Joker.

According to the opposition, Mr. Stimson is strangely blind to the joker in this amendment. In the first place, it is contended that whether the United States is able to veto an advisory opinion in a dispute in which it is interested will depend upon "the extent" to which the court recognizes the principle of contentious cases applicable. If the United States, as did Russia in the Eastern Carelia case, should refuse to submit the dispute itself to the court, the tribunal, Mr. Stimson thinks, would be bound to refuse an advisory opinion. But, argues the opposition, the court might declare the principle of contentious cases not applicable to the same "extent" as in the Eastern Carelia case.

"Moreover, the safeguard of the United States against advisory opinions inheres not in the amendment to the statute but in the decision in the Eastern Carelia case. And there is nothing to prevent the court from changing its mind and reversing the Eastern Carelia decision. Why, asks the opposition, was not an express prohibition in terms of the rendering of advisory opinions in these circumstances incorporated in the amendment, similar to the denial of compulsory jurisdictions in contentious cases that is incorporated in the court statute?

Answering expected criticism of this character, Mr. Stimson cites the report of the committee of jurists who devised the amendments to the court statute.

Amendments General.

"The amendments," he says, "are shown to be general in character, so as to include all nations; they also show that the reason why it is proposed to assimilate the procedure on advisory opinions to the procedure on contentious cases is the fundamental reason that unless both parties to a dispute are present and heard the opinion will not carry any weight. The report, therefore, makes it clear beyond peradventure that the consent of the disputant nations is required in every case as a precondition to the granting of an advisory opinion involving any dispute.

"By this ruling and amendment another fear as to advisory opinions is removed. If the United States is involved in any dispute or controversy, to whatever degree, with another country, that matter cannot be brought before the world court without the consent of the United States, even for the purpose of obtaining an advisory opinion."

Consent Required.

All this has to do with the rendering of advisory opinions in disputes to which the United States is an acknowledged party. But there are disputes to which the United States may not be a party, but which may involve an interest of the United States. Under the fifth senate reservation the court could not render an advisory opinion without the consent of the United States.

The Root formula gets around this obstacle by providing a procedure under which the league would labor with the United States and endeavor to persuade it to assent to the rendering of an advisory opinion. If the United States should succeed in persuading the league not to request the opinion the opinion would not issue. If the league should reject the American objections and the court should proceed to render the opinion the United States under the terms of the Root formula, could withdraw from the court "without any imputation of unfriendliness or unwillingness to coöperate generally for peace or good will."

"If the United States," he says, "has an interest in any matter which another nation is seeking to bring up for an advisory opinion which is of so vital a character that the United States would not be satisfied to appear and present its interest to the court, but desires to shut off all consideration of the court therefrom by its objection, that matter, in all human probability, will have already attained the character of a dispute or controversy between the two nations, in which case the United States would already have a veto power under the new article six-eight of the charter statute, which adopts and enacts the spirit of the Eastern Carelia decision.

"Otherwise we should perforce be brought to assume that the United States under this reservation was seeking rather arbitrarily to interfere with its veto in the affairs of other nations in which it had a very slight interest—a conclusion which is not lightly to be assumed. Therefore, I think it a fair assumption to say that the field covered by this last remaining portion of the fifth reservation is very narrow, and the need for such a prohibition unlikely ever to arise."

Procedure Described.

After describing the procedure for dissuading the United States from veloing an advisory opinion, Mr. Stimson says:

"A mere recital of these precautions makes it apparent how remote the contingency is that the United States will ever be constrained to exercise its right of withdrawal. It may be suggested here that this contingency of withdrawal might place the United States in an awkward or embarrassing position, and thus submit it to moral pressure to permit a question to which it really objects. The real hazard is more likely to be the other way. The influence of the United States is so great, the fact of its mere suggestion of withdrawal is so great, the effect of its mere suggestion of withdrawal would be so embarrassing to the other nations that there is far more likelihood of their submitting to an ill-founded objection on our part than of their forcing us to withdraw when we really had a legitimate reason for opposition to a question.

Consideration Shown.

"If any proof on this point were needed, the extreme consideration which has been shown in this protocol to the objections of the United States and the promptness and unanimity with which the protocol for our adherence to the court has already been signed by practically all of the nations of the world who are members of the court, would supply it.

"It seems to me, therefore, that the dangers which seemed to inhere in the rendering of advisory opinions by the court at the time the question was last presented to this government in 1926 have now been entirely removed, both by the action of the court itself and by the provisions of these new protocols. The objections which caused the senate reservations have been met. Advisory opinions can no longer be a matter of secret procedure but must follow the forms and receive the safeguards of all formal court proceedings in contentious cases.

"Whenever a dispute to which we are a party is involved, no opinion on that dispute can be rendered unless we consent. When we claim an interest, although no dispute exists, we can, if we so desire, bring our great influence to bear against the rendering of such an opinion with the same legal standing as if we were a member of the council or the assembly of the league of nations; and, in the extremely unlikely event of our being unable to persuade the majority of the council or the assembly that our interest is real and that the request for the opinion should not proceed, we may withdraw from membership in the court without any imputation of unfriendliness."

Sixteen Cases Decided.

Mr. Stimson says that the court in the eight years of its existence has decided 16 cases and rendered 16 advisory opinions which have been instrumental in settling controversies and preserving peace. He asserts it is a close approach to the sort of international court the United States has been trying to establish for 30 years. To join it, he argues, would give us "new rights and privileges," notably participation in the election of judges and the assurance that the court statute would not be amended without our consent.

"In the gerat future work of transforming the civilization of this world from a basis of war and force to one of peace founded upon justice, we today stand at the threshold," Mr. Stimson concludes. "But it is already evident that in this work the world court is destined to perform a most fruitful and important part. It is also clear that such an agency is more closely in line with the traditions and habit of thought of America, than of any other nation.

"And, finally, it is now possible for us to assist in the support and development of this judicial agent without, in the slightest degree, jeopardizing our traditional policy, as a government, of not interfering or entangling ourselves in the political policies of foreign states or of relinquishing our traditional attitude as a government towards purely American questions with which we are concerned.

Favors Joining Court.

"Is there any reason why, on such terms, our government should not join in the support, moral and financial of such a court, or why it should not lend its efforts toward the selection of judges who will act in this great work in accordance with the noble traditions of the American judiciary? Or why our government's great power should not be placed in a position where it can influence for good or check against evil in the future development of the court's charter and work? I think not."

Peace Treaty Winning In Spite of Strife and Rebuke by Reds, Levinson Believes

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A declaration that the warfare between Russia and China is not a real test of the efficacy of the Kellogg-Briand peace pact to prevent war was made yesterday by Salmon O. Levinson, originator of the pact and chairman of the American commission for outlawing war.

Mr. Levinson held that the battling in Manchuria over control of the Chinese Eastern railway between two signatories of the pact is "only a backstairs guerrilla scrap," and that the controversy has already been practically settled.

Red Note "Human Nature."

He analyzed the reply of Maxim Litvinoff, acting Russian commissar of foreign affairs, to the note of Secretary of State Stimson declaring the United States was making "unjustified interference" in the row between Russia and China, as being more or less a display of "human nature" on the part of the Russians. He said nobody should expect miracles, for men are not made angels over night by the Kellogg pact, and common sense has to be exercised."

"In a short time," said Mr. Levinson, "we have been transformed from a war world to a peace world. The nations have not all got used to it yet. It takes time and patience.

"This controversy between Russia and China is only guerrilla warfare. We wouldn't call it a good sized riot over here.

Sees Two Bad Nations.

"In it we've got two of about the worst nations to handle, with great masses of illiterate people. One of them, China, is a chaos of civil war; the other, Russia, has a government that is not recognized. The strife is egged on by White Russians, who hate the soviets.

"Recently Russia gave an intemperate reply to Secretary Stimson, who had given a friendly reminder of the duties of nations under the peace pact. I think Russia should be rather leniently judged because of the suspicions and injuries she thinks the family of nations have heaped upon her. But Russia is wrong in her reply, although I am inclined to think Russia is right in its controversy with China. However, that is none of our business. America can not be the wet nurse of the world.

Two Early Boosters.

"As a matter of fact, Russia asked other nations in eastern Europe to declare the Kellogg treaty in effect before it was declared operative by President Hoover last July 24. Russia made a great point of inviting other nations to act under the pact. China and Russia agreed to follow the terms of the pact before it went into effect.

"But Russia is human. Here it sees an opportunity to slap the nations operating in Chinese waters and to hit at the situation of the United States, dealing in a commercial way with Russia to the extent of 150 million dollars a year, but refusing to be on diplomatic speaking terms.

Settled "Not by Force."

"It was too great a temptation to Litvinoff to hit one or two solar plexus blows. I think it was exceeding bad judgment and bad taste.

"The controversy is settled substantially by this time, I believe, and not by force. I don't think Russia would have talked that way if it had not been settled.

"The warfare appears to have been undoubtedly exaggerated. A great many militarists in Europe would like to see the Kellogg pact go to its destruction. Others, enamoured of the league of nations would like to see any rival institution demolished. It would be an interesting thing for the peace pact to haul down its flag at the suggestion of Reds, now wouldn't it?

"Let's go back to our 1787 constitutional convention, where our attitude of sovereignties to one another was worked out by what Hamilton called 'thirteen jealous, jarring, and perverse colonies.'

Shows U. S. Court Limits.

"The question arose as to what should be done with unsettled disputes, such as state boundaries, and the Supreme court was given jurisdiction over such controversies between sovereign states. But it was given no power to enforce judgments in such suits in controversy between sovereign states, for the founders held that to set up a power to enforce against a soverign state you would thereby precipitate civil war.

"The world court is modeled upon our Supreme court—force is not to be a factor. In the first test case between states in the Supreme court the Cherokee Indian case in Georgia—the set up went to pieces; Andrew Jackson defied the Supreme court to do anything about enforcing its judgment.

Cites Final Recognition.

"But, after that in 90 sovereign cases, the judgment was carried out, not by force, but by only the plighted word. There is no fuss between our states over judgments which, in Europe, would be causes for war.

"In the end nobody except persons who would like the peace pact to fail will believe the pact has failed in this situation. The next step is the world court. I was against the league of nations, an irreconcilable. The very reasons we should go into the world court are the reasons we should not go into the league. All semblance of politics and political domination has been taken out of the court. Likewise all assemblance of force, or of power behind the court to execute its judgments by force or war in any form has been eliminated. On the other hand the league is chuckfull of politics and force."

KELLOGG HERE ON WAY HOME; MUM ON TREATY

Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state, was in Chicago for a short time yesterday. He transferred from the Pennsylvania railroad, on which he arrived from the east, to the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad for his home in St. Paul. He was on his way from England, where he was given an honorary degree at Oxford.

Mr. Kellogg was met at the station by Silas H. Strawn, who made a special investigation of the Chinese situation, at the request of the President some time ago, and former Gov. Frank O. Lowden. Mr. Strawn said Mr. Kellogg did not discuss the Russian-Chinese situation, in which the Kellogg pact, of which he is author, has figured prominently.

YANKS TO QUIT NANKING; CHIANG DEFIES NEW FOES

BULLETIN.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 9, Monday—(AP)—Foreign naval dispatches today from Ichang, important city in western Hupeh province on the Yangtze river, said rebellious troops surrounded the city. All foreign women and children had been evacuated to foreign gunboats. Six foreign gunboats were said to be lying off the city. They included the American warships Guam and Luzon, under command of Rear Admiral Thomas T. Craven.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NANKING, Dec. 8. — President Chiang Kai-Shek today confessed that the unexpected revolt of the supposedly loyal Gen. Tang Seng-chi, formerly commander of the chief punitive expedition against the rebel Kuominchun in Honan province, and Gen. Shih Yu-san, governor of Anhwei province, has raised an extremely critical situation for the present régime of the Nationalist government. He quickly added he had no intention of resigning.

"I will fight to the last ditch," he said, "so long as a singe loyal soldier is left. I will strive to exterminate the rebels. To desert my responsibility of maintaining peace and order now would be most foolhardy. It would mean handing over the nation to the hands of reactionaries, communists, and militarists, who will create the most unprecedented chaos throughout the land.

"I am prepared to retire whenever peace is restored and when some one can replace me who is capable of preserving the peace as well as carrying out the aims of the Nationalist revolution with loyalty to the party and the people."

Refuses to Surrender.

The hopes for President Chiang's recognition of the wisdom of mediation with the rebels and avoidance of further civil war were apparently crushed with this statement by the chairman, who emphatically added:

"The capital has ample loyal troops for defense and I mean to use every available man to put down this useless defiection. I ask the nation to be patient and endure the suffering a bit longer."

Nanking is not believed to be in danger unless the troops, garrisoning in the city, mutiny. The foreign consuls at a meeting last night decided to plan for the evacuation of approximately 175 women and children, including 80 Americans, in case of emergency. The total American community here, including missionaries, business men and consular staff, is 120.

Nanking Fears No Trouble.

That a disturbance in the capital is considered unlikely is evidenced by the departure from here at 11 p. m. of diplomatic representatives of the powers for participation in a discussion for a revision of the status of the Chinese foreign provisional court in Shanghai which is scheduled to open Monday.

Rebels again interrupted service on the Shanghai-Nanking railway tonight. A freight train was wrecked after removal of rails 35 miles from Shanghai. The railway had been repaired last night after the tracks had been blown up in the afternoon.

Troops of Gen. Tang, who with 74 other generals issued a manifesto aimed at the government yesterday, are reported to be moving toward Hankow for the purpose of occupying Wuhan cities. They are not meeting with resistance and have occupied the towns of Shinyang and Yengcheng. He is reported to have arrested all Nationalist government representatives along the Lunchai railroad.

While the government issued a mandate ordering the arrest of Gen. Tang and requesting the loyal troops in Honan to apprehend him for punishment on the grounds that he is a rebel and traitor to the Kuomintang, it is announced no plans have been made by President Chiang for an advance on the east troops of Gen. Shih Yu-san. Gen. Shih recently mutinied at Pukow and withdrew to the north, and is now concentrated at Pengpu, where the Tsinpu railroad is blocked.

U. S. Gunboat to Nanking.

[Copyright: 1929: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, Dec. 8.—The British cruiser Suffolk left Shanghai today prepared to evacuate 20 British women and children there. Some concern is felt since there is no American vessel at Nanking, but the U. S. S. Tulsa, a gunboat, is being diverted there from Shanghai today, while three British destroyers have been ordered from Hong Kong on river duty.

At Ichang, where a large force of rebels are besieging the city, foreign women and children have already been evacuated on river steamers, but there are government officials and other foreigners ashore.

Trouble is expected in Shanghai, where 5,000 Chinese troops remain and 15,000 guard the railways, but foreign authorities are following developments closely and are ready to initiate a defensive scheme in case of trouble with local radical organizations. On Saturday,

GIRLS OF 15 NATIONS HOSTESSES AT DINNER

Praises Immigrants

Congresswoman Ruth Hanna McCormick journeyed from Washington to Chicago to express last night her appreciation of the contributions made to the art, industry and education of this country by foreign speaking groups. Her address was given at the annual banquet of the foreign language newspapers of the city at the Hotel La Salle.

"There is no branch of patriotic service," she said, "of skill or industry that our immigrants have not enriched and immortalized. The heroism and loyalty shown and the geniuses that have been given to America in such men as Lafayette, Kosciusko, Michael Pupin, Von Steuben, Carl Schurz, Baekeland, and countless others will live forever in our history and should be your greatest heritage."

Fifteen girls of as many nationalities, each garbed in the costume of her native land, acted as hostesses at the dinner. Speakers included John F. Voight, Paul Schultz, Miss Emily Napieralski, Dr. Charles Lunak, Ignacio Izak, the Rev. Pasquale de Carlo, and Harry A. Lipsky. John R. Palandech presided. Miss Susanne Whist, Norwegian concert artist, gave songs in Norwegian, German, and Italian.

PASTOR QUITS WHEN CHURCH BARS NEGROES

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 8.—(AP)—The Rev. Adelbert J. Helm, pastor of the Bethel Evangelical church of Detroit, today announced his resignation, giving the refusal of the church council to admit Negroes to membership as his reason.

"To refuse church membership to any one not of the same race is to deny the most obvious teaching of Jesus and to give the ethical sanctions of christianity to race prejudice," the pastor said in his letter of resignation.

A Negro man and woman who had attended services at the church for several years were refused membership.

STRIKE CALLED BY NEW ILLINOIS MINERS' UNION

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Making demands for a 6 hour day, a 5 day week and a minimum wage of $35 weekly, Illinois coal miners holding membership in the National Miners' union have been called out on a strike effective tomorrow. Pickets have been ordered to all mines which have been working.

Officials of the union claim 18,000 men will refuse to go to work tomorrow, while leaders of the United Mine Workers of America, whose organization was assailed in the strike call, declare not more than 2,000 coal diggers are members of the N. M. U. The U. M. A. asserts its rival organization is controlled by a radical element, while the National Miners' union's call asked the miners "to smash the company controlled union, the United Mine Workers of America."

GRUNDY TO BE NAMED SENATOR BY GOV. FISHER

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Joseph R. Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' association, the veteran advocate of protective tariffs, who recently held the stage in the senate lobby inquiry, will be appointed by Gov. Fisher as senator from Pennsylvania, taking the place of William S. Vare.

The senate last week refused to seat Mr. Vare because of huge campaign expenditures.

The appointment will be proferred to Mr. Grundy by the middle of the week, and his acceptance is expected, although in accepting he will face an intense primary fight in May should Mr. Vare's health permit him to continue in his announced plan of again seeking the nomination for the senate.

It is known among the anti-Vare political leaders, who inherited the Penrose machine, that if Vare actually goes into the primary and can command loyal support from the organization in that city, ex-Gov. Pinchot will again seek the nomination as a third candidate. Thus, tonight the situation in Republican politics of this state is confused, with contests developing over the senatorship, the governorship and other state offices similar to the battle of 1926, which resulted in Senator Pepper's defeat in the primaries and the investigation by the senate of campaign expenditures of nearly $2,500,000 by three candidates for the senate.

3 CHILDREN DIE IN BOMB BLAST IN THEIR HOME

New York, Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Three children, preparing to go to mass, were killed by a dynamite bomb in the kitchen of their Brooklyn home today. The mother and two other children, in another room, escaped injury. The father, Joseph Falzone, a marble contractor, was not at home.

The police tonight were turning over a mass of information, ranging from threatening letters addressed to the father to family troubles between Falsone and his wife, in an effort to unravel a recklessly designed murder.

The victims were Mary, 15; Philip, 13, and Rose Falzone, 8. They lived with their mother and father in a stucco covered two story house in an Italian neighborhood.

The father departed Thursday, telling his wife he was going hunting. He returned after the explosion and was held for investigation.

Mary Falzone was to have partaken of her first holy communion at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church. Her mother got the five children up early. The three eldest dressed themselves and Mrs. Falzone dressed the other two.

"Go into the kitchen and make coffee while I finish dressing the babies," she told Philip. It was half past 8 o'clock and mass was at 9.

Philip obeyed. His two sisters accompanied him. Mary had in her hand a $10 bill which her mother had given her to contribute at the church. On the kitchen table was a large package wrapped in brown paper. It immediately excited the children's curiosity. Perhaps they thought it was an early Christmas package. Philip reached for it, and at that instant there was a shattering explosion.

CONVICT 3, FREE SIX IN FIRST OF RUM PLOT CASES

Jury Disagrees on Eight in Indiana Trial.

Three of the seventeen defendants in the first Indiana liquor conspiracy cases were found guilty by a jury before Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick at Hammond yesterday morning. The jury was out all night and returned a verdict after 5 o'clock in the morning.

One policeman and two bootleggers face a sentence for conspiracy as a result. U. S. District Attorney Oliver M. Loomis expressed himself as "very well pleased" with the verdict. Those convicted were Policeman Charles Wampler of Gary and Sandro Mecco and Alex Santi of Gary, said to be the heads of a liquor ring.

Disagrees on Policeman.

Six defendants, classed by the prosecution as "minor bootleggers," were acquitted and the jury disagreed on the eight other defendants, seven of them Gary policemen. Mr. Loomis said he was sorry that the jury did not either acquit or convict these eight defendants. He would not say whether these defendants would be tried again, but said no action would be taken at this term of court.

The six men acquitted were John Romano, Frank Kish, Frank White, Frank Marshall, Albert Smelko, and Joe Sannicola. The jury disagreed on Thomas Galasini, Gary attorney, who sometimes served as a special city judge, and on Lieut. Frank Galloway, Robert Bock, John Papp, Roy Keele, Henry Prohl, Bud Ingersoll, and Oscar Salzman.

Mecco Now Serving Term.

Mecco, one of those convicted, is serving a term at present for violation of the state prohibition law.

The trial was one of three growing out of a federal grand jury investigation of law enforcement conditions in northern Indiana. The three men found guilty were named by the prosecution as the "key men" in the conspiracy.

The second of the conspiracy trials will be called tomorrow. Among the defendants are Capt. James Vodicka of Gary, eight members of his force, and eight others, alleged to be bootleggers.

SCHOOL SAFETY CHIEF DENIES RACKET CHARGE

Frank S. Singleton, director of the school board's safety bureau, yesterday replied to charges that his bureau was conducting a racket in publishing a monthly magazine, the Junior Safety Patrol. Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, member of the board, demanded the investigation and said school children were being urged to solicit subscriptions.

"I welcome any investigation any one wants to make," Mr. Singleton said. "If Mrs. Hefferan, or any one else, said I was running a racket, there's going to be trouble. My project is entirely outside the schools and the magazine will be handed out in the schools free of cost.

"An investigation might better be directed toward finding out how many relatives and friends Mrs. Hefferan has on the school board pay roll.

"My bureau reduced the automobile death rate of Chicago school children from an average of 10 a month to less than 6 a month. My endeavor has been to protect the thousands of schoolboys who have sacrificed themselves in order to act as safety patrols in the streets. I have tried to get the board, without success, to appropriate a little money for uniforms for them."

FOREMAN-STATE BANK WILL MOVE NEXT MONDAY

The Foreman-State National bank and the Foreman-State Trust and Savings bank and their affiliate, the Foreman-State corporation, will open their doors in the new thirty-eight story skyscraper on the southeast corner of La Salle and Washington streets next Monday.

The corner originally was the site of the First Baptist church, which was erected in 1834, and remained on that site until 1852, when it was destroyed by fire.

In 1853 a new church was dedicated. It remained at the corner until 1864, when the site was purchased by the newly formed chamber of commerce. The church building was dismantled and transported, piece by piece, to Monroe and Morgan streets, where it was rebuilt.

The first Chamber of Commerce building was destroyed by the great fire in 1871, and in 1872 the second building was constructed. It was remodeled in 1890. This building for many years was the home of the State Bank of Chicago, which has been consolidated with the Foreman bank.

The consolidated banks will form one of the largest financial institutions in the United States, their resources totaling more than $220,000,000.

DEVOTION TO HIS FOUR DOGS COSTS MAN, 71, HIS LIFE

The body of John W. Taylor, 71 years old, was lying in the county morgue last night because of his unfailing devotion to his four dogs that lived with him in an old building at 6121 Wentworth avenue. Taylor was tottering home Saturday night, carrying fifteen pounds of meat for his dogs when, at Wentworth avenue and Garfield boulevard, he fell and struck his head on the curbstone.

He was taken to the county hospital where he died later that night. The police had difficulty in finding his home, but they discovered a butcher who told them that he had given Taylor meat once a week and that, though he was frequently without food himself, he always kept his dogs supplied.

'PASS HAT' FOR TAXES, PLAN IN FINANCE CRISIS

Strawn Group to Ask Advance Payments.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The Silas H. Strawn rescue committee has tentatively decided to "pass the hat" in order to obtain enough cash to keep the local governments operating. The members have not ascertained exactly how much they want, but the sum will probably be between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000. They desire to have it pledged or paid in before Jan. 1.

The committee has determined to devote its efforts at present to the temporary and immediate relief of the city, county, school board and several other governmental agencies. The cleaning up of their financial difficulties and the placing of them upon a permanent basis is to be deferred for a few days.

New Year Is at Hand.

The pressing trouble comes from the fact that a new fiscal year is at hand with no cash with which to make a start. There has been no tax collection last year or this and there will probably be none before May or June, or possibly July or August. The fiscal year of the county and sanitary district ended Dec. 1 and that of the city, school board and other governments finishes Jan. 1. Appropriations have not been passed and tax levy ordinances could therefore not have been legally adopted. These two acts are prerequisites to the issuance tax anticipation warrants upon which to borrow more millions.

The plan to "pass the hat" is to get cash for this interim, and probably for a longer period, sufficient in length to permit the working out of a financial program of a more or less permanent character.

Want Taxes Paid in Advance.

It is proposed to get the cash for immediate use by prevailing upon large corporations and individual property owners to pay a substantial part of their prospective taxes. The appeal is to be made to the public utilities, as the Commonwealth Edison company, gas company, telephone company, Surface lines, elevated roads, certain large estates as that of Marshall Field, department stores, the railroads, large downtown buildings, the hotels, larger banks, and selected other payers.

If the plan takes, it is expected to bring in large sums. The Commonwealth Edison company in 1928 set aside $6,000,000 for taxes, of which a large percentage was for local taxes. The gas company's total tax charge for last year was $3,632,819 and the Surface lines reckoned their tax expense at $3,560,000. Those three figures indicate where large taxes are to be obtained, if the scheme has a successful appeal.

Reliable Statement Needed.

It will probably be necessary to compile and put out a reliable statement of the needs of the local governments which will show both the necessity for the requested cash and that it cannot be readily obtained in any other satisfactory way. It is also Mr. Strawn's idea that those who advance tax money shall be assured that it will go to the governments which need it most and will be used for urgent needs.

It has not yet been determined the exact method by which the general scheme will be worked out. There ar some difficulties in the way.

However, to help it along, County Treasurer Harding will appeal to the internal revenue bureau for a ruling that taxes paid on account, under such circumstances, may be included in income tax deductions. It is said that heretofore, under similar conditions, the bureau has ruled that such advance of money was a deposit of cash rather than a tax payment; but the Strawn committee believes that the bureau will rule that such advances of cash is a tax payment.

If it is a tax payment, then what becomes of the state law which requires that the first taxes collected shall be used to pay off tax anticipation warrants on which money has previously been obtained? If that law is observed, then the money cannot be used to pay salaries of public employés in selected governments which most need money. But the Strawn committee hopes to evolve a workable and legal plan.

Officials Must Agree.

To accomplish the results desired, certain public officials must acquiesce in the program. It was reported yesterday that these officials are almost at the point of permitting private supervision, if it is not advertised. They are willing to go along under two conditions. One is that no one shall attempt to place the blame for the financial difficulties on them, and the other is that they shall not be made to appear to be supervised in fiscal matters.

Whether that sort of an agreement has been made could not be ascertained, but subsequent developments will indicate its accuracy or inaccuracy.

It is known, however, that the public officials of the Strawn subcommittee, President Cermak of the county board, County Treasurer George F. Harding and Ald. John S. Clark, chairman of the council finance committee, have decided they cannot take an active part in working out a financial plan. They plead that their official duties are so pressing that they cannot devote the time to the subcommittee.

Accordingly a number of private citizens will be selected for the task. They will first collect the facts to determine with accuracy the financial status of the local governments. These citizens will probably be selected by Mr. Strawn and Alfred S. Austrian. They are said to believe that they must select a committee which will command public confidence not only in relating of facts but in the expression of sound views, if any real results are to be accomplished.

Officials Often Change Views.

Besides, the views of public officials have been subject to sudden modification. They grow hot and cold frequently. One day they refer to the situation as desperate and a little later point out that they could get by under certain contingencies. The result has been that the public has a mixed impression.

Later it is planned to request Gov. Emmerson to call a special session of the legislature, and it is deemed prudent to have a convincing statement accompany the request. The governor has some ideas of his own on taxation, as he has indicated in three chats with a TRIBUNE representative in the last ten days. He does not take kindly to any suggestion on an increase in taxes, and he appears decidedly adverse to placing any more tax burdens upon real estate.

SHIP AND LAND LINKED BY NEW PHONE SERVICE

'Central' Puts First Call Through to Leviathan.

New York, Dec. 8.—[Special.]—A telephone bell tinkled today in a room on the 26th floor of the American Telephone and Telegraph company building at 195 Broadway. That commonplace sound marked the establishment of two way telephone service with a ship at sea on a commercial basis.

Soon afterward a man in Atlantic City was chatting with Sir Thomas Lipton aboard the Leviathan, 200 miles from its Hudson river pier, Europe bound.

Walter S. Gifford, president of the telephone company, opened the new service at 11 a. m., after explaining some of the difficulties which had to be overcome before it could be put into operation for general use by telephone subscribers anywhere in the United States.

Call Put Through Quickly.

Lifting the receiver from an ordinary instrument before him, he spoke into the transmitter:

"Get me Commodore H. A. Cunningham aboard the Leviathan at sea," he said.

The twenty men seated about an oval shaped table, each with a receiver against his ear, had time for only about two puffs on their cigars before the bell's clangor broke the silence.

The circuit was completed from New York by land wire to the radio sending station at Deal Beach, N. J., across 200 miles of blue water to the ship and back again by way of the receiving station at Forked River, N. J. Clear and strong the listeners heard a voice say:

"This is Commodore Cunningham, aboard the Leviathan."

Conversation O. K. Technically.

Twenty minutes of uninterrupted conversation—perfect technically at least—ensued. As usual, the weather proved a matter of paramount concern to almost everyone, and few could resist that old favorite remark for such occasions:

"I hear you as well as though you were in the next room."

The ability of the Leviathan's master to recognize voices caused a great deal of wonderment until Arthur Batcheller, radio supervisor, asked Commodore Cunningham if he remembered the last inspection of wireless equipment.

"I guess I do," replied the commodore, "but according to my program you are out of turn."

"That's a social error, so I'll sign off," replied Mr. Batcheller hurriedly, but the secret was out.

Among others who chatted with Commodore Cunningham were P. W. Chapman, president of the United States lines, owner of the Leviathan, and J. E. Sheedy, vice president.

The circuit was then switched over to Washington and Representative Fred Britten of Illinois, chairman of the house committee on naval affairs, read a formal speech of congratulation.

When he finished Commodore Cunningham remarked: "One of the passengers just came in and said, 'I'll bet that's Britten talking.' I don't know whether he recognized your voice or what."

MOSCOW GUARDS AGAINST FIRE AS OIL IS HOARDED

Fill Bathtubs as City Fears Shortage.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Dec. 8.—Moscow is now declared to be the worst fire risk in the world, and if somebody should drop a match into the bath tub of an apartment, the city would blow up, according to the Moscow Isvestia. It reports that during the last fortnight 1,800 tons of kerosene have been sold by the soviet oil trust to panic stricken inhabitants, who refuse to believe the denials of the soviet press that the rumors of rationing the sale of kerosene are unfounded.

Moscow consumes more kerosene than any other city in the world, because 80 per cent of the inhabitants do their cooking on oil stoves, and with 30 or 40 adults crowding each apartment, the kitchens and hallways of each flat contain between 10 and 20 persons, who splutter around all day, boiling, washing, cooking, and trying meat and potatoes.

Kerosene Stored Everywhere.

As a result of the rumors of a shortage of kerosene, thousands of small oil trusts have been formed, one in each apartment. The kerosene is being stored in bath tubs, buckets, pails, milk cans, and bottles.

Shops, selling kerosene, are empty, for the inhabitants have hoarded enough to supply their needs for weeks, continues the Isvestia, stating that the Moscow fire department is fearful and that inhabitants are weeping over their foolishness because the stench of kerosene is everywhere. On Wednesday a serious fire occurred when a drunken worker tried to pour kerosene from a pail into a samovar. Half the city's fire department was called to quench the blaze, which made 200 families homeless.

The Moscow city council at a meeting Thursday passed an ordinance forbidding families more than one gallon of kerosene in their homes, and this must be closed in a hermetically sealed can.

Special Police on Duty.

The council further instructed the Gaypayou, special police, to enforce this ordinance, and this organization immediately ordered all janitors in Moscow to report families hoarding more than the alotted amount.

On Friday 600 persons were fined and private storekeepers were arrested and charged with spreading rumors of a shortage. The drastic action of the Gaypayou has caused thousands to pour their kerosene down drains, and today a detachment of police was detailed to guard the river, which is covered thick with kerosene.

Two Flyers Burn to Death in Refueling Plane Crash

Tampa, Fla., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Two pilots of a refueling ship to an endurance plane were killed here this morning as their craft crashed in a take-off with 80 gallons of fuel for the other plane, which, 15 minutes later, was forced down, causing minor injuries to both its occupants.

E. A. Dempsey, a friend of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, and Stanley Smith of St. Louis, were burned to death in the refueling plane, which caught fire as it crashed.

R. W. Schrock of St. Louis and Leonard Carrothers of Cedar Rapids, Ia., suffered minor injuries as they attempted a forced landing with the endurance plane, The Sealdsweet of Florida, near Kissimmee, Fla., in a fog.

Cause of Crash Mystery.

Airport authorities were unable to explain the cause of the refueling ship's crash.

The endurance plane virtually was out of gas when the refueling ship took off to replenish it, and the pilots sought unsuccessfully to bring their craft to earth, but crashed into a wood. The endurance plane took fire, but Carrothers and Schrock were able to crawl to safety.

The Sealdsweet took off at 10:53:15 a. m. yesterday for the tenth time to seek a new refueling endurance mark. Numerous minor difficulties had caused the pilots to land on previous attempts, but after more than 23 hours in the air, the ship seemed to be flying perfectly.

Circles Over City.

The Sealdsweet made its last circle over the city at 7 a. m. with gasoline in its tanks to last three hours. And at 9:30 Dempsey and Smith started in the refueling plane to find the endurance plane in the fog and replenish its tanks. Their heavily loaded ship turned over on its left wing as it sought to gain altitude, it burst into flames and its two pilots were trapped in the cabin.

Within fifteen minutes the Sealdsweet, groping in the fog with its fuel running low, "pancaked" into a pine tree in a dense wood seven miles out of Kissimmee and slid to the ground. Its pilots squirmed out of the cabin barely in time to escape the flames that consumed the plane.

The planes were owned by Randall Norvel of St. Louis, who promoted the record attempt, but after the eighth flight he returned home.

Killed in Fall From Glider.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Charles J. Ferguson, army warrant officer, whose ambition has been to span the Golden Gate in a motorless glider, was hurled to his death late today when the machine, towed by an airplane, nosed up into a cross current.

As a private airplane towed Ferguson and his glider from Crissy field his safety strap broke and the glider pilot was hurled head first from his contrivance.

Thousands gasped as Ferguson shot downward, twisted in the air, and struck the ground feet first.

Ferguson's wife was on the field. She collapsed when he plunged out of the plane and was taken to a hospital.

Pilot, Girl Burn to Death.

Stamford, Tex., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Cotton Hansen, pilot and Miss Winnie Williams, passenger, were killed in an airplane crash here tonight. The plane burst into flames as it struck the earth and burned the bodies. The woman was an orphan who lived here.

Policeman Slain Trying to Arrest Pair of Burglars

Kansas City, Kas., Dec. 8.—(AP)—William Hicks, 27, Kansas City, Kas., patrolman, was killed tonight in an attempt to arrest two men who had entered the home of Dr. Glenn D. Asdel here.

HAITIAN VISITORS EXPLAIN WHAT SHOOTIN'S ABOUT

Chicago Couple Recall Sojourn on Island.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Hostilities in Haiti are of more moment to Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Howard of 64 East Oak street than to the average American. They learned "what all the shootin's for" when they paid an extended visit at the home of the American high commissioner of the island republic a year ago. Mrs. Russell, wife of Brig. Gen. John H. Russell, the commissioner, is a sister of Mr. Howard.

Discussing the situation yesterday, the Chicago couple praised President Louis Borno of Haiti. They incline to the belief that the present ruction is the direct result of friction over the matter of a successor for him, as his second administration is drawing to a close, and under the law he cannot serve a third term.

Other Presidents Slain.

"He will be about the first man ever to leave that office alive," commented Mrs. Howard, who is familiar with much of the history of Haiti. "Up to the time he took office Haitian presidents usually wound up by being killed. It is a great pity he cannot continue his excellent work there.

"Gen. Russell had spent about six years in Haiti before the United States intervened there. A commission that included the late Senator Medill McCormick visited there, and recommended the treaty with Haiti under which Gen. Russell was appointed high commissioner. That was in 1922.

"Under the present régime looting of the Haiti treasury is stopped. The Haitians have their own troops, practically as well drilled and in uniforms much like those of our soldiers. Our agricultural school system, in operation there, has done wonders in teaching the natives to turn their wonderfully productive land to account.

Conditions Greatly Improved.

"Under the old conditions only the women went to market, because if the men came in they would be impressed into army service. Now the whole rural population comes into the town markets where they get good prices for their goods and where they visit and get all the latest gossip from their 'underground telegraph.' We used to meet so many of them coming along with big baskets slung on either side of their burros loaded with mangoes, cane sugar, alligator pears and bananas.

"One day we had a picnic by the roadside and an old native came up and said he had found out this was the commissioner's party, and he couldn't go by without telling him how wonderful conditions seemed to his people after all they had been through before."

President Borno, Mr. Howard added, was in Chicago during the International Eucharistic Congress of 1926, and at his departure gave him a letter to his Chicago friends.

ROBBER SLUGS STORE CLERK.

Nisle Meyer, 22 years old, 5253 Agatite avenue, a clerk in a United Cigar store at 1245 Milwaukee avenue, was robbed of $30 yesterday by a robber who slugged him when he turned his back to get a telephone slug at the bandit's request.

MORE MARINES SENT; SITUATION TENSE AT HAITI

1,500 Troops Restore Feeling of Safety.

at Chantal, Torbeck and Port-Priment in the Cayes district reported today that all was quiet with a handful of guards in control. Intelligence agents of the guards were circulating through the disaffected area to restore confidence and tranquility.

Press Not Censored.

Under the martial law there has been established no censorship in any form on the press. Three opposition papers have voluntarily suspended publication, although encouraged by Brigade Commander Cutts to continue. The reason given by the papers was that no news could be printed, but it was said by the authorities that the actual reason was that they were facing bankruptcy.

Under Haitian law only cable messages of plainly seditious nature are referred to the minister of the interior for censorship. Cable business has been brisk and telephone lines have shown a largely increased volume of business so that any censorship necessarily would have been ineffective.

Wild Rumors Circulated.

Despite this freedom of circulation of real information alarmist reports have circulated. One was that airplanes had bombed Aux Cayes without warning and had inflicted heavy losses. Another was that a marine patrol had ambushed peasants without warning and taken a severe toll in killed and wounded.

As evidence that the marines in their brush with natives who tried to force their way into Aux Cayes on Friday had been in full control of their fire and had unusually fine discipline, the brigade commander today released an official report showing that the ammunition in the machine gun belt used to drive off the attackers was not exhausted.

This was said to show that the marines had fired only as long as the attacking band had pressed forward.

There have been three arrests here and one at Cape Haitien in the past 24 hours with the prisoners charged with being strike agitators.

Two Airplanes on Way.

Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Two more amphibian planes, en route to Port-au-Prince, Haiti, to reinforce the aerial squadron there, landed here today. In command of Lieut. William O. Brice and Peter P. Schrider of Quantico, the planes will remain here over night before resuming the flight via Miami to Haiti.

The aviators will deliver the planes to the marine force now in Haiti and will return to their base on the U. S. S. Wright, which left Norfolk, Va., with a contingent of 469 marines to reinforce the detachment now in Haiti.

Three Waukegan Stores Damaged by $30,000 Fire

Fire which started from a defect in an oil heater in the basement of a two-story building at 12 North Genesee street, Waukegan, yesterday caused damage estimated at $30,000 to the stocks of three stores which occupy the building. The tenants and their losses are the Silvy Jewelry company, $7,000; Roxy Women's Apparel shop, $8,000, and the Fashion store, $15,000.

SUITS ATTACKING STATE GAS TAX GO ON TRIAL TODAY

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Several suits attacking the validity of the state gasoline tax will go to trial before Circuit Judge Frank Burton here tomorrow following the failure of efforts to obtain a unanimous withdrawal of more than 100 such actions. Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom and M. S. Winning, his local chief assistant, have obtained an agreement for an immediate hearing and an early decision in order that the cases may be taken to the Supreme court during the February term.

The larger oil companies of the state had agreed some time ago to dismiss their suits if all the other litigants would do likewise. A dozen of the companies refused to agree to withdraw, however, and it is these suits which are expected to go to a hearing and be taken to the upper court.

DRY SPIES BREAK LOCK ON PLANE LEFT IN FIELD

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Acting on suspicion that a large biplane with locked compartments, which was deserted in a corn field by a pilot after a forced landing Saturday night, federal officers summoned by Sheriff Thomas Goodrick Sunday broke padlocks, but found the plane empty.

Residents of Roseland, a suburb near which the ship had landed after circling in search of a field, reported that a large automobile had driven to the plane before daylight. Officers believe the cargo may have been removed at that time.

The plane bears license C.29 and was piloted by Lou Hendricks, who placed two telephone calls to Chicago before leaving by automobile for White Pigeon, Mich. He had said he was bound for Lake Forest airport, Chicago.

BANDITS ROB 60 AT FEAST GIVEN TO HONOR JUDGE

Take Cash and Jewelry; Disarm Detective.

New York, Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Seven men invaded the Roman Garden restaurant in the Bronx at 1:30 a. m. today and robbed sixty men who were guests at a welcome home dinner to City Magistrate Albert H. Vitale.

The holdup men, who worked leisurely, were led by a soft spoken young man, whose sartorial splendor made an impression on the guests, even as they were handing over $2,000 in cash and more than $3,000 in jewelry. The leader and five of the band scorned masks. The seventh man, however, had a handkerchief over the lower half of his face.

Detective Is Disarmed.

In addition to robbing the magistrate, the gang went through the pockets of former City Magistrate Michael Delagi. They took the cash and service revolver of a city detective, and took two revolvers and all their available cash from two court attendants who were among the guests.

The guest of honor was in the middle of a speech of appreciation for the dinner when the gang walked in.

As three men came in from the rear of the restaurant, which is on the second floor, and four others strolled up the stairs of the front entrance, the magistrate thought they were entertainers. The carefully dressed leader walked over the dais and ordered Magistrate Vitale to sit down and keep his hands on the table.

Judge's Speech Cut Short.

The judge smiled, although a trifle nettled that his perfectly good speech had been interrupted, and eyed the weapons of the seven with unconcern. "Come on, now, judge," said the leader, "this is no joke. Sit down."

The judge sat down. As he did so he slipped a four and a half carat diamond from the little finger of his left hand and slid it to the waistband of his trousers.

Mr. Delagi managed to get a ring with a 1½ carat diamond into one of his shoes.

Officer Is Threatened.

When the robbers reached Detective Arthur Johnson, who had made a move to reach his revolver, two guns were leveled upon him. As they took away his revolver and holster one of the men said: "O, so you're a cop, hey? Sit right down, Mr. Cop, and don't make a move, or you'll be a dead cop."

The revolvers of the court attendants, John Onice and Dominick La Claire, were taken next. After having obtained, as they thought, all valuables belonging to the guests, the gang hurried to the street and fled in automobiles.

36 SEIZED IN GAMBLING RAID.

Joseph Lisa, 41 years old, 46 East Chicago avenue, was held yesterday by the East Chicago avenue police as the keeper of a gambling house after 36 men had been seized in a raid on his apartment.

SHATTERING A TRADITION

I. Miller dares to tell the truth. Smartly dressed women DO want new styles in December . . . Why haven't they had them?

Think of December a moment . . . It's a pleasant month, isn't it? You go places, don't you? And do things? You demand a certain measure of perfection in everything you wear, don't you? And you are critical about your gown, your hat, your gloves and your hosiery.

And yet, if the shoes you are wearing will do at all, you don't get enthusiastic about new ones in December. And the reasons are perfectly obvious.

First of all, you've grown to expect no new styles during this month. Usually offerings are a bit musty and dull. A trifle old. Uninteresting. Uninspired. The same patterns you saw last month and the month before.

And second, if you but wait awhile, you know that the shoes you see during December will be drastically reduced in January. Sacrificed. Prices slashed.

So logically enough, you reason that whether you buy for Style or whether you buy for Price, December is no month to find either one particularly attractive.

And you wait . . . And so does the merchant. It's a deadlock that will take a dramatic step to break.

And I. Miller takes that step! Beginning this month all I. Miller Stores will feature NEW STYLES . . . . Styles created particularly for December. Chic. Smart. Up to the minute in pattern. Striking materials that foretell—oh so cleverly!—the dainty things to come for spring.

That's one step—the greatest of all, perhaps. But the final step—the effective step is to assure you that absolutely none of these December shoes will be included in our January Clearance Sale. Prices will be maintained!

That's our story!

MORE SHIPS SINK AS GALE LASHES EUROPE'S COASTS

Toll of Death Grows; SOS Calls Fill Air.

BREST, France, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Several ships either foundered or were in distress today in the most violent tempest that has struck the French Atlantic seaboard in many years.

The ocean going tug Iroise made port this afternoon with the survivors of the Danish cargo boat Helen, which lost its first mate and one sailor off Ushant light early today when a gigantic comber swept the deck.

The Spanish freighter Galdames went aground just outside Brest roads in Bottleneck pass. Two members of the crew drowned.

Two British Ships Sinking.

The British ship Essex Heath was waterlogged and reported sinking between Ushant and Brest. The British ship Tynebridge wirelessed that she was foundering 35 miles west of Bishop's rock. The Cunarder Alaunia went out of its course to assist the vessel.

The three master Notre Dame de Bonne Nouvelle, a French sailing vessel, and the schooner Berthe both foundered off Ushant light this morning. The crews were saved.

Six members of the crew of the Italian cargo boat Aifri drowned when the vessel sank about 100 miles off Bordeaux.

Predict More Storms.

LONDON, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The terrific gale which has gripped the English coasts for the last several days, causing a loss of life and damage to shipping that cannot yet be estimated, subsided somewhat tonight. The air ministry, however, predicted that further violent storms were en route.

The seriousness of the storm was shown in the wreckage which strewed the coasts. Several bodies were washed ashore. One recovered at Hartland was believed to have been that of a members of the crew of the steamer Radyr, which sank on Saturday. Another body was seen in the surf at Welcombe on the Devon coast.

The liner Homeric was 20 hours late in reaching Southampton from New York after touching at Cherbourg. The storm had been so terrific on Friday that the huge ship had to heave to for six hours. The waves even reached the promenade decks, 60 feet above the load line, and smashed a dozen plate glass windows. One man in the first class dining room was thrown in a quadruple somersault across the floor, but was unhurt. The orchestra, playing in the lounge, was thrown from the platform into a heap with the instruments.

The Italian steamer Leonardo da Vinci reported by radio tonight that it was still fighting a furious gale. The ship is bringing paintings valued at $17,000,000 for a special exhibition here.

Two members of the crew of the destroyer Walpole were washed overboard and drowned while the vessel was en route from Portsmouth to Chatham.

German Steamer Wrecked.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The German steamer Aagir, which ran ashore on the west coast of Gotland yesterday, appeared tonight likely to become a total wreck. One man drowned today when four of the crew tried to row ashore and the boat was overturned.

Two Perish in Waves.

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The third gale within a few days swept over Holland today. A huge dry dock of 11,999 tons being brought from Hamburg to Rotterdam was broken in two and two of the men on board perished.

Wall Crushes Three Girls.

PARIS, Dec. 9.—Three sisters were crushed under a wall toppled by the violent wind at Lille last night as they were nearing home after the day's work.

PARSON WARNS FLOCK OF DIRE EVIL OF BRIDGE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 8.—Cheriewood, in Hertfordshire, is not the most cosmopolitan of English towns, so the most dreadful sin its pastor has to combat is that of playing bridge. The Rev. W. E. Woodhams Denham, the vicar of the town, sent out a Christmas letter to his parishioners warning them of the dire consequences of the insidious game.

"The evils derived from bridge are far reaching," says the crusading pastor. "They breed bitterness among friends and broken families," he says.

As an afterthought the pastor adds a long postscript in which he wishes a happy Christmas to the sinful flock.

Merchant's Son Plunges to Death from Window

New York, Dec. 8. — [Special.] — Thomas Dallam Toy Jr., 21, son of the president of Thomas D. Toy & Co., yarn merchant, was killed tonight when he fell from a window in the offices of the W. L. Brann Advertising company on the fifth floor of the Pershing Square building. Apparently no one saw the youth fall. He had gone to the offices of the advertising agency, where he was employed.

MOUNT VERNON GETS MINISTER.

GOVERNOR NEARS DECISION ON NEW PARK APPOINTEES

Report Reum May Head Lincoln Board.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

After four days of conferences in Chicago, Gov. Emmerson arrived at a decision closer to a decision on the personnel of the new Lincoln and west park boards. The governor and Mrs. Emmerson left for Washington yesterday noon and no official announcement of the appointments is expected before Saturday.

Friends of the governor were of the opinion yesterday that he has practically decided upon two new commissioners for the Lincoln park system with also two for the west parks. For each board that leaves five more to be named.

Reports Selections Made.

The reported north side selections are Sheldon Clark of the Sinclair Oil company and Oscar Reum, a plasterer contractor. Mr. Clark is a resident of the 43d ward, and Mr. Reum of the 44th.

It is thought that the latter will be the governor's choice for the presidency. He is said to have sufficient money so that he could devote considerable time to the office, which appeals to the governor strongly.

A quartet of other prominent citizens whose names have been urged upon the governor are Charles A. McCulloch, George Dixon, Arthur Meeker, and George Woodruff. Mr. McCulloch is reported to have arranged his financial affairs so that he is free to do as he pleases, and desires to go to Florida for two or three months. He does not want the honor. When he heard that he was being seriously considered, he started a boom for Warren Wright. Mr. Wright, who is wealthy, has taken no prominent part in politics and the political caliers upon the governor haven't been able to express any opinion.

Expect Woodruff to Decline.

The prophets say that Mr. Woodruff of the National Bank of the Republic will probably be named as a commissioner, if he will accept; but it is predicted that he will decline. It is thought he would prefer to remain as treasurer of the Lincoln park board.

The pleas for Mr. Dixon are said to have been many and strong. He has a number of friends who appear to want him honored. It is generally understood, although no politician was found with first hand information, that Mr. Meeker of Armour & Co. is willing to accept an appointment.

One difficulty in selecting members from those mentioned is that they all live in the south end of the Lincoln park district. The governor has no intention of dealing out the places by wards, but he is said to feel that various parts of the Lincoln park district should have representation.

Wants Efficient Men.

Word has also gone out that the new boards are to be Emmerson boards, as distinguished from boards belonging to this or that faction of the Republicans. The governor has said frankly that he desires men who will not only have the confidence of the public but will do enough work to give a good park administration.

U. J. "Sport" Herrmann can probably have a place on the Lincoln park board if he will accept it. He broke with Thompson to work for Emmerson and the governor has twice before offered him appointments. James Waller, owner of a number of north side newspapers, who is credited with having contributed liberally to Ald. Arthur Alberts's last campaign, has been urged upon the governor; but it is said that he does not care much for the place.

Thomas H. Gilmore, coal merchant, is reported to be willing to accept an appointment if tendered him. Two other names pushed forward rather strongly are Edwin L. Read, president of the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank, and John C. Bowers, president of the Central Uptown association. A recent death of one of his bank officials has placed more work upon Mr. Read and it is now reported as uncertain whether he would accept.

Curto Is Possibility.

V. J. Curto, in the real estate business and former head of the Uptown association, is still another who has been warmly commended to the governor, but his friends apparently did not know that he lives outside of the Lincoln park districts, although in the 50th ward.

It is said to be reasonably certain that one place on the board will be given to a Scandinavian. The prominent entry is Edward Hegland, retired, who has accumulated wealth in the real estate and banking business.

West Park Situation.

For the west park board, the two most likely appointees at present are J. R. James of the Gammon Cartage company and John P. Garner, former alderman, county commissioner and at present a north Austin banker. Mr. James is a close personal friend and hunting partner of the governor. While active for the election of the governor, he is not known otherwise in politics.

A third man, Theodore Bunte, the candy man, appears to have a large number of friends who would like to see him on the park board.

John Dill Robertson, president of the west park system, called upon the governor while he was in Chicago. The doctor related in some detail the plans of the present board and the difficulties in the path for the general information of the governor. Dr. Robertson is said to have told the governor that he is ready to step aside whenever it is desired.

VICTORIA CROSS HERO "WARMS UP" CAR; FOUND DEAD

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 3.—Back but a week from London, England, where, in company with other Victoria cross winners, he dined with the prince of Wales, Capt. George Fraser, died here today as the result of carbon monoxide gas poisoning as he was reading a book in his automobile, which he was "warming up" in his garage. His wife found the body. In the fall of 1918, singlehanded, he assailed a German machine gun nest and captured it along with 31 prisoners.

NATIONAL FARM BUREAU TO OPEN SESSIONS TODAY

BY PAUL POTTER.

Reviewing a decade of organized agriculture under the leadership of the farm bureau, Sam H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau federation will call the eleventh annual meeting of that organization to order this morning at Hotel Sherman. Upwards of five thousand delegates from every farming community of importance in the nation are expected to be in attendance. The sessions will last three days.

More than a million farmers belong to county, state or national farm bureaus, according to officers. The trend toward centralization of farmers' organizations, in order to secure a single mouthpiece for agriculture, has taken fully the ten years. Especially since the passage of the federal marketing act last June, the farm bureau, the national grange and the farmers' union have been working together in giving governments, both federal and state, a single opinion on economic and political problems of the farmer.

Chief Claims Success.

"The objects of the farm bureau federation," according to Mr. Thompson, "are to develop, strengthen and correlate the work of local farm bureaus, and especially to encourage and promote coöperation of all representative agricultural organizations in efforts to improve facilities and conditions for the economic and efficient production, conservation, marketing, transportation and distribution of farm products, and to determine nationwide policies. We believe this has been accomplished successfully."

With six of the nine speakers on the federation program representing the federal administration or governmental activities, consideration of four chief farm problems are expected: farm finance, inland waterway development, taxation and development of secondary roads for farmers.

Officials Map Policies.

Officials and directors of the federation were in session in Chicago the last three days. The resolutions committee, with E. A. O'Neal, Alabama, vice president of the federation as chairman, has considered nearly all the problems to be submitted as policies of the organization.

Considerable discussion took place regarding the bill introduced in congress by Senator S. W. Brookhart and Congressman L. J. Dickinson, Iowa, to merge the administration of the federal farm loan board and the federal farm board.

Alexander Legge, chairman of the federal farm board, will speak today, on an unannounced subject. His address will be followed by a round table discussion led by state farm bureau presidents.

In addition to voting on policies of tariff, and the other problems mentioned previously, it is expected that the federation will favor an amendment to the federal marketing act to bring coöperative purchasing associations of farmers within the farm board's scope.

Baptist Gains Greater in China Than in U. S.

Greater net gains in membership of the Northern Baptist church are recorded in China than in the United States, according to Dr. Frank Padelford of New York. Dr. Padelford is the secretary of the board of education of the Northern Baptist church. He has made an exhaustive study of all phases of the church's life during the last two years. He read a report yesterday before 150 executive leaders and 300 members of Chicago congregations who met at the Stevens hotel to set up the 1930 budget of the church.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Dec. 8. — In the name of Virgil, the poet of imperial Rome's greatness and bucolic virtues, Premier Mussolini, while addressing a big crowd of Italian farmers in the Argentina theater this morning, urged them to produce such a bumper crop next year that "the Italian people will be free from the bondage of foreign bread." The Duce distributed $85,000 in prizes to the 50 winners of this year's "battle for grain" which produced a record output of 250,000,000 bushels, or nine-tenths of the country's needs.

"Next year, O agricultural comrades," said the Duce in the best style of antique Rome, "will be the anniversary of Virgil, the poet of the empire and of the fields. We agriculturalists must celebrate it in a Fascist manner through work."

Farmers Aid Trade Balance.

Premier Mussolini, who runs a good sized farm himself, told the farmers that their effort had aided substantially in reducing Italy's adverse trade balance by eliminating large wheat imports. He said that next year he hoped they would eliminate all agricultural imports.

The year's yield averaged 50 bushels per acre as compared to 35 bushels per acre during pre-war years. Premier Mussolini's objective is a yield of 55 bushels per acre for the entire country, which he figures will free Italy from the need of worry about a food blockade in wartime.

Pre-War Crops Beaten.

This year's total grain crop is the greatest ever produced in Italy. Pre-war crops generally averaged around 200,000,000 bushels.

Fascism has succeeded in effecting this bumper crop through drastic control of farming and by encouraging the use of scientific methods. Six or seven trucks with agricultural experts were organized into caravans, which went about the country instructing farmers in the best methods of cultivation. In addition the state compels each land owner to sow so many acres per year in wheat.

Price of Bread Maintained.

Despite this year's big crop, the price of bread will not drop in Italy, as regulations and import taxes have been adjusted so that the agriculturist will not be hit by a fall in grain prices because of the larger quantity on the market.

The winners of this year's prizes were divided into three groups, namely: large scale farmers, middle sized farmers, and those who exploit only a few acres. The prizes ranged from $250 to $1,000. Among the big land owners and farmers who won prizes were Prince Boncompagni, governor of Rome, and Senator Francesco di Ugo, both of whom were awarded $1,000.

10 Bandits Rob 15 Autos; Mexican Troops Pursue

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Ten bandits today held up 15 automobiles at the point of rifles near the village of Agua Bendita, on the road to Toluca, and robbed the occupants. Troops were sent in pursuit.

Russia's Envoy to Berlin Off for Moscow Suddenly

40 'WITCH' WIVES FACE TRIAL FOR HUSBAND MURDER

Will Ask Death; Cases Set for Friday, Dec. 13.

BY ROBERT SAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Dec. 8.—Friday, Dec. 13, has been chosen as the opening day of the trial of the first of the forty peasant women, charged with murdering husbands by poisoning.

They will take the stand in the town of Szolnok to explain the amazing wave of medieval witchcraft which has swept through the "Tisza corner," a primitive district of Lower Hungary, near the juncture of th Tisza and Danube rivers, where husband poisoning has proven very popular in recent years.

Expect Death Sentences.

The forthcoming trials already have become the main topic of conversation in Budapest, where it is considered inevitable that the entire band of "witches" will be condemned to death, thus breaking for the first time in years the unwritten Hungarian law that women be spared from the gallows.

During the preliminary investigation 50 graves of dead husbands were opened and 46 of the unfortunate breadwinner were found to have met their end, guzzling wine, which had been doped with arsenic. The troupe of husband killers includes wives as young as 20 years and as old as 70, all of whom are believed to have been influenced by "sorceresses" who inhabit the isolated regions of Hungary.

Three Prisoners End Own Lives.

During the investigation three of the alleged ringleaders of the gang committed suicide. The principal one among these was Susi Olah, notorious midwife, who is believed to have been implicated in at least 100 husband poisonings. She stabbed herself to death when the police came to arrest her. Her sister, Mydia Olah, however, will be brought before the court.

Similar trials are opening in the near future in the towns of Kecskemet and Guyla, where several dozen more women are in jail on the same charges.

"TELLS THE WORLD" HOW TO CHECK A COUGH

MR. FREDERICK JACKSON
"Take REM" is his advice
Mr. Frederick Jackson of 118 Newburgh St., Buffalo, N. Y., has only one regret in regard to REM. And that is that he didn't know about it sooner! He had been troubled with a bad cough for several weeks when he happened to see REM in Jenczka's Drug Store on Genesee St. He bought a bottle and that very night he slept without coughing—the first really restful night he had enjoyed in quite a while. Now Mr. Jackson is so enthusiastic about REM that he says, "I would tell anybody I heard coughing to try REM, whether I knew them or not." No other cough medicine has the same formula as REM, and after all, "It's the formula that counts!" Ask for REM for prompt cough relief.

WILL TO LEARN CHIEF GOAL OF GARY TEACHERS

"Child World" at School Is Spacious One.

What happens in the schools of a town which, although it has in other respects been badly used by weak and corrupt politicians, insists on keeping its schools out of politics, is related in this second and final article on "the Gary plan."

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

In Gary, where the "Gary Plan school" flourishes unvexed by politics, they keep a child in school more hours of the day and more days of the week than the traditional school can.

And they do it by making school the most interesting place in town.

"You can't do much for school children," says William A. Wirt, originator of the Gary plan and for twenty-two years superintendent of Gary's public schools, "unless you can keep them in school. If they find life outside the school more interesting, more actual—I don't mean merely more amusing—they will seek the life outside. Hence the supreme task of the teacher is to create a vivid child world in the school.

Urge to Learn Goal.

"The biggest thing is to change the reluctant attitude of the child toward the school. If you can make children want to learn what the school has to teach them, ninety per cent of your job is done. For then they will feel that the school is getting them somewhere.

"You know, father," said a Gary boy who had received no home instruction in sex, "that I've figured it out that I was born just about as a rabbit is."

There was no self-consciousness, nothing morbid, nothing sly in the further views he imparted. He had come on an interesting topic and he had "figured it out." His wholesome state of mind was the result of the method in which natural history is studied in Gary schools.

School Has Zoo.

In connection with the leading Gary schools there are zoölogical gardens opening off the school playgrounds. The original equipment of cages, pens, runways, chicken houses, and stables was paid for by the school board. The upkeep is met by the profits of the animal husbandry conducted by the children—sale of eggs, chickens, pheasants, and so on.

The zoo I was shown through is at Emerson school—named after the sage of Concord—and it contains ravens, raccoons, squirrels, Shetland ponies, foxes, golden pheasants, chickens, and guinea pigs. The food bill runs $75 a month. Sale of eggs pays it. Some of the animals are gifts by the children; others they buy with the profits of their husbandry and their exhibitions. A boy with a pet does not have to doom it to a brief life in the basement of an apartment house. He brings it to the school zoo. There it thrives—and the boy acquires the dignity of contributing patron.

Children Protect Pets.

The children grow up with the animals. To treat them well becomes a kind of religion. The Emerson squirrels with which I visited are as tame as kittens. Robins nest so boldly amid clamorous children that an Emerson child can reach from a swing into their nests. And the child does peer into the nest with strict scrutiny. The robins remain unperturbed. Last summer a child new to the school annoyed nesting birds. In an instant five children were on his back and he sinned no more along those lines.

There is no illicit lure and there are no nasty implications in the kind of biological knowledge the children acquire from their study of natural history through the medium of the school zoo. They learn—largely without being specifically told—the necessity of a vigorous parent stock if a species is to continue to flourish. "As a consequence," so Principal E. A. Spaulding of Emerson school told me, "they accept not as a preachment but as a perfectly normal matter of course the dictum, 'You are responsible for the well-being of your posterity.

"Child World" Spacious.

The "child world" in a Gary school is not a childish world. It is not trivial. It is spacious. Everything which the children are taught is linked with its large scientific or aesthetic aspects in the annals of mankind and with the practicalities of the world as it has to be lived in. There is no folde-rol.

Take the cafeteria at Horace Mann school for an illustration: Most school cafeterias are farmed out, with the result that children often are served with inferior and ill prepared food. But in a Gary school the cafeteria is an integral part of the curriculum. It is definitely under a teacher, and grade school girls who are taking cooking lessons help prepare the food under the instruction of that teacher and her assistants. The lesson is no mere messing about. As Principal Lutz put it, "The daily luncheon hours, which run from 11:15 to 1:15 o'clock, are a daily examination, for these girls have to prepare food that is good enough to sell. The only things we hire help for are the things, such as dishwashing, that are not of educational value."

Luncheons Excellent Value.

The average cost of a luncheon is 20 cents, and I can testify that it is excellent value. The school serves from 700 to 800 pupils daily. At 1:15 o'clock the large room is promptly freshened up, largely through the orderly coöperation of the pupils, and becomes a sewing room. You may recall that in the first of these two articles emphasis was placed upon the fact that no room in a Gary school lies idle any hour of the school day.

Every year the cafeteria shows a small profit, not because it is run for profit but because it is rightly run. That profit goes into the purchase of a painting for Horace Mann school. The plan is followed in other Gary schools. The result is that those schools own a collection of paintings conservatively valued at $40,000. In Emerson school alone there are $10,000 worth of pictures, purchased from cafeteria profits and from the profits of various kinds of exhibitions given by the pupils.

Pupils Choose Pictures.

The pictures are bought in no hit or miss manner, but are chosen by the pupils after careful study with their teachers of collections of paintings sent—largely by Chicago artists—to the schools. The purchasers are not told what they "ought to like," but in a tactful way they are told what is worth liking in a given picture. Hence, when they buy they not only know what they like but also why they like it.

Sewing is not just sewing in a Gary school, for the girls in the sewing classes give an hour one day of every week to the study of textiles, how they are made and how to buy them. The teaching of sewing in the very early grades is peculiar to Gary. It begins in the fifth grade, when the child is eight years old. And here it is taught every day. In most public schools it is taught one day a week.

Work Carefully Done.

Printing as learned by a Gary schoolboy is so good that the school printing offices turn out all the forms and letterheads used by the teachers, and the profits derived from the work go to some school cause. The work done in the school forges is such sound craftsmanship that it commands the admiration of experts in the steel mills. There is no muddling about anywhere in anything, whether it be auto repair or a pupils' band concert. Twenty-four hundred boys and girls are in the Gary school bands, "and that," said Principal Lutz, "is more than you have in the school bands of Chicago." The instruments are bought either by the pupil or by the school out of a fund created by the proceeds of band concerts. In Emerson school alone 600 boys and girls are studying instrumental music one hour a day five days a week. I heard fifty of them from the fourth grade at practice and, it seemed to me, they played with notable precision and feeling.

At Emerson school, too, the pupils are making, under a union cabinet maker, most of the movable furniture used by the school.

And so it goes, under this wonderful system, from the gardens, the swimming pools, the junior R. O. T. C.—results, results, results, as distinguished from puttering! Ninety per cent of the pupils can swim. The federal government has one captain and two drill sergeants on the scene for the training of the 800 pupils who are taking the junior R. O. T. C. work.

Pupils Work Out Programs.

Suppose you are a teacher of mathematics in a Gary school. You don't merely teach from a textbook and hear routine recitations. You prepare a program on the history of mathematics and on the lives of notable contributors to that science. This program is worked out by the pupils. They now are not pupils merely, but participators. The program may be enlivened by a mathematical contest or by a discussion on calculating machines. All this may mean three weeks of preparation. The great day comes. The group that has had the work in hand meets in the auditorium. One of the pupils presides. By his side sits another pupil, who acts as secretary.

When I learned of those last two details I understood why the dozens of Gary school children with whom I visited about their work were free from the raw self-consciousness and awkwardness of the juvenile who has had no training in the formalities of public conduct. These children answered questions with precision, but not priggishly, for they were delightfully spontaneous. Instantly we got on a basis. They imparted information readily and I learned easily because what they said was interesting and to the purpose.

That the Gary plan "gets the pupil somewhere," as Superintendent Wirt put it, is tellingly indicated by the fact that in a Gary public school the teachers have the children ready for the university at the age of sixteen and a half years. Elsewhere the average is 18 years.

And consider this:

Of the 20,000 children in the Gary public schools there are not a dozen who are not attending school the full seven hours a day, although by the Indiana law they could come only five hours a day, as in the traditional public school.

PRIZES FOR AIRPORT DESIGNS AWARDED; CHICAGOAN SECOND

New York, Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Winners in the competition for a modern airport design sponsored by the Lehigh Portland Cement company were announced today by Raymond Hood, the architect and chairman of the jury of awards. Two hundred and fifty-seven designs were submitted.

A first prize of $5,000 went to A. C. Zimmerman and William H. Harrison, architects of Los Angeles. C. Clifford Rich, architectural designer of Chicago, took the second award of $2,500. A third prize of $1,000 was won jointly by Odd Nansen of East Orange, N. J., and Latham C. Squire of New York. And a fourth prize went to Will Rice Amon of New York. Twelve others were honorably mentioned and received a $100 reward each.

The design of the winners concentrates all of the buildings in one corner of a rectangular field, leaving a quadrant shaped area for the runways and flying. A passenger terminal building with underground passages to the loading and unloading points is flanked by hangars at the edge of the flying area. The design provides for parking spaces for automobiles, a hotel, recreation building, shops, and amusement concessions arranged in a triangular park.

THE COLONY OF PENNSYLVANIA.

The senate, as was expected, has refused to accept the credentials of Vare, elected senator by Pennsylvania. It was conceded that he had been elected, but a majority of the senators, Democrats and radical Republicans, did not approve of the manner in which he was nominated. Pennsylvania has been deprived of a senator for two years and Vare has his place taken from him because the majority did not like the political methods of the state. The arbitrary decision was that too much money had been spent in his campaign. He spent more than Pinchot, but less than the Pepper-Fisher combination. The decision in an earlier case was that Newberry of Michigan had spent too much money. That was approximately what Pinchot spent.

The senate morals do not grow uneasy at any fixed sum. Brother Pinchot probably could have convinced the radicals, if not the Democrats, that the sum spent for him was civic, although the same amount used in Michigan was not. There is evidently no moral price list. As Vare said in his defense, the vote which has elected some of the radicals and the pure in heart comes considerably higher per citizen than his own did.

The senators did not have the courage to proceed further and declare themselves the electors of Pennsylvania and seat Wilson, the Democrat, who was not elected, although ten Democrats and five radical defenders of the people voted to do so. That would have been the complete extinguishment of Pennsylvania as a state in a representative form of government. It is interesting that there could be fifteen votes for it.

A million dollars more money was spent for the Pepper-Fisher combination than was spent for Vare. Pepper lost out for the renomination for the senate, but Fisher won the nomination for governor and now holds that office. With Vare sent home there is a vacancy which Fisher can fill by appointment. The combination which opposed Vare and more than doubled his cash expenditures can name the new senator. He will owe his place to precisely what the senate condemns in the case of Vare, only there was twice as much of it.

Some thought of this was in the mind of Senator Nye of North Dakota. Mr. Nye warned Gov. Fisher to watch his step and be careful of his selection. If he sent in the name of such a man as Joseph Grundy he'd be sent home the same as Vare. Thus the people of Pennsylvania may not elect and the governor of the state may not fill a vacancy by their own decision. The constitution apparently should provide that the senate elect its own members and Washington should give more thought to the administration of colonies. The United States is getting some new ones.

THE AMERICAN STANDARD OF CLEANLINESS.

A few days ago Col. William Cooper Procter, the soap manufacturer, speaking of business prospects, said: "I do not believe that even the most severe period of depression would result in a variation of more than 1 per cent in our sales."

The American standard of cleanliness is, of course, only one item, though an extremely important one, in the American standard of living. A people which would continue to buy soap as usual even if money for bread was running low is apparently hopelessly addicted to the habit of cleanliness. Soap in our lives is only less important than bread. In this respect we are at least as godly as the Germans, whose craving for soap is not likely to be forgotten by men who served in the army of occupation. Germany had used up a vast proportion of her home grown fats for war purposes and had little left to give the soap manufacturers. Germans who were too proud to beg for food humbled themselves to beg our soldiers for soap.

If war or a blockade should cut off our supply of vegetable oils from abroad we should be little better off than the Germans were in 1918. It is stated that 30 per cent of the oils used in Col. Procter's leading product is cocoanut oil, most of which is brought in from across the Pacific. What the average is for American manufacturers of household soaps we do not know, but it is probably not greatly different. American cleanliness is thus largely dependent upon overseas trade and in times of emergency it will be dependent upon the ability of the navy to keep the sea lanes open. Those who speak lightly of weakening our navy do not know it, but in reality they are placing the American standard of comfort and cleanliness in jeopardy. Soap is only one of many essential commodities which we must obtain in part from abroad or do without.

TAKING IT OUT ON THE PEOPLE.

The city council finance committee has voted tentatively major reductions in the staffs of the police and fire departments for 1930. Thus the aldermen have started to adjust the budget to a $9,000,000 deficit.

It seems significant that the aldermen should order the first substantial curtailment in the vital services of the city. The suspicion cannot be avoided that this was the method of impenitent politicians. The city's financial embarrassment has been produced by years of extravagance, maladministration, and misappropriation. Now the dilemma is acute and settlement may not be deferred. If the politicians were conscientious they might balance their next year's income with expenditures by correcting those wasteful practices which have caused the deficit. But instead the officials approach the problem of arranging a sound fiscal program with a gesture of helpless innocence. They say that the city is a victim of circumstance and that the people must pay by sacrificing protection of their lives and their property.

Whether this was deliberate strategy, nevertheless the voters are likely to be intimidated and prepared for an invitation to contribute greater revenue to the government. It was not the conception of men who wanted to reform the financial process, but a scheme to get more money from the taxpayers. The aldermen did not address themselves to the problem of whether the police and fire departments could, by more competent management, be administered better with a smaller appropriation. They assumed for purposes of the record that the services of the departments would be seriously impaired. There is no talk in the council chamber of reforming the methods of government in order to establish an honorable financial condition. The politicians take it for granted, and expect their constituents to take it for granted, that the only solution of the problem is to strike at the most useful municipal functions.

The politicians will defend their conduct by showing how much is spent for the maintenance of the various municipal departments and claiming that decreases in appropriations will bring proportionate sacrifices in service. The theory of that argument is that the city is now being operated with the highest degrees of business honesty, ability, and judgment. That theory is nonsense.

THE DUCATS AND THE DAUGHTER

Melvin Traylor has returned from his labors abroad in connection with the international bank. He reports the vast growth in recent years of the French gold reserve. France, he says, has a growing hoard of gold which already may exceed that of the United States. Withdrawals of French gold from London, he might have added, are a continuing source of anxiety to British financiers, who expected that their worries would be over after the break in the American market. Increasingly Europe is turning to France for credits. France has, it is estimated, something like $1,600,000,000 to her credit in London and the United States, besides $1,500,000,000 in gold in her own vaults.

Uncle Shylock, it will be recalled, was reviled for daring to ask for a repayment of part of the French debt. We were told that France was hopelessly impoverished by the war and that to take as much as we asked was enslaving future generations of Frenchmen. The truth now is evident. We were bamboozled by a hard luck story into giving alms to the owner of a row of flat buildings.

France today is richer in gold and physical resources than she was before the war. She has the most important mineral deposits on the continent and a vast colonial empire which may some day be good for something besides climate. She is more nearly self-sustaining than any other nation in Europe. All of her present prosperity she owes in greater or less degree to American aid in the war. The cheerful manner in which France offered to repay her debt to this country, her eagerness, indeed, to honor her obligations to the nation which had helped to save her from destruction, constitutes one of the striking episodes in the post-war chronicle of international good will.

The Other Side

OHIO SERVES NOTICE.
(Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

The attorney general of Ohio speaks in the public interest when he suggests that members of congress from the lake states be on guard against Chicago's effort to change their thinking on the diversion issue from terms of sewage and power to transportation.

In effect what Chicago wants to do is to persuade congress to reverse the Supreme court. If hopes the country will forget about sewage and lake levels and give way to dreams of a glorious waterway to the gulf.

There is, of course, nothing new in this. It is merely given fresh emphasis as the time approaches when a new congressional session will open and Special Master Hughes prepares to report his findings to the Supreme court.

What Chicago seeks primarily is federal permission to use all the water needed to float the city's raw sewage down the Illinois river toward the gulf: her secondary desire is to use the volume of water extracted from the lakes for the manufacture of power.

What Chicago now pretends to seek is practically an unlimited quantity of water for a waterway to connect the lakes and the gulf.

Those who have long fought Chicago's present policy of wholesale extraction of water raise no issue whatever against any feasible proposal for a waterway to the gulf. Competent testimony has been given that for the purposes of a barge canal—the only kind of waterway here economically possible—not more than 1,000 cubic second feet of water from the lakes would be required. At least ten times this much is now being diverted under the plan which the Supreme court has condemned.

If there is any issue between the states fighting diversion and the interests anxious for a lakes-to-gulf waterway, it is of Chicago's own making. It exists because apologists for diversion insist on taking many times more water than actually needed for a barge canal.

Ohio has lost three leaders in the anti-diversion fight—Senators Burton and Willis and Harvey D. Goulder. It still has Newton D. Baker and Gilbert Bettman, while Cleveland's member of the rivers and harbors committee, Charles A. Mooney, is in a position to continue his effective work against Chicago's effort to capitalize other people's resources.

Mr. Bettman's statement serves notice, if any were needed, that Ohio is still in the fight, and will use its influence to prevent the Lake Michigan city from using water that belongs to 120,000,000 people to save itself the expense of taking care of its own wastes.

RACE OF BEARD AND RAZOR.

WHILE this is not a beauty column and no claim for erudition in this field is made, physicians occasionally discover something by accident or design which may interest the pulchritudinous.

Dr. Seymour investigated the effect of shaving on the rate at which the beard grew. He very carefully measured the length of the removed beard hair. Exactly duplicating all parts of the shaving processes in two groups of experiments on the same man, he found that when shaving was done at intervals of sixteen hours the combined length of the cut hairs was about one and a half times as great as when shaving was done at intervals of forty-one to fifty hours. Or, more simply put, shaving twice a day caused the rate of growth of the beard to speed up about 50 per cent.

Dr. H. Sharlit reviewed the evidence in this case and drew some conclusions from it. A hair grows at its base or so-called root and the new growing part pushes the older part before it. This push or lift uses up some of the energy of the growth cells. As the length of the hair increases, this energy requirement becomes a factor in retarding growth. Long hair grows more slowly than short.

This line of thinking caused Dr. Sharlit to consider the cells of the skin and of the hair and grease follicles in relation to baldness and health of the scalp as well as to the growth of the hair. We know very little about the reasons for baldness outside of certain inheritance factors. He thinks the whole mass of hair tonics and scalp remedies are of no service of themselves. However, all the washing, cleaning and brushing before applying them and while doing so is of service in curing those skin troubles out of which much of the baldness develops.

It is the use of the medicine and not the medicine itself which does the good. He says the doctor prescribes a hair or scalp tonic, the druggist fills the prescription, and the patient applies it. On the other hand, the operator of a beauty parlor when she tackles the job washes the hair and scalp, applies the remedy herself, and does it with much rubbing and brushing. Her treatments are much more expensive than the service rendered by the physician. Nevertheless, she gets the business because the application of the remedy is more important than the remedy itself.

Dr. Sharlit thinks bobbing the hair may lead to an increase of baldness in women. Under the old order women spent much time cleaning and brushing the hair. Bobbed hair gets a lick and a promise, and in time baldness may be the penalty.

SULPHUR AS A FOOD.

W. J. writes: In what form can sulphur be taken internally? Is there any food that contains sulphur?

REPLY:

Sulphur and molasses is more venerable than the constitution. There are scores of ways of taking sulphur. The drug stores carry plenty of it. Sulphur in food is another matter. This chemical is fairly plentiful in those foods which produce acid ash; for instance, eggs, lean meats, and milk albumins. It is also present in cabbage, cauliflower, turnips, corn and asparagus.

ONE OF CHEMICAL ELEMENTS.

Anxious writes:

1. What is calcium?
2. Has it food value?
3. In what foods is it most abundant?

REPLY.

1. It is one of the chemical elements. We think of calcium as lime.
2. Yes, particularly in pregnant women and growing children. It is used to build bone and teeth. It has some relation to poise and calm.
3. The foods richest in lime, or calcium, are milk, cheese, cream, butter, salads and greens, and some other vegetables, particularly peas and beans, molasses, nuts, and bran breads.

PAID NO HEAD TAX.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—[Friend of the People.]—A man and his family entered the United States in 1923 and he has since taken out his first naturalization papers. He is now ready to apply for his second papers and is wondering if the fact that he neglected to pay a head tax upon entering the United States in 1923 [though his entry was legal] would prevent him from securing his second papers? He came from Canada. A. R.

Since June 3, 1921, no alien could enter the United States for permanent residence as an immigrant without paying the immigration head tax of $8, and if the person referred to did not pay the head tax he did not make a legal entry for naturalization purposes.

H. L. ROETHE,
Acting District Director of Naturalization.

HOMEMADE WINE.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is the making of wine for home use permitted by the government? M. G.

The prohibition enforcement officers have ruled that a householder who manufactures in his home for home consumption ciders and fruit juices which acquire by fermentation one-half of one per cent or more of alcohol by volume, but which are not intoxicating in fact, does not violate the law; but that the law is violated if the fermentation process is allowed to proceed to the point where the beverages become intoxicating in fact.

WHERE THE WIFE SIGNED.

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. My wife signed my name to a paper which proved later to be an assignment of wages. [a] Is this assignment legal? [b] How can they be made to produce original assignment for inspection of signature? 2. I filed voluntary bankruptcy and scheduled an Illinois firm as creditor. After they received notice of creditors' meeting they filed an assignment of wages against me. [a] Can this firm claim any portion of my wages? [b] Can they hold and claim all wages until I get my discharge? [c] Will discharge release all wages to me. E. V. T.

1. [a] No. [b] It should be ignored until produced. 2. [a] Yes. They can claim wages covered by the security. [b] Yes. [c] No. The assignment of wages is like a mortgage in that release of a personal obligation would not release the security.

MY MOST EMBARRASSING MOMENT.

(As We Think Secretary Stimson Might Write It.)

O, Most Embarrasing Moments Ed,
I take my pen in hand
To tell a thing which made me blush,
Embarrasing! O, my land!

You see, I wrote a warning note
To those horrid Russian Reds;
I told them that their cruel war
Just tore my heart to shreds.

I said they shouldn't kill the Chinks
Or give them grievous hurts;
For Chinks are human after all and—
Just grand for washing shirts.

I told those horrid Russians
That they should feel remorse;
For nothing ever justifies
A brute resort to force.

And so I asked those Soviets
To stop, refrain, desist;
And if they did not do it
I'd slap them on the wrist.

I was so pleased at what I'd done,
And proud as one may be;
When suddenly I got the word—
Of trouble down in Haiti.

The president of that wretched isle
Was emitting piercing screams;
I was so embarrassed, for I had
To send those rough marines.

I cannot tell the shame I felt,
It cut me to the core!
Now, honestly, I could have gone
Right straight down through the floor!

So while to Haiti, far away,
Our ships and troops are rushing;
Whenever I think of the Soviets,
I never get through blushing!

THE TOWN of Climax, Mich., brags that it has a calf with two heads, three eyes, four noses, six horns, and its tongue upside down; and that it is drawing terrific crowds. That's nothin'. Alabama's got Senator Heflin.

PERSONS UNKNOWN have daubed the steps of the United States embassy in London with red paint. Now, in Chicago they would have thrown a bomb. But they can't throw bombs in London because it's never been done. Over here we are not handicapped by ancient customs.

Oh, At Least!

RHL: This is how it happened. I had my little Line Book with me first thing Friday morning, but what chance has a guy got to read on the "L"? So when I arrived at prison I parked it right alongside my typewriter and after each letter I'd open it, oh, just anywhere, and read a poem or something. Sometimes I'd laugh out loud, forgetting, in my joy, that there was such a thing as business and a horrid, suspicious old boss watching me out of the corner of his eye. Finally I got to that long one about George V. by Al, and I guess I must have laughed several times, but—well, anyway, I haven't my Line Book any more and I've been nearly killed three times since by the mad mob trying to buy another one, so you might at least have the kindness to print this. TREVE.

OUR GROCERY MAN is charging us three cents more a dozen for eggs. We wish that Mr. Hoover would call the big butter and egg men together down in Washington and make 'em promise not to lay off any more hens while this egg shortage lasts.

WE ARE BEGINNING to get the impression, we may be entirely wrong, it seems perfectly absurd, but yet somehow, when we read about the senate, and the fight Mr. Vare of Pennsylvania is making to get in, that—well it's our idea, and it's probably a very foolish one—but do you know we are beginning to think—that maybe they don't want Mr. Vare in there.

All Hands on Deck! Here Comes a Stranger.

Steamship companies get us all mixed up. Here comes a circular telling us all about a winter cruise in the Caribbean that says, "You will renew old acquaintances and form many new ones." And on board of every ship we've ever been on they have big signs in the smoking cabin, "Beware of strangers, they may be professional gamblers." Anyhow, we never form many new friendships on board ship because the new friends usually want to borrow cab fare when we get to New York, or they forget to return our fountain pen, or else they go over and talk in guarded whispers to the custom inspectors, and we get the dreadful idea that they're saying we've got diamonds smuggled in the heels of our shoes or in the double lining of our trunk. Or maybe they're saying that we're wanted by the police in Amsterdam, or that we're a congressman with two dozen bottles of Scotch in our suitcase. Anyhow, new friends on shipboard make us apprehensive, so we usually say we're deaf and dumb when they try to start up an acquaintance.

You've said to yourself so often most of the joy of Christmas giving has vanished. But you don't have to give them two presents—so why not do just that? That delicate etching you've thought of, that box of stockings or gloves, that stately biography, that important novel—yes, yes, of course, but for lagniappe add a gay little 1929 Linebook. It's that little bit more that makes for charm and excitement.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 9, 1864.

NEW YORK.—Port Royal papers of Dec. 4 arrived here. The Palmetto Herald says that on Nov. 29 a Union expedition went up Broad river to Boyd's point, thence moving inland several miles. On the next morning the rebels appeared in force—cavalry, infantry and artillery. The Union troops advanced and drove the enemy gradually back to a battery and entrenchments, where they made a stand. A hot engagement of seven hours ensued, during which there were several charges and counter charges. Night put a stop to the fighting, the lines on both sides remaining the same. Our casualties are variously estimated at from 600 to 1,000.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Gen. John A. Logan arrived here on his way to rejoin his corps. He expresses the fullest confidence in Sherman's ability to reach the Georgia coast without any serious damage to his army.

NEW YORK.—A Frederick dispatch says that Gen. Sheridan is making a clean sweep of the guerrillas in the Shenandoah valley. He has thrown his forces out in the direction of Leesburg, about twelve miles from the river, and has Mosby pretty well surrounded.

DENVER CITY.—A detachment of the 1st and 3d Colorado cavalry had a fight with the Indians near Fort Lyon. They killed between 400 and 500 Indians. Chiefs Black Kettle, White Antelope, and Little Rat were slain.

CHICAGO.—Margaret L. Campbell and Charles Brown were married on Dec. 6 by the Rev. Mr. Leonard, pastor of Bethel chapel.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 9, 1899.

FRANKFORT, Ky.—W. S. Taylor, Republican, gets the certificate of election as governor of Kentucky, from the state board of election commissioners, and William Goebel, his Democratic opponent, will take his claims before the legislature. Goebel expressed confidence that he will be "governor within two months."

LONDON. — Lord Methuen is still encamped in the vicinity of Modder river, but is having an exciting time of it. The Boers were out early today and blew up a few railroad culverts and cut Methuen's wires to Cape Town. London is growing anxious over Methuen's stay at Modder river, for it is known that Gen. Cronje's army has been divided and that Methuen is thus between two wings of the Boer forces.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 9, 1919.

WASHINGTON.—On the eve of the expected coal strike settlement upon peace terms proposed by President Wilson, Fuel Administrator Garfield issued orders for the conservation of coal more drastic than any which prevailed during the war. Manufacturing plants will be furnished coal sufficient for operation three days a week only. All stores may be lighted for six hours a day only, and all office buildings must turn off lights not later than 4 p. m. Street car service must be cut to the bone, and no car shall be heated during rush hours.

WASHINGTON.—Evidence that radicals in Mexico, with the support of President Carranza, plotted to instigate a revolution in the United States and to seize the border states is contained in the memorandum presented to President Wilson by Senator Fall of New Mexico, chairman of the foreign relations subcommittee investigating the Mexican situation.

PARIS.—The supreme council delivered a note dealing with the peace treaty to Baron von Lersner, head of the German peace delegation. It warns Germany "for the last time" that denunciation of the armistice would give the allied armies all latitude for necessary military measures and adds: "In this spirit we await without delay signature of the protocol and the exchange of ratifications."

THE CITY'S PLIGHT.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—A bowl has gone up from Faherty, Wolfe, Ettelson, and, probably, on the side, the mayor, for more bonds to finance the city's needs. If the mayor and Faherty, who are being sued for $2,000,000 that was misappropriated during their former terms of office, would pay this or a portion of it to the city the money stringency would be greatly relieved. The people of Chicago are tired of this lawless, spendthrift régime.

A mayor and his cabinet should consider their positions as ones of trust and conservation, giving to the people benefits in full measure for the money intrusted to their care for city improvements instead of considering it their privilege to make a grab bag of the treasury funds.

There are many and some necessary needs that could have been met had the funds not been improperly used. We need a filtering plant to remove the mud and slime to make drinking water palatable and the daily bath a cleansing and pleasurable performance. (For six weeks the water has been muddy and unbearable.) The squandered money would have gone a long way toward meeting this need. And widening streets might have been accomplished had constructive measures been used instead of prodigality.

The present administration need not think the intelligent citizen will vote for or otherwise sanction raising funds as long as the present spoils system continues. The city treasury and school treasury are empty; and how we read "The City Car Fund Milked," handicapping transportation improvement and bringing the city into a state of bankruptcy.

With this disgrace we have fallen heir to, the complete failure of the administration, and the decided stand taken against the city hall by the people at the last elections we should think that a self-respecting man would resign and take his cabinet with him. D. B. F.

ECONOMY IN THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—It doesn't seem fair to eliminate the old timers from the fire department. They risked their lives and took the responsibility of protecting lives and property, day and night, rain or shine. The finance committee of the city council should economize in some other way and give 800 additional men to bring the department somewhere near the demands of Fire Commissioner Albert W. Goodrich. E. F. S.

SPARE THE FIRE FIGHTERS.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—The council finance committee has decided to eliminate some positions from the police and fire departments.

As for the elimination of several policemen or reducing their salaries, I would say that's fine, but to eliminate firemen would be a calamity because the fireman gives us 100 per cent service. He is always on the job, whereas the policeman, whether on duty or not it's all the same to him. He gets his lunch, drinks, and cigars free of charge, and don't forget the protection money and the Christmas presents. Does the fireman get all these things? Indeed not; he receives only his salary, for which he renders honest to goodness service.

E. I. EVANS.

CURTAILMENT BY PENSION.

River Forest, Ill., Dec. 6.—I am shocked at the idea of adding to numbers in our police and fire departments.

If the civil service commission retires those men who should by law be retired and pensioned, we will have solved this problem. There are many men in the police ranks who are too old to be of real service. Many are physically unfit, and while these men have done their duty and service in the past they have earned a rest and should be retired and pensioned, thus making room for younger, stronger and healthier men.

W. M. KNUBEL.

TRIMMING THE COUNCIL PAY ROLL.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—Why do the aldermen not reduce their salary to $1,800 per year? Many of them are not worth more, and some of them are not worth a nickel a year. By doing this the fire and police departments could be saved.

ARNOLD STRAUSS.

REMEMBER THE FISHPANS.

Winnetka, Ill., Dec. 6.—While the city is looking for ways to economize, why not investigate the ark which is permanently moored in the river at Wells street and Wacker drive near the mouth of the Cook County Democracy club? Is it paying adequate rental for the use of the dock and the water an steam heat connection? The Fish Pan club, with its one hundred a day heating plant furnished gratis, is still free in the taxpayers' memory.

ALPHONSE D. DEMIS JR.

THE NICARAGUA COMPARISON.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—Now that public opinion is thoroughly aroused over the ingratitude of Russia, as expressed in Litvinov's reply to Secretary Stimson's note of intervention, editorials are flying furiously to show how terrible the bolsheviki are again.

It is only a short time ago that the United States was sending battleships upon boatload of marines to Nicaragua, ostensibly to guard banana plantations but actually to put down Sandino and his followers, who were obviously hostile to the gentleman from Wall street. Did Russia send a note to us then asking us what we were doing down in the two by four republic with artillery, infantry, and aero squadrons? Let's clean up our own back yards first.

A NICARAGUAN VETERAN.

THE EXIGENCIES OF SPACE.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—Rabbi Teller need not fear that he is overly captious. What the word Jew is improperly used as an adjective, as in Jew family or Jew doctor, it conveys a certain amount of contempt and sometimes condescension. Evidently the headline writer, in his desire to save space, committed an error both grammatical and social.

5 MORE IDENTIFY ALLEGED 'TORCH' VICTIM AS ALIVE

But Girl Who Told Story of Murder Balks.

Mountain View, Ark., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—The great Arkansas "torch murder" mystery took some strange turns today.

The man who claims he is Marion Connie Franklin, who was supposed to have been beaten, unconscious, burned alive, dismembered, and then thrown into a river last March, was brought here.

He was identified by five more persons, two of whom are among the five men accused of his murder.

He identified the girl who said she was his sweetheart and who claimed to have seen him murdered. He also identified her father. But both the girl and her father said they could not be certain whether the man was Franklin or not. Both are witnesses for the state in the murder trial of the five men.

Another state witness, a deaf mute, looked at Franklin and wrote on a piece of paper, "He is not the man I saw murdered."

Prosecutor to Go Ahead.

Meanwhile the prosecution plans to go ahead with the murder trial of the five men, beginning Monday, Dec. 16.

Tillier Ruminer, 16, mountain girl and intended bride of Franklin, stood before the man presented by defense attorneys this afternoon and would not identify him. This was after Franklin had picked the girl out of a crowd of young women standing in the street. Franklin walked straight to Tillier Ruminer.

"Why, hello, Tillier," he said.

"It may be Connie Franklin," she said later, "but he has changed since I saw him last."

The man then spoke to the girl about various incidents of their courtship. She burst into tears at several points when he reviewed old times.

Charles Ruminer, the father, also would not say whether or not the man presented to him was Franklin.

"I couldn't tell," he said.

But, previously, Franklin, standing in an office, pointed out and identified Ruminer, who was in a crowd on the street.

Deaf Mute Positive.

Reuben Harrell, the 20 year old deaf mute, was positive it was not Franklin. In Harrell's written statement to the grand jury he told graphically of having seen the body dismembered and burned while he concealed himself behind a tree. Defense attorneys will attempt to offset that testimony by nine witnesses, who swear Harrell was a mile away at the time the killing was alleged to have happened.

Franklin was released under bond of $1,600 as a material witness in the case, after Sheriff Johnson had been persuaded to reduce the amount of bail from $10,000 as he originally had asked.

Guard State Witnesses.

The state witnesses remain guarded at the home of Sheriff Johnson for fear of the continued threats and reported whippings which have occurred since the alleged murder in March. Sheriff Johnson attributes the hesitancy of witnesses to these threats and the floggings known to have occurred.

So Alex Fulks, Joe White, Herman Greenway, Hubert Hester, and Bill Younger will face a jury next Monday maintaining that the man for whose murder they are accused will be brought before it. Bones found in a ash heap near the Ruminer home will be the evidence of murder. The prosecution will try to prove they are all that remain of Franklin.

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN NEAR NEW RUM FRAY

Local Purveyor Arrested with Nine Students.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 8.—(Special.)—With nine University of Michigan students implicated in the arrest of "William Morgan," the campus' most famous bootlegger, in a raid Saturday night, the second university liquor scandal in as many months is in prospect.

"Morgan," who was known to his clientele of Michigan students as "Mickey" Phelan, has been supplying a large trade for nearly five years, and only yesterday fell victim to the recent local effort to convert Michigan into a "Sahara." He is 50 years old.

A small quantity of liquor was confiscated and nine students and three townspeople were taken. All except "Morgan" were leased on deposit of $25, it is understood, though Police Chief Tom O'Brien would give no information.

"Morgan" is held on charges of violating the prohibition act and attempted bribery, as he attempted to buy off the officers. "Disorderly conduct" is the charge against the twelve others caught.

There is a veil of secrecy, but the campus is buzzing and the hearing for the dozen minor culprits is said to be set for tomorrow morning.

With "Mickey" in limbo and Fletcher Hall student dormitory closed after a raid six weeks ago which put three alleged student bootleggers out of business, the immediate local forecast is dry and cooler.

John G. South Approved by Portugal as U. S. Envoy

LISBON, Portugal, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The government today gave unqualified approval to the appointment of J. G. South as American minister to Lisbon.

Dr. John Glover South, native of Frankfort, Ky., has been minister to Panama since 1921. He took a degree in medicine from the University of Louisville in 1897.

THIEVES WRECK AUTOMOBILE.

Fred Lenz, 6018 Clyde avenue, saw two youths drive his automobile away from 308 South Green street, where he was visiting yesterday, and after pursuing them on foot for a block he leaped on to the running board. The driver lost control of the car and it crashed through a plate glass window at 308 West Adams street. The youths escaped.

Records of Cook Legislators Are Criticized in L.V.L. Report

In an appeal yesterday for high class volunteers as candidates in the legislative primaries next April, Richard Bentley, president of the Legislative Voters' league, criticized unfavorably a majority of the Cook county members of the general assembly whose terms expire next year.

While his statement did not include the figures, an examination of it showed that he condemned or otherwise objected to the records or qualifications of nine of the sixteen Cook county senators up for reelection and that approximately 34 of the county's 54 state representatives were similarly hit.

Reward for Party Service.

"For the last eight years," read a part of the document, "the Cook county party organizations, more than ever before, have handed out seats in the legislature as rewards for party service, usually with little or no regard for fitness. Consequently but few of our legislators are well qualified for their duties.

"This situation can be materially improved if public spirited individuals and groups in the various districts will interest themselves actively to get fit candidates to enter the race for legislative nominations and will then support them vigorously at the April primaries. As the first date for filing nominating petitions is Feb. 3, quick action is necessary.

"A study of the records of Cook county assemblymen induces the belief that there is need for better representation in virtually every senatorial district. For instance, in the First, Second, Third, and Fourth districts the representation in the house, with only two or three exceptions, seems to be of small value to the public: and the same seems to be true of the outgoing senators from the First and Third districts."

Name Those Criticized.

The senator from the First is Adolph Marks. The one from the Third is Adelbert H. Roberts. Both are Republicans. The representatives from the First are George W. Blackwell and Harris B. Gaines, Republicans, and John Griffin, Democrat. Those from the Second are Thomas J. Clancy and Frank Ryan, Democrats, and Albert J. Mancin, Republican. Those from the Third are George T. Kersey and William E. King, Republicans, and George Garry Noonan, Democrat. And those from the Fourth are James P. Boyle and Thomas J. O'Grady, Democrats, and Michael A. Ruddy, Republican.

FIFTH—Senator Woods apparently has not shown marked legislative ability.

SIXTH — There is an opportunity to strengthen the delegation by retiring Representative Johnson on the Republican side and Representative Weber on the Democratic side.

SEVENTH — One make itself stronger at Springfield by picking an abler man than Representative Propper, who has shown little effectiveness.

NINTH—Senator Carroll has been credited with a poor record, and Representative Gormley has appeared to be lacking in effectiveness.

ELEVENTH — Representative Weeks has made a poor record and should be retired.

THIRTEENTH — Senator Starr seems to have shown a lack of legislative capacity, while on the house side the district might improve its representation in either party. [The representatives are John C. Garriott Jr. and Elmer J. Schnackenberg, Republicans, and William W. Powers, Democrat.]

FIFTEENTH — There is a house vacancy due to the death of Representative Curran, and other members might easily be improved upon. [The present representatives are Matt Prass and Edward Skarda, Democrats.]

SEVENTEENTH — The retiring senator [Leonardo] and the three house members [Pacelli, Cola, and Minsky] appear to have poor legislative qualifications.

NINETEENTH—Senator Denvir appears to have few claims to re-election, and Representative Mariner has a record the league has called poor.

TWENTY-FIRST—Each party might readily strengthen its representation in the house. [The representatives are J. W. Harris, Republican, and Joseph L. Rategan and Thomas J. O'Brien, Democrats.]

TWENTY-THIRD—Representative Overland, Republican, might be replaced with little loss to the public.

TWENTY-FIFTH—A vacancy caused by the death of Representative Jacobson.

TWENTY-SEVENTH—There is little desirable timber in the present delegation, Senator Broderick, Democrat, in particular, having no valid claim for reelection. [The representatives are A. G. Galvin, Republican, and A. L. Auth and Joseph A. Trandel, Democrats.]

TWENTY-NINTH—The entire present delegation might well be replaced. Senator Joyce, Republican; Representative Durso, Republican; Representative Turner, Republican, and Representative O'Brien, Democrat, have all been rated as making more or less unenviable records. By intelligent action the people of the district can easily send men to Springfield who will represent them properly.

THIRTY-FIRST—Representative McVicker, Republican, apparently has not shown positive strength as a legislator, and the same thing may be said of Senator Hamisch.

In closing his statement President Bentley condemned the manner in which the party organizations have taken advantage of the minority representation law in such a way as to limit the total of nominess for the house to three, the exact number to be elected.

"As a result of this system," he said, "only 58 candidates for the house were nominated by the two major political parties at the 1928 primaries for the 57 seats to be filled. Because of this situation it is essential that the public-spirited voters in the various districts should exert themselves at this time to induce persons of character and standing to seek legislative nominations from their respective parties and should bring pressure upon the responsible party organization leaders in their districts to support such candidates against incumbents who have proved to be unfit."

THREE RESCUED, PENNED 34 HOURS BY FALLING MINE

Morgantown, W. Va., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Three miners, entombed for thirty-four hours behind a huge fall of coal and slate in a Continental Coal company mine at Cassville, were rescued today by men who tunnelled through 175 feet of coal to deliver them. The miners were in a hospital tonight, but it was said they were little the worse for their experience.

The rescue was completed by Charles Davis, assistant superintendent, who penetrated the last few feet of the two and a half foot square tunnel by scraping earth and coal away with his hands. He then dragged the miners out feet first and passed them out to freedom.

Just in Nick of Time.

The assistant superintendent had hardly pulled the last man out and crawled to safety himself when the part of the tunnel cleared by him and the erstwhile "tomb" caved in.

Sam Kratchen, James Martindale, and Lunlar Holt, the two latter Negroes, were the men entombed. Martindale, choir leader in the camp's Negro church, described the space in which the men were trapped as "about the size of a rough box."

Martindale, who took charge of the little crew immediately after the fall on Friday afternoon, said the first step taken was the construction of stone wall supports to guard against a fall in the cramped quarters. It was very cold, he said, for the men were clad only in shirt and overalls.

Sang to Keep Up Courage.

"All we could do was pray," the choir leader-miner told persons at the hospital today. He also said he recalled several hymns and old southern songs, singing to bolster the courage of himself and his companions.

Asked if he were going back to the mines, Mrs. Martindale, who was at the bedside, answered for him. "No," said the wife; "we're going back to Alabama."

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands, since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid liver.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Labor Secretary Favors Immigrant Law Change.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Changes in the immigration laws to limit the increasing flow of immigrants from new world countries and to allow greater selectivity among those from Europe were advocated by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis in his annual report, made public today.

Although the new national origins plan which went into effect July 1 reduced the total number of immigrants which may be admitted from Europe, it did not, in the opinion of Secretary Davis, allow his department enough leeway in choosing desirable types, nor did it deal at all with immigration from Canada, Mexico, and the Central and South American countries. These two questions, he said, call for further legislation.

There has been a steady decline in the immigration from Canada, but that from Mexico has fluctuated upward and downward, Mr. Davis pointed out. Last year Europe furnished 151,595 immigrants, while new world countries furnished 116,177.

Suggests a Solution.

"The whole problem of immigration from new world countries could be satisfactorily solved by extending a modified quota system to countries the natives of which now are free to come to the United States in unlimited numbers," the secretary of labor stated.

"My proposal," he continued, "is that the coming of permanent settlers should be fixed at a limit which, although generous as compared with European countries, shall fortify against drawing away from our neighboring countries the native born population which they so greatly need and which is not needed here.

Look for Better Jobs.

"It must be remembered that practically all of our new world neighbors are immigrant receiving countries, not having reached the saturation stage which impelled enactment of our own restrictive laws. It is hardly a neighbor which will continue to induce their native born people to come to this country."

Discussing his proposed application of the selective principle to European immigration, Mr. Davis said:

"Cases are constantly arising in which some American industry, institution, or interest can clearly demonstrate that it needs the service of a particularly qualified person resident in a foreign country, but at present there is no provision for expediting such an immigrant."

He cited the case of a European manufacturer who was ready to buy an abandoned factory and produce a commodity now imported, but under the present law he would have to wait two years.

How to Provide "Selection."

"The solution I have in mind is very simple,' he continued. "It would provide that industries and other interests in the United States needing the professional services of some particular individual could allege to the secretary of labor that it was necessary to bring the needed talent from a foreign country.

"The secretary, after a full hearing and investigation, would authorize a preference in the issuance of immigration visas to the particular person named."

He also asked for legislation supplying the immigration bureau with an air patrol and for appropriations for better quarters for aliens detained along the borders.

Crimina. Aliens Stay.

Despite agitation in Chicago and other large cities for the deportation of alien gangsters and gunmen only 610 criminal aliens, convicted after their entry into the United States, were deported during the year ending June 30, according to the annual report of Harry E. Hull, commissioner of immigration, part of which was incorporated in the report of Secretary Davis.

"During the year 610 aliens convicted of crimes involving moral turpitude, and sentenced to imprisonment of a year or more after entering the United States, were deported following release from prison," the report stated. "The largest number of deportees of this class 223, were Mexicans. The others included 75 Italian, 57 English, 32 German, 27 French, 25 Irish, and 161 of miscellaneous races."

In addition to the deportees convicted of crimes after establishing residences here, 799 aliens found to be criminals at the time of their entry were deported. The total deportees of both the criminal and immoral classes for the year was 1,856.

Immigrant Total 279,678.

The report shows that the country during the year received 279,678 recorded immigrants and lost 69,203 emigrants, a net gain of 210,475, as compared with a net gain of like character last year of 229,798. The total number of recorded immigrants admitted during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929, was the smallest since 1918 and 1919, and, excluding those two years, the smallest since 1898.

Illinois' share of the 1929 immigrants totaled 18,539, that number designating the state as their permanent residence. The states receiving more than Illinois were New York, 87,362; Michigan, 25,248; Texas, 24,930, and Massachusetts, 19,128.

Germans and Scandinavians exceeded in number any of the other nationalities of immigrants headed for Illinois. There were 4,981 Germans who settled in Illinois and 3,436 Norwegians, Swedes, and Danes. Other nationalities represented by more than a thousand newcomers to Illinois were Irish, 1,662; Mexican, 1,340; Italians, 1,301. Only 19 Japanese and 116 Chinese gained admission into Illinois.

TAX REFUNDS MADE BY U. S. IN PAST YEAR TOTAL $126,595,318

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Refunds of $126,595,318 were made to taxpayers during the fiscal year 1929 for taxes illegally collected.

This was shown today in the annual report of Robert H. Lucas, commissioner of internal revenue, which added that total over-assessments aggregated $339,528,941, but of this amount $176,598,377 was satisfied through abatement and $36,535,245 by credit. The number of claims filed during the year reached 50,299, involving a total of $613,052,371. Interest on the refunds amounted to $38,768,623.

The commissioner reported income tax collections for the year amounted to $2,331,274,428, as compared with $2,174,673,102 for the previous year.

Auto Jumps from Road On to Train; Three Unhurt

Pana, Ill., Dec. 8.—An automobile occupied by Martin Jorn and Hugh and William Hamilton of Hillsboro, Ill., last night crashed into the rear of an automobile which they attempted to pass, swerved from the road, ran down a fifty foot embankment on to the tracks of the Big Four railroad, and was picked up by a freight train and carried two hundred yards. No one in the party received as much as a scratch or bruise.

MUSIC BY RADIO FAILS TO TAME THESE BURGLARS

Burglars of musical tendencies early yesterday broke into the home of John W. Moorehead, 1242 Elmwood avenue, Evanston, and after testing out a radio set valued at $300 carried it away. The Moorehead family was out of the city, but neighbors said they heard the radio playing about 2 a. m. The police were unable to learn whether anything else was stolen.

Later the same burglars are believed to have broken into the Ideal Auto Supply company store at 520 Davis street, where they displayed their musical tastes by taking, among other loot, two musical automobile horns. Joseph Marcus, the manager, said the rest of the loot consisted of $125 from the cash register and a supply of auto accessories.

The field house and skating rink at Lyons street and Ashland avenue, Evanston, owned by Christ Kennedy, was robbed of two saws, not believed to be musical.

HUNGARIAN HAT MERCHANTS FIGHT BAREHEADED FAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Dec. 8.—Hat manufacturers and merchants here today launched a vigorous campaign against the increasingly popular custom of going bareheaded. The vogue, which began in the United States and England, made great headway on the continent this year and is now causing alarm among the hat merchants all over Europe. A score of hat and department stores in Budapest today posted signs on their doors stating that no business would be transacted unless purchasers were wearing hats. In addition, girls in hat factories are following the precedent recently set up by their English sisters, declaring that they will make no dates with men who go bareheaded.

TWO CAUGHT IN BURGLARY.

J. J. Conway and Robert Barnhardt, both of 4257 Broadway, were captured yesterday by Policemen Frank Kober and William Koerber of Oak Park as they were robbing the Economical Drug store at South Boulevard and Oak Park avenue.

GOVERNOR TAKES GULFWAY PLEA TO WASHINGTON

Seeks 6 Million to Open Boat Route to City.

Gov. L. L. Emmerson departed from Chicago yesterday for Washington to attend several meetings at which an organized effort will be made to secure a federal appropriation of $6,000,000 for the completion of the Illinois waterway. This appropriation is necessary, he said, to finish the project of connecting the great lakes with the gulf of Mexico via a 9 foot channel.

"I am extremely hopeful that Illinois will succeed this time," he said as he boarded the train. "We are asking only that which we believe is due us and which will be a boon to the entire middle west."

Meets Iowa Governor.

Gov. Emmerson had a friendly chat at the train with Gov. John H. Hamill of Iowa who was also bound for Washington, the official occasion for the visit of both governors being the silver jubilee of the national rivers and harbors congress, of which Gov. Emmerson is a member of the board of directors.

A delegation of Illinois business men will join Gov. Emmerson for the annual convention of the waterway congress. Among them will be W. R. Dawes, president of the Mississippi Valley association; Col. William Nelson Pelouze, W. G. Edens, N. S. Northam, W. D. Hoise, Senator Martin Bailey of Danville, all members of the Illinois deep waterway commission; Lyon Karr, president of the Illinois Bankers' association; John H. Camlin, vice president of the national rivers and harbors congress; W. F. Mulvihill, who is in charge of Illinois waterway construction; L. D. Cornish, chief engineer on the Illinois waterway, and C. G. Ferris, executive vice president of the Illinois chamber of commerce.

Pleased with Hurley.

Gov. Emmerson said he saw a good omen in the appointment of President Hoover of Patrick J. Hurley of Oklahoma to be secretary of war, the department having jurisdiction over navigable rivers and waterways. This is because Secretary Hurley is a westerner and will probably be in accord with a development of importance to the midwest.

"Illinois lost a valuable friend in the death of Secretary of War James W. Good," the governor said. "We would have had a friend constantly fighting our battle at Washington had he lived, but I believe Secretary Hurley will realize that we are right in our request for the $6,000,000 appropriation."

State at End of Rope.

A provision in the Illinois constitution prevents the state from appropriating for bridge building and other work necessary to link Chicago with the sea via the sanitary district canal and Chicago, Illinois and Mississippi rivers, beyond the last $20,000,000 appropriated for this purpose, the governor explained. It is therefore necessary that congress provide the additional money if the work is to be done within the next few years.

The governor is to attend a meeting of the Illinois congressmen and senators, called by Senator Charles S. Deneen, at which ways and means to bring about the necessary federal legislation will be planned. The Illinois chamber of commerce will give a luncheon to these representatives and the governor tomorrow.

The business men and the public officials will work together for the common purpose, Gov. Emmerson said, to obtain what he feels is due Illinois.

SHERIFF CALLS 'AMNESIA' VICTIM WIFE DESERTER

Wilbert Clawson, 29 years old, farmer, of Ottenbein, Ind., who was found unconscious in front of 164 North Michigan avenue Friday night, yesterday told police that he had been a victim of amnesia since last February.

A telegram from Sheriff Sam Cole of Warren county, Indiana, however, declared that Clawson was a wife deserter with an active imagination. Clawson had attempted to make his neighbors believe he had been murdered by sprinkling chicken blood in his room and automobile, the sheriff wired, and had then disappeared.

There is no charge against Clawson and he will be released.

IF I WERE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

The Tribune invites pithy, brief statements describing what you would do if you were President of the United States. The invitation is to Tribune Readers everywhere. Address Government Editor, The Tribune.

Editor: I would encourage and help all in my power the prohibition law, for what would be the condition of automobile driving if we had light wine and beer? W. W. W., Waterloo, Ia.

Editor: I would try to induce congress to repeal the 18th amendment with a provision that the wet and dry question should go to a referendum of the legalised voters of this country. J. J. GILLOGLY, Yorkville, Ill.

* *

Editor: I would strive to effect an alliance between Great Britain and our country for offensive and defensive purposes for the preservation of peace throughout the world. T. BURNHAM HALL.

* *

Editor: I would reduce the regular army to the absolute minimum on the basis that there is no record in history of a large standing army keeping a nation out of war. FRANCIS R. STRAND, Madison, Wis.

* *

Editor: I would have a law passed that all aliens entering this country to make their homes would be forced to declare their intention of becoming citizens; and that all aliens here over six or seven years without becoming citizens be deported. E. J. ORENSTEIN.

Editor: I would influence the people to give congress a four year leave with expenses. During this time the President could do some constructive work. L. M. K., Appleton, Wis.

SIGHT OF FOOD CHEERS GERMANS FLEEING RUSSIA

Refugees Tell of Horrors on Reaching Safety.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Dec. 8.—Frightened and silent, the sixth train load of German colonists arrived here yesterday from Moscow. A crowd of 300 met the special train carrying the refugees and Riga police were compelled to establish a cordon, because many colonists were discovered to be suffering from contagious diseases. Trachoma is prevalent, and many children are ill with scarlet fever.

The sight of the huge throng of people carrying packages of food, clothing, fruit, and candy for the children broke down the reserve of the colonists, who reported that the Gay-pay-ou had warned them against discussing their sufferings under the soviet regime under threat of taking reprisals against the few colonists remaining at the outskirts of Moscow.

Sing Hymns of Thanksgiving.

Upon arriving at the Latvian frontier the colonists were met by the Latvian Red Cross and government officials. The 670 refugees sang hymns of thanksgiving, and a local Lutheran pastor held a short service.

The sixth group consists chiefly of Lutheran colonists from the German Volga republic, containing more than 500,000 farmers, who are eager to emigrate from Russia. The colonists reported scenes of horror which had occurred during the last month when the Gay-pay-ou, secret police, forcibly removed Mennonite Lutheran and Catholic families, numbering 10,000, who were locked in unheated freight cars and sent to an unknown destination in Siberia.

Every colonists tells of cases where families were separated, the despairing mothers and fathers committing suicide or going insane under cheka brutalities.

Scandal Brought to Light.

The unavailing efforts of the German legation in Moscow to halt the alleged bolshevik persecution of the colonists brought to light a diplomatic scandal, which is said to have placed the Berlin foreign office in an awkward position.

In September Berlin instructed its Moscow minister to make strong protest to the soviet foreign office and demand more humane treatment for the refugees. The minister replied that he had visited the colonists, but that they were formerly prosperous farmers and under bolshevik laws were classed as Kulaks—wealthy peasants—which must be exterminated as a class and the German government had no right to interfere with this purely domestic affair.

This report, it is said, was stolen from the office of the German foreign minister, and when the German minister to Moscow presented another protest Acting Commissar of Foreign Affairs Maxim Litvinoff produced the original, stating the government would brook no interference, and that the minister himself had supported the viewpoint that the treatment of the colonists was an internal matter.

Mennonites Reach Persia.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TEHERAN, Persia, Dec. 8.—Another group of German Mennonite colonists arrived here today en route to South America. They were forced to take the southern route because the soviet government refused to permit them to cross European Russia.

BROOKHART TO BACK DICKINSON IN IOWA SENATORIAL BATTLE

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Another fierce senatorial fight in Iowa was predicted today after Senator Smith W. Brookhart announced that he and his forces will support the candidacy of L. J. Dickinson, member of congress from the Algona district.

Brookhart's decision presumably will cause immediate announcement of the candidacies of Gov. John Hammill and Ernest L. Moore, wealthy banker of this city and former lieutenant governor.

Moore is reported to have confided to close friends that he will enter the race for the nomination in the June primaries. He said to THE TRIBUNE correspondent today that there is nothing to be said at this time, but that he probably will have some announcement to make soon.

Hammill's announcement is expected this week.

Brookhart's decision to get behind the candidacy of Dickinson caused no surprise here. The battle for the nomination presumably will be between the so-called Progressive faction, which Brookhart represents, and the conservative element, to which both Moore and Hammill belong.

Democrats predict that the split between the Republican factions will be so great next year that Senator Dan W. Steck will stand an excellent chance for reelection. Steck, a Democrat, was elected following a battle between Brookhart and the late Senator Albert Cummings.

Former Premier Albert of Germany Is Chicago Visitor

Dr. Heinrich Albert, former premier of Germany, arrived in Chicago yesterday and registered at the Bismarck hotel. He said he had come to the city on financial business. His niece, Mrs. Kathe Virchow, was with him and they said they expected to be in the United States for a week or ten days before returning to Germany.

RULERS OF THREE NATIONS WORSHIP IN SAME CHAPEL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 8.—The royal chapel at Sandringham included among the congregation today three kings and three queens, the rulers of England, Norway and Denmark. The Danish sovereigns arrived last night, nearly two hours later, after fighting the channel storms. It had been feared that owing to the state of the weather the Norwegian royalty would have to postpone their crossing the channel, but at a late hour last night the king and queen stepped off the train at Liverpool-street station. They were met by the Norwegian minister and another consular officer, stepped into a taxi like any private citizens, and drove off to a west end hotel.

ARNS FIGHTING SHIPS OF U.S.NAVY LACK 11,000 MEN

ear Admiral Insists 700 Officers Are Needed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Rear Admiral R. H. Leigh, chief of the bureau of navigation, reported to the secretary of the navy today that the fighting ships of the United States fleet are undermanned and will remain in that condition until an increase in officers and enlisted personnel is provided.

The rear admiral said that under present conditions the navy faces a shortage of 11,000 enlisted men and 700 officers during the fiscal year 1931. He advocated an increase in enlisted strength from 84,500 to 95,400. The latter figure is 11,000 men greater than is provided for in the 1931 budget sent to congress by President Hoover last week.

5 New Cruisers Ready Soon.

"A present shortage of commissioned and enlisted strength plus the fact that five new cruisers and two new submarines will be added to the fleet during the present fiscal year were cited by Rear Admiral Leigh as two of the major factors which make necessary an increase in navy personnel.

"The efficiency of the navy depends upon the maintenance at all times of a personnel sufficient in numbers and of the highest professional attainments to provide the officers and men necessary for current operating and war plans," he said. "It is of primary importance that the navy's war strength provide for such additional trained personnel as will be required to man the entire naval establishment, both ashore and afloat in time of war.

"Under the present personnel conditions this cannot be done, as under the appropriation bill for the fiscal year 1930 we are allowed 84,500 men, whereas we require 92,186 men for peace-time operation of the ships now in commission or to be commissioned during the year, and, if to this number there be added the men required under the nucleus crew system, a total of 95,285 men should be in service during 1930.

"The minimum requirements for the fiscal year 1931—based on 97 per cent allowance for battleships, 100 per cent for cruisers, and 90 per cent for destroyers—is 95,400. If to this net we add the men required under the nucleus crew system 97,374 men should be in service.

Rear Admiral Leigh said that during the last year the officer personnel have been insufficient in number to fill the vacancies in complements of vessels and shore stations, especially those connected with aviation. To remedy this he urged that the limit now placed on the number of commissioned officers should be raised and members of congress permitted to appoint a larger number of candidates each year to Annapolis.

INFANTRY BOARD TESTS NEW TANK AT CAMP MEADE

Machine Weapon Doubles Old Fire Power.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—The army's latest developed light combat tank, a machine weapon with more than twice the fire power carried by the 1928 model turned out by the ordnance department last year, is now undergoing tests at Camp Meade, Md.

The infantry tank board, which is putting the machine through its paces, will make a detailed report on the performance to the chief of infantry later this month. This report is expected to determine whether or not the experimental light tanks produced by the army during the period since the war are to be sidetracked in favor of the new Christie combined tank and armored car.

Since the development of the latest model Christie machine, a vehicle which in its preliminary tests has made a speed of 69 miles an hour on wheels and 42 miles an hour on tracks, the ordnance designed tanks have been on trial.

The tests now being conducted at Fort Meade were ordered by Maj. Gen. Stephen O. Fuqua, chief of infantry. Gen. Fuqua is expected soon to recommend a future course of tank development and experimentation to the general staff. He may recommend that both the ordnance and Christie tanks be given further tests. Indications now are that he will recommend purchase of sufficient Christie tanks next year to give the army an opportunity to give them a thorough service test.

The new ordnance machine is mounted with a 37 millimeter semi-automatic gun which can be fired at the rate of forty rounds a minute. The 38 millimeter guns with which the earlier light tank models were armed could fire but ten rounds in the same time. The rate of the fire of the old six ton light wartime tanks is much slower. The tank gun is mounted in a movable turret so that it can be fired in any direction. A 30 caliber machine gun is mounted beside the larger weapon. The range of the 37 millimeter gun is about 2,000 yards.

The new tank is powered with a 183 horse power engine, compared with the 100 horse power engine used in previous models of this type. Its maximum speed is around eighteen miles an hour. The builders of the new tank expect it will be able to go 3,000 miles without overhaul. The war time machines had to be overhauled usually before they had gone 100 miles.

The increased power was built into the tanks, so it could be equipped with heavier armor plate. This machine is designed to carry armor plate ¾ inch thick, compared with a ⅝ inch thickness for earlier models. A new armor plate which furnishes 20 per cent more resistance to bullets than the wartime armor has been developed.

CORONER'S JURY TO HEAR SLAYER OF WOMAN TODAY

William Ahrendt, 34 years old, confessed murderer of Mrs. Josephine Ford, 6221 Rhodes avenue, will appear before a coroner's jury today to explain why he killed the woman with a butcher knife.

Ahrendt came here six months ago from California after he had been released from an insane asylum. Police officials here wondered why he should have been released when he was obviously not cured. Their questions went unanswered. An examination of the man's record in Los Angeles, however, showed that in addition to an attack upon a 5 year old child he had been arrested in 1924 on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon upon a young woman, and in 1927 was arrested as a burglary suspect. Police records there failed to show the disposition of either case.

Ahrendt killed Mrs. Ford Saturday morning, according to his confession, then went to the home of a brother at Kenosha, where he was arrested in the afternoon. He was taken back to the Woodlawn police station.

ELECTRON RAYS 'PHOTOGRAPHED' ON PLAIN METAL

Discovery Announced by Cornell Scientists.

Ithaca, N. Y., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Discovery of a means of taking "pictures" direct on cold, hard, untreated metal without the usual photographer's medium of a sensitized plate was disclosed tonight at Cornell university.

Seemingly impervious metal, it has been found, records on its surface unseen impressions from streams of electrons, and these marks can be brought into visibility by the right kind of "developer," exactly as photographic images are brought out on sensitized plates.

The discovery opens a new field of scientific experiment. Although at present there is no reason to believe that electrons, which the public knows as the invisible streams of power that flow from heated filaments in radio tubes, will replace light in photography, the finding of this hitherto unknown sensitivity of metal has aroused a world of speculation.

X-Ray Led to Discovery.

Dr. P. H. Carr, a graduate student from Gaffney, S. C., made the discovery, working under direction of Dr. F. K. Richtmyer, professor of physics. Dr. Richtmyer says all the credit belongs to Dr. Carr.

This young physicist one day was looking at the rough spots produced on the metal target of an x-ray tube by electron bombardment.

It occurred to Dr. Carr that perhaps long before the electrons produced the rough place they made an invisible impression, which might be "developed" in the same manner that the still invisible image of a photo is brought out by putting it into a developing bath.

Theory of Process Sought.

From then on the story is short, but the work took several years. Carr shot electron rays at gold plates and developed them with mercury vapor; at silver and developed with iodine; used hydrochloric acid to develop zinc plates; and iodine to develop copper.

In each case he brought out on the metal surfaces the previously invisible mark made by the electrons. Investigations are in progress to study the peculiarities of this phenomenon and to develop a theory of its action.

SUIT OVER $2 CAT COSTS TOWN IN IOWA $50 AFTER LONG FIGHT

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—An alley tomcat appraised at $2 has been the subject of a court battle here for two days which will cost the taxpayers $50 when the court passes on the ownership tomorrow.

As a kitten Tom belonged to a Mrs. Klein. At her death Tom went to Mrs. Klein's sister-in-law, Mrs. James Duncan. The Duncans moved, and Tom went to Mrs. Mamie Johns, who later turned Tom over to Mrs. Luette Schreiber.

One day Tom followed the little son of M. H. Munsell home from school, and for the last eighteen months has been a resident of the Munsell home. Mrs. Schreiber went to court and got a writ to restore Tom to her fireside. When a constable went to get Tom he was scratched up and left Tom at the Duncans.

Then the Munsells started suit. The Duncans have filed a counter claim for $25, with interest. The court will decide tomorrow where Tom belongs, and the taxpayers will pay the cost.

Directors Concentrate on Health Work.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Appropriations totaling nearly $300,000 have been made in the last seven months by the Children's Fund of Michigan, established by Senator James Couzens. All parts of the state have been benefited. By May 1, 1930, Child Health day, which is the end of the fund's fiscal year, additional appropriations of several hundred thousand dollars probably will have been made.

Senator Couzens made a gift of $10,000,000 to promote the health, welfare, happiness, and development of children in a trust instrument signed April 11, 1929. He stipulated that the $10,000,000, plus the income, which, it is estimated, will amount to $7,500,000, must be expended in its entirety within 25 years. If for any reason it is found unwise to expend all of the $700,000 yearly quota in any one year, the trustees must spend the unused balance within the next year.

Many Worthy Causes Found.

"Our difficulty so far has not been one of finding worthy causes on which to expend money, but to so organize our work that we can proceed efficiently and in full measure to meet Senator Couzens' wishes," said William J. Norton, secretary of the fund.

"This year we have concentrated on child health, but we have taken steps in other directions for the promotion of child welfare. We have received scores of requests for aid from various organizations and careful, painstaking investigation has been necessary to insure the expenditure of the funds at our disposal in such a way that maximum and permanent benefit to children as a whole will be achieved.

"It was Senator Couzens' wish to avoid setting up a great new enterprise with expensive overhead that might duplicate work already being done by other organized charities. The problems of children as a group were the chief aim and, though some of this year's appropriations have been for special groups, the object was to seek a solution of certain health and welfare problems which could be hereafter applied to all children for all time."

Yale Study Is Sponsored.

A survey of the work already done by the Children's Fund of Michigan shows the direction being taken by the trustees to achieve this objective.

An appropriation of $20,000 has been given the Yale University Institute of Human Relations to establish a station in Detroit for inquiry into the relationship between home and neighborhood influence and juvenile delinquency. The institute, with funds derived from other sources, will make similar studies in Boston and New Haven. All three studies will be carried on simultaneously.

Dr. L. Schwartz, now at the Institute of Child Guidance in New York City, will come to Detroit as director of the study to be made here. It will be undertaken in coöperation with the Juvenile court.

Another $20,000 was given the Michigan Children's Aid society for extension of its work in the upper part of the lower peninsula and in the upper peninsula.

Dr. Alfred Adler, famous Viennese psychologist, will come to Detroit in January under the auspices of the fund and of the Society for the Scientific Study of Character. The latter will sponsor lectures by Dr. Adler. The fund will finance clinics in Detroit and throughout the state.

32 ARE CHOSEN AS U. S. RHODES MEN AT OXFORD

Six Selected Trained at Naval Academy.

Swarthmore, Pa., Dec. 8.—(AP)—As a result of annual elections held yesterday throughout the country, the names of thirty-two new Rhodes scholars were announced by Dr. Frank Aydelotte, president of Swarthmore college, and American secretary to the Rhodes trustees. The men elected will take up their studies at Oxford university in October, 1930.

The Rhodes scholarships, founded under the will of Cecil Rhodes, entitle the holder to a stipend of $2,000 a year, and are tenable for three years at Oxford university. In order to qualify a candidate must be an American citizen betwen 18 and 25 years of age, and a resident or college student of two years' standing in the state to which he applies.

Rhodes scholars are chosen for intellectual promise combined with qualities of character and leadership and interest in sports. Thirty-two new scholars are elected from the university states each year, while a slightly larger number is elected to represent the various British dominions and colonies.

DOCTORS HOPE TO SAVE FOUR WOMEN DOOMED BY RADIUM POISON

New York, Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Four women victims of radium poison may escape what has seemed certain death as the result of discoveries made during an autopsy on the body of the fifth patient, Mrs. Quinta McDonald.

The five women, all employés of the United States Radium corporation in Newark, N. J., were doomed to die eighteen months ago. They sued the corporation, charging they contracted radium poison while at work. They were each awarded $10,000 and medical expenses.

Mrs. McDonald was the first to die and now scientists hold out hope for the others. Chief Medical Examiners Norris of New York and Martland, of Newark, performed the autopsy in the presence of a number of other surgeons and scientists. The autopsy revealed puzzling conditions.

Mrs. McDonald was declared to have died from a fleshy tumor of the hip bone which extended to attack the liver and lungs, with radium inflammation of the thigh and spine.

That the tumor of the hip bone was caused by radium was indicated by Dr. Martland, who declared he had found similar growths in the bodies of other employés of the radium plant. He said they were caused by the radium taken into the body when the women "pointed" with their lips the brushes used in painting radium dials on watches and clocks.

RAID CACHE OF RADIO THIEVES; TWO ARRESTED

Michael Corsi and George A. Sutton were arrested yesterday in their home at 1154 Highland avenue, Oak Park, as members of a radio theft ring which has operated in two states. Corsi was held under $20,000 bonds on charges of larceny and receiving stolen property, while Sutton was held in $5,000 bond on a charge of receiving stolen property.

Oak Park policemen raided the bungalow and a garage at the rear on a search warrant obtained by Donald Compton, vice president and general manager of the United States Radio and Television corporation, 333 North Michigan avenue. In the garage they found a false brick wall, behind which were hidden radio sets and equipment valued at $2,250. The raid was staged after Compton learned that radio equipment stolen from his company's factory at Marion, Ind., was being shipped to Oak Park.

Corsi, who is married and has two children, told the police he knew nothing about the merchandise found in the garage. He said he rented the garage to some one else but declined to disclose the lessee's name.

8.11 PER CENT OF FEDERAL TAXES PAID BY ILLINOIS

Per Capita Assessment Is $32.21; U. S., $24.41.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Illinois, with 6.14 per cent of the total population, contributes 8.11 per cent of the income and miscellaneous taxes received by the federal government. Its per capita tax amounts to $32.21, as compared with an average per capita tax for the entire nation of $24.41. These figures are contained in tabulations in the annual report of Robert H. Lucas, commissioner of internal revenue, issued today.

Illinois is one of ten states which contribute a greater percentage of the taxes collected than their percentage of the total population. Michigan is the only other central state in this class, paying 5.15 per cent of the taxes while its population represents 3.81 per cent of the total.

One Pacific coast state, California, pays more than its population ratio. Its federal taxes represent 5.26 per cent of the total, while it has 2.79 per cent of the population.

Eastern states in the select group are headed by New York, which pays 28.70 per cent of all taxes, while its population represents only 9.59 per cent of the total. New Jersey pays 4.13 per cent with 3.17 per cent of the population. Massachusetts pays 3.93 per cent of the taxes, while its population represents 2.56 per cent of the total. Connecticut pays 1.44 per cent of the taxes with 1.39 per cent of the population, and Delaware pays 1.03 per cent of the taxes with .30 per cent of the population.

Two southern states which rank high up as revenue contributors because of the tobacco and cigaret taxes, North Carolina and Virginia, are among those paying more taxes than their share on a population basis. North Carolina pays 3.66 per cent of the taxes with 2.44 per cent of the population, and Virginia pays 2.98 per cent of the taxes with 2.14 per cent of the population.

Of the central states in the Chicago area other than Illinois and Michigan, Indiana pays only .96 per cent of the taxes, while it has 2.64 per cent of the population. Wisconsin pays 1.33 per cent with 2.45 per cent of the population. Iowa pays .46 per cent of the taxes with 2.02 per cent of the population.

Despite the advanced position claimed for Pennsylvania by Joseph R. Grundy, that state falls a little behind in its tax contributions on a percentage basis. It pays 8.98 per cent of the taxes with 8.19 per cent of the population. The 8.08 per cent, however, ranks fourth among the states.

The per capita payments by the different states range from $1.11 in North Dakota to $124.23 in Delaware. The second highest total is North Carolina with $36.62.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Green Bay's Packers are champions of the National Professional Football league. That they are the best team of the year has been asserted repeatedly since they upset New York several weeks ago, but yesterday at Wrigley field the Packers made the title a certainty by defeating the Bears, 25 to 0.

Thus Green Bay ended its 13 game schedule without defeat and established a record—the first undefeated champion in the history of the National league.

Hold Bears Helpless.

Frankford's Yellowjackets held the Packers to a scoreless tie and it was this drawn battle which made it necessary for Green Bay to tie or defeat the Bears yesterday to prevent Friedman's Giants from sliding into first place by percentage margin. This possibility attracted 7,000 to yesterday's game but the Bears were not equal to the task.

The victory was the third this year for the Packers over their north side rivals. In those games Green Bay has scored 62 points, the Bears none.

It wasn't that the Bears didn't try. They did. But they faced a team which had everything in a champion's repertoire. The Packer line limited the Bears' running attack to one first down, a 20 yard dash by Red Grange, and the Packer back field stopped the Bear passes on the one occasion Chicago developed a scoring threat.

On offense Green Bay demonstrated its superiority all the way. That same line made Carl Lidberg's plunging a success, and on the occasions that it didn't give the Packer full back complete cooperation he made his own openings, driving into the line with a fury which could not be denied.

Lewellen Punts 85 Yards.

Then there was Verne Lewellen. He did his share of running, scored one touchdown and threw a pass for another; but it was his kicking that thrilled the crowd. He got one punt away for 85 yards, another for 75, and his average for the afternoon was around 60 yards for each effort.

Eddie Kotal was another of the Packer aces. The lithe half back was in every play and topped his day's work with two spectacular running catches of passes, each bringing a touchdown. Red Dunn, accurate handler of kicks, was the master general who kept the Bays' backs hitting just where the Bears were least prepared. His pass gave Kotal his first touchdown and his generalship was the foundation of all the others. Dunn, however, had a poor day booting extra points, getting one in his four attempts.

Laurie Walquist's fumble on the Bears' 13 yard line gave the Packers opening number one. On the third play Lidberg tore through center on a spinner and drove over the goal line as the first quarter ended.

Score Twice on Passes.

Green Bay added the other three touchdowns in a ten minute attack in the third period. Lidberg's plunges, two passes—Dunn to Kotal for 15 yards and Lewellen to Nash for 18—and more of Lidberg's specialty brought the ball to the Bears' two yard line. Lewellen scored on the next play turning the Bears' left end.

Lidberg's interception of Bear passes provided the next opportunities. After the first, Dunn passed to Kotal who eluded the secondary for a 30 yard run to the goal. After the second interception on the Bears' 22 yard line Lewellen passed to Kotal. Eddie made a brilliant one hand running catch just out of reach of Walt Holmer and continued down the side line for the final marker.

IOWA ASSAILS COMMERCIALISM IN CONFERENCE

Receipts First Thought, Williams Says.

May Play Huskers.

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Possibility of the resumption of football relations between Nebraska and Iowa is predicted by H. D. Gish, athletic director of the University of Nebraska. Gish, who is at Kansas City, in a long distance telephone conversation said that while there was nothing definite thus far on the subject, a game with the Hawkeyes next October might develop. The two schools have not played for 10 years. Nebraska has two open dates on its 1930 football schedule, Oct. 4 and Nov. 22.

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Dean C. C. Williams, chairman of the University of Iowa board of athletics, in discussing the Hawkeyes' ouster from the Big Nine conference, today made it clear that he, at least, believes that the organization had an eye toward athletic gate receipts when they decided to schedule no further games with Iowa.

It is known here that some of the conference universities frequently have complained in the past that the "take" at some of the games in Iowa City was not as large as other stadia could produce and that consequently visits to the Hawkeye playground were looked upon as a heavy loss to certain highly commercialized athletic associations.

Dean Williams' statement follows:

"The action of the conference naturally was a deep disappointment to me. The conference was unwilling to accept the view that the penalty already inflicted on Iowa was sufficient to atone for irregularities in past administration of the athletic department.

Iowa Against Injustice.

"It was the view of the representatives that blood must be let in order to cure the offender and Iowa had not let blood. It was Iowa's position that we should not do injustice to players who had been caught in the meshes of past maladministration nor could Iowa admit the right of an outside body to dictate who should serve on the staff of its athletic department nor who should comprise its board in control of athletics.

"Iowa will continue to exercise scrupulous care in certifying the members of its teams, regardless of who may be its opponents in the field. Negotiations looking to the selection of these opponents are in the province of the athletic department and will be cared for properly in due time. Indeed, the selection of games to fill Iowa's schedule is of less significance in the educational world than is the choice of games to fill some of the schedules of other conference universities.

"The position displayed by the athletic departments of certain institutions lends color to the oft-expressed suspicion that a desire for larger gate receipts was a factor in their attitude.

Laner Confirms Story.

"While I would not in any degree condone breaches of amateurism in intercollegiate athletics, yet professionalism at its worst among bona fide students on college teams sinks into insignificance as a blotch on the education page in comparison with the geniality of some of the institutions themselves in the administration of their athletics. The college world will watch with interest the selection of institutions to fill the vacancies re-

PLEADS CASE WITH CUBS

And his first case will be to prove to Joe McCarthy that his left arm is worth the $35,000 the Cubs paid for it. Iowa Alumnus to Send Information on Big 9 to Griffith

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Iowa alumni living here, after reading of the suspension of the Hawkeyes by the Big Ten yesterday, unanimously were of the opinion that Iowa has been the victim of a grave injustice and that it has been contrite long enough.

Craven Shuttleworth, former Iowa athlete, said he felt if Iowa's athletics were as clean as the other members of the Big Ten, it should withdraw immediately. Maurice Cahill, attorney, said he intended to forward some "interesting" information concerning the subsidizing activities of other schools to Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten commissioner, and that Griffith could publish it if he desired. "He probably knows about them," Cahill said, "but I want him to know that we also know about them."

"The thing for Iowa to do now is to withdraw from the conference," said Judge Thomas B. Powell, president of the local Iowa Alumni association. "There is no reason for Iowa to bow its head, and I do not favor a renewal of Iowa's plea for reinstatement. I do not believe it would do any good, anyway, for the Big Ten certainly would not consider it for another year."

Ira Carrithers, former Illinois athlete and now a well known athletic official, said he was both surprised and disappointed.

A half dozen other members of the alumni who were interviewed expressed the opinion that Iowa should not renew its appeal but book football games with colleges outside the conference.

McEver Leads 1929 Grid Scorers with 130 Points

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 8.—[U.P.]—Gene McEver, Tennessee's great half back, yesterday became the nation's leading scorer for 1929. He scored 13 points against the South Carolina Gamecocks to run his total to 130 points. He displaced Hinkle of Bucknell, who held the honor before today, with 128 points.

Cardinals Give Orange Worst Beating, 26-0

East Orange, N. J., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—The Chicago Cardinals administered the most decisive defeat of the season to Orange in a National Professional Football league game here this afternoon, running wild in the second quarter for three touchdowns and adding a fourth in the final period to win, 26 to 0.

Mickey MacDonnell, taking a short pass from Ernie Nevers, carried the ball from the Cardinals' 33 yard line to the Orange 20 yard line to pave the way for the first score. Two passes, Nevers to MacDonnell, put the ball over. Nevers place kicked the extra point. An Orange pass intercepted by MacDonnell and a pass, Nevers to Cobb Rooney, added the second. Again Nevers' place kick registered. Another intercepted pass by Duke Slater, who dashed forty yards, meant the third score of the period.

Orange made its most serious threat in the final period, when it pushes the in the final period, when it pushed the visitors to their own goal line, but then a Cardinal offensive, in which Nevers and Gene Rose carried the ball, traveled the length of the field, Nevers going over. The lineup:

ARMY GRID TEAM TO GO WEST ON A PATH OF ROSES

Railroads and Mr. Wandle Make Lavish Plans.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 8.—[Special.]—The preparations for the trip of the Army football team to Palo Alto, Cal., for the return game with Leland Stanford university on Dec. 28 have been completed, with the characteristic efficiency of the army. Officers of the marine corps have another term for the characteristic efficiency of the army, preferring to call it the army's usual sloppy manner, but then marine corps officers are very exacting critics of other people's efficiency, and especially of the army's.

According to the standards of efficiency of the average husband in travel these arrangements for the 6,000 mile journey of the West Point football detachment are very thorough, leaving nothing to chance, with the notable exception of the games of red dog and blackjack in the drawing rooms en route. It is always deemed to be good form in army circles to let nature take her course in the red dog and blackjack games.

Mr. Wandle Full of Tricks.

The Army train will consist of thirteen cars, including seven sleepers, two diners, an improvised gymnasium, a dressing and locker room, a shower room, and a room in which Mr. Frank Wandle, the old trainer, will set up the sun-ray, moon-ray, violet-ray, and other more or less therapeutic lamps and machines with which he treats the minor wounds of the athletes.

Mr. Wandle himself has great faith in these electrical devices, and inasmuch as the detachment will be on the road almost two weeks, and inasmuch as Mr. Wandle himself had much to do with the arrangement of the arrangements, it is not surprising to find that most of one baggage car has been set aside for this elaborate establishment, which resembles nothing so much as the corn doctor's department of an ultra-modern barber shop on Broadway.

As to whether these devices actually do relieve injuries the athletes on the team are not specific. Mr. Hertz Murrel, the full back, once remarked that they didn't make him feel any worse, and said that in view of the great pleasure which Mr. Wandle derives from operating his equipment it was little enough for him to do to sit still and take it.

Flout Carnegie Foundation.

In view of certain paragraphs of the Carnegie foundation's report, dealing with the demoralizing effects of luxurious travel on impressionable young men, it has been proposed that Maj. Gen. William L. Smith, the superintendent of the military academy, share one upper berth with Maj. Phil Fleming, the post athletic director, sleeping either in tandem or in rotation, as an example of self-sacrifice and the spartan way of life for the young cadets. But it is not likely that anything will come of this.

The Carnegie foundation expressed some perturbation because football players were allotted an entire berth, each, and a lower berth, at that, as a rule, while on tour. It was the feeling of the learned professors that the boys should double up, preferably in uppers, so as to be constantly reminded that upon graduation from college they might not be able to afford individual lowers. The argument on this subject then wandered off to something about the probable relation of unlaundered football pants to the rate of mortality from skin diseases.

At any rate, Gen. Smith and Maj. Fleming probably were spoiled some years ago and I doubt that they could be unspoiled now by eight nights of close order sleeping in an upper.

Railroads Help Out.

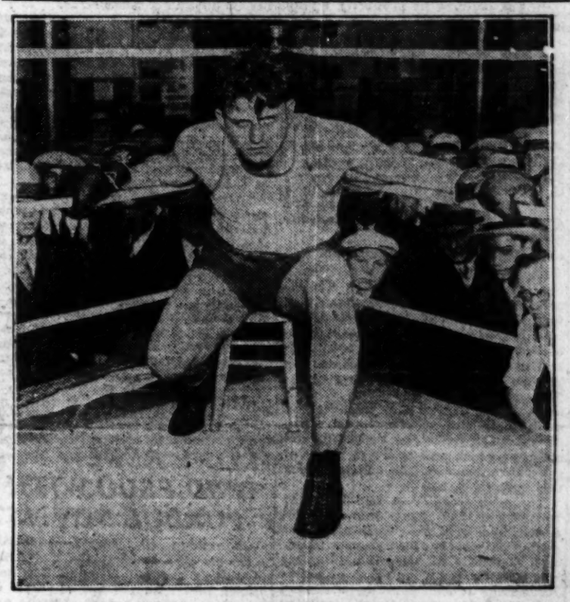
LOOK OUT, MR. SHIRES!



In this corner, Mysterious Dan Daly, who came out of obscurity yesterday to convince the boxing commission that he is a real person, physically able to match blows in the ring with the Great Shires, White Sox first baseman. Daly and Shires make their professional ring debut at White City tonight.

Dan Daly Here In Person; Fights Great Shires Tonight

BY EDWARD BURNS.

"Well, it looks like the battle of the century," allowed Promoter James C. Mullen yesterday afternoon as he watched Mysterious Dan Daly skip the rope 50 times with only three tangles.

"I was in a fair way toward a sellout when the boxing commission got curious about the identity of this Mysterious Dan and threatened to call off my fight between Dan and the Great Shires, thus stopping the ticket rush. But here's Dan in the flesh and blood and one of the most agile rope jumpers I ever saw jump a rope. The commission has approved the bout and now, I'm O, so happy!"

ART SHIRES.

Dan Is Only 22.

And Mr. Mullen's joy was justified, for it was indeed Dan, come out of the nowhere to avenge the wrong done to Lena Blackburne when C. Arthur Shires socked Lena in the eye, then waited six months and socked him again in the same eye.

It must be said right here that the man who will fight Shires tonight at White City crossed up all the guessers on his identity. He is not the Dan Daly who stayed nine rounds with Jess Willard at Buffalo when Jess was in his prime. Mullen's Dan is only 22 and isn't quite so large as the original Dan. But, my goodness, he's large enough to strike C. Arthur some severe blows—weighs 206 and is 6 feet 2.

Passes Physical Examination.

Dan crashed into Kid Howard's gym promptly at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the hour he had set to come out of his phantom rôle and show the commission representatives he is an earnest young man, possessing a modicum of experience and an abundance of physique.

The man who promises to knock out the truculent White Sox first baseman was put through his paces by Dr. Clifford Bergin of the boxing commission and given a glowing certificate of health. He then consented to talk, guardedly, about himself.

"I have always hated braggarts, and that's the reason I asked Mr. Mullen for the opportunity to flatten this ball player who admits he's so good at everything he attempts," said Dan in discussing Mr. Shires.

Promises to Avenge Lena.

"I don't say I'm a champion, but I'm good enough to smack this fellow like nobody's business. Just a knockout will not be sufficient. I expect to jolt him clear out of the ring as a reward for his cowardly treatment of Mr. Blackburne.

"I understand that Mr. Lou Comiskey, one of Shires' employers, is to have a seat at the ringside. I don't wish to injure Mr. Comiskey, but I don't want him to be surprised if his loud talking first baseman lands right on top of his [Mr. Comiskey's] bosom."

Like Shires, Daly is making his professional debut at the show tonight. However, he has had a career as a journeyman amateur, with a record of seven knockouts.

The remainder of the card:

Pete Wistort vs. Jackie Williams; 6 rounds; heavyweights.
Jimmie Murphy vs. Tommy Rice; 5 rounds; 150 pounds.
Pep Jusio vs. Billy Taylor; 5 rounds; 146 pounds.

Von Porat, Scott Meet in Garden Battle Tonight

New York, Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Otto Von Porat and Phil Scott will exchange premature Christmas greetings for twelve rounds or probably less, tomorrow night in the ring of Madison Square Garden.

It is expected that the boys will say it with something more devastating than nasty looks. They are fighting the main event of the New York-American Christmas fund benefit but before it is over it is reasonably certain that one will be more firmly convinced than ever that there is no Santa Claus.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Tommy Cook and Earl Miller, who came to the Blackhawks at the start of the hockey season with highly meritorious reputations in minor leagues, lived up to their advance notices at the Coliseum last night. Their team work was mainly responsible for sending the much abused Americans back to New York with another defeat chalked against them, this time by a score of 4 to 2.

Three times, once in each period, the tiny blonde, Cook, twisted himself through the Americans' defense with the puck, three times he passed to the big brunette, Miller, in front of the net, and three times Miller pushed the puck past hockey's greatest goalkeeper, Roy Worters. And if it hadn't been for some brilliant work by this some Worters the Hawks' score would have been much higher. The fourth Hawk score came from the blade of Ty Arbour.

Only Five Penalties Called.

Though soft ice hampered the players, the game was far from slow. The Hawks inaugurated a new style of timed and delayed passes that at times flabbergasted the Americans. In fact, the biggest crowd ever to see a hockey game in Chicago—8,500, exceeding the former record by 200—thought it great and responded with yells, whistles, and applause reminiscent of an Indiana college basketball game.

The game was one of the cleanest ever played in Chicago. Not a penalty was called in the first period, which, if memory is correct, is a record for the league this season. Only five penalties were called in the entire game, none of them for vicious infraction of the rules.

The game didn't start so well from the Chicago partisans' standpoint. The fleet and elusive Normie Himes, Americans' center, scored 38 seconds after the first face off. Himes' poke checked the puck from Ripley near his own blue line, raced down center ice, and twisted between the Hawks' defense to beat Gardiner with a high, close in shot. Wentworth scored on a pass from Arbour a minute later but the pass was offside.

The Drama Starts.

For a time the Americans' veteran defense was too smart for the Hawks, but with the period not quite half over, Miller and Cook put on the first act of the three part drama entitled "Pleasing the Home Fans." Miller, playing center, took the puck off a face off after an offside pass on the Americans' blue line. With a nice bit of stick handling he sneaked between the New Yorkers' defense as they fode down on him and passed to Miller. Earl faked Worters to the right and whipped the puck into the left side of the goal. Two other incidents of that first period were some speed skating by March and Mausecar's miss of a wide open shot at the Hawks' goal.

The stubby Worters had need to

Blackhawks May Move Into Stadium After Next Trip

The Chicago Blackhawks whose home ice has been the Coliseum the last three years, are likely to move to the Stadium in the near future. There is a possibility next Sunday's game against Pittsburgh may be played at the west side arena but it is more probable the change will be made after the Hawks' eastern trip the latter part of this month.

Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, president of the hockey club, said last night that friendly negotiations were under way, which he expected to end in the change of home ice. The Hawks were expected to play in the Coliseum last year, but the incompletion of the building forced them to play the last half of their schedule away from home. Then difficulties over rental led the hockey officials to sign a lease on the Coliseum for this year's home games.

show why he's rated the best goalie in the league through most of the second period, for the Hawks hammered him with shots from all angles. He had to make 17 stops in the twenty minutes, to only six by Gardiner, which is a tipoff on the comparison of the play.

The period was more than half gone before Miller and Cook put on their second act. Burns started this one, but was ridden off, and Cook snaked the pass out of a mass of star spangled American jerseys to shoot. Worters blocked it, but Cook followed in his own shot, recaptured the puck from a couple more Americans, and passed to Miller, who again slammed the puck into the corner of the net. Twice later the Hawks drove the puck inches short of the red line, but they couldn't push it over.

Arbour Breaks Up Rally.

"Bouncer" Taylor had drawn a penalty at the end of the second period and was still in the box at the start of the third, when the Americans began a wild drive to catch up. But Ty Arbour, the veteran back checking expert, scored in 45 seconds. He took the puck near his own goal and raced up the ice. Conacher rode him into a corner and he passed backward. Worters deflected the puck and Arbour raced after it. He caught it within ten feet of the goal and shot, but again Worters blocked it, but went down. The puck bounced away from him and again Arbour was on it like a hawk and slammed it into the net. It was the most brilliant bit of individual work in the game.

Taylor added another high spot by teaming up with the puck, even after he'd been checked off his feet, and then Miller and Cook came back to take another bow. Miller started it by taking the puck via a poke check in center ice, and passing to Cook in the Americans' defense zone. Cook worked it down in front of the goal and then, with Worters pulled to one side, gave the puck a little side flip to Miller who hooked it into the corner of the net again.

The Americans scored their second goal 15 seconds later when Himes made a rally and passed to Simpson, picked it up as he sped across in front of the net and beat Gardiner with a quick shot. Any hope the Americans had of catching up, however, was quickly lost when Boyd drew two penalties in quick succession.

RANGERS DEFEAT PITTSBURGH, 5-1

New York, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Taking a three goal lead in the opening period, New York's Rangers trounced the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5 to 1, in a dull National Hockey league game here tonight. The Pirates were on the defense most of the time.

New York's brilliant trio of forwards, the Cook brothers and Frank Boucher, slammed in three goals in the opening frame, each getting one. Paul Thompson gave the Rangers a 4-0 lead early in the second period and Boucher put in the final goal two minutes before the game ended. Pittsburgh's only goal came late in the second period.

Army Gridmen to Go West on Path of Roses

the journey and the composition of the train. Mr. Wandle insisted that his athletes must have hot and cold showers and the Santa Fe company which furnished the electro-therapy or corn doctors' studio, retired one of its baggage cars to the shops for some time while engineers and mechanics coöperated to build two large tanks along the side walls, heated by coils.

These tanks are connected with the cold water tanks on the roof, allowing for smooth regulation of the temperatures in the baths. Mr. Wandle says this is the first time this kind of thing has been done on a moving train but perhaps he is merely trying to pick an argument.

The baggage car next astern of this car will be the locker room, with benches secured along both side walls and a hook for each man's bag. There will be a gangplank in this car capable of quick operation, which will be shoved out or hauled in in three counts, hep, hep, ho! Embarking for the west, the team will run down the long hill at West Point, straight from the practice field, still wearing their togs, and subject the showers and dressing arrangements to an immediate test.

Mr. Wandle Goes Exploring.

Mr. Wandle made this tour himself last Christmas and reported his observations and recommendations in a long document, like a report of the intelligence corps. He made minute observations of the weather conditions at Upper Sandusky, Terre Haute, and Soldier, Kas., of the thickness of the T-bone steaks in Nebraska and so forth, much of which intelligence will moulder in the archives of the war department, never to be used, but much of which will be acted upon for the convenience of the cadets during this tour.

The team will dress and be ready to detrain and dash into practice scrimmage at three points along the route, Galesburg, Ill., Syracuse, Kas., and Needles, Cal. Mr. Wandle's estimates allow for 55 minutes of actual scrimmage at each point as he scouted suitable fields close to the railroad and made sure of permission to play on them. Also, whenever the train comes to a routine stop of five minutes or more during the waking hours all members of the team will be ordered down to the platform for calisthenics or footwork.

The entire cost of the journey, regardless of whether there is one joint upper or a drawing room each for the general and the athletic officer, will be borne by the fund of the athletic association, without any appropriation from the public funds. Several coaches, athletic directors, and educators of eastern univerisities with whom the Army has reasonably cordial football relations have been invited to join the party at their own expense.

Illini Student Daily Approves Action on Iowa

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Declaring that the Western conference faculty committee acted in good faith and in accordance with the facts and merits of the case, the Daily Illini, student newspaper of the University of Illinois, in an editorial today expressed approval of the position of Prof. Callen and Director Huff.

Urging Iowa to accept the decision in a sportsmanlike manner, the editorial voiced hope that Iowa soon will be able again to resume relations with the conference. The editorial said in part:

"There always exists a sympathy for any one who is expelled or ostracized from any group. It is also human nature to desire permanence of institution and the maintenance of the status quo; change is invariably abhorrent to the populace at large. Furthermore, we perverse mortals are disposed to be sympathetic toward culprits of all varieties [witness the number of acquitted murderers].

"The Daily Illini believes that the Big Ten faculty committee acted in perfect good faith and in accordance with the facts in the situation and the merits of the case. We know that our own Prof. Callen, in helping make the ballot unanimous against reinstatement, did so, not from any ill will he might conceivably bear against Iowa, but because he was convinced the action was for the best interests of the conference.

"We know that the same reasons motivated Mr. Huff last summer when he presented the facts and the recommendation of the Big Ten athletic directors to the faculty committee. Now that the case is settled, we hope that Iowa and its friends will accept the decision with good grace and in a sportsmanlike manner. It is also our sincere hope that the time will not be long before Iowa has cleaned house to the complete satisfaction of the faculty committee, and once again can enjoy friendly and satisfactory relations with the present Big Nine."

ILLINI RENEW GRID FEUD WITH PURDUE NOV. 1ST

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—Return of Purdue to the University of Illinois football schedule for next season met with popular approval on the Illini campus today. Illinois and Purdue have not played football since 1919.

Coach Zuppke would not have objected to an open date or an easier opponent on the Purdue date, a week before he leads the Illini east to meet Army in New York, especially since the Cadets do not meet a major opponent on Nov. 1. However, he was willing to coöperate in an effort to straighten out the situation caused by the departure of the Hawkeyes.

Iowa Strikes Back at Big Nine Greed

sulting from the elimination of Iowa. I venture to predict that purity of athletics will not in all cases be the primary consideration."

Both E. H. Lauer, athletic director, and Williams, confirming THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE story of the meeting, said the issue which turned the balance against Iowa was the trust fund alleged to have been created by diversion of athletic department funds under the regime of Paul E. Belting as director of athletics. The Hawkeye leaders pointed to the irony of a situation whereby Iowa supplied the evidence which led to its own punishment, because the original Big Ten charges included no mention of either the so-called Belting fund or of the work fund created by Iowa City merchants to aid in furnishing jobs for athletes.

Board Meets Tomorrow.

Only the old alumni fund known as the "Mercer" fund apparently had come to the knowledge of the conference until Iowa's own investigation uncovered the other two, it was said.

Iowa's athletic board today was called to meet next Tuesday afternoon to consider the formation of the future Hawkeye policy. While Director Lauer has expressed himself as being inclined to oppose another attempt by Iowa to win reinstatement, Dean Williams today said it was his personal opinion "that the natural field of competition for Iowa is in the Big Ten."

That the end of the conference upheaval has not come was hinted by Old Gold leaders today. It was learned that in the conference session Friday and Saturday there was expression of a possibility that other schools may be involved in the sweeping investigation of eligibility enforcement.

A mass meeting around the steps of the old Iowa state capitol today was attended by almost a thousand students who responded with cheers when Athletic Director Lauer, Football Coach Burt Ingwersen and Basketball Coach Rollie Williams urged the undergraduates not to become discouraged because of the conference ouster.

Jessup Makes Statement.

President W. A. Jessup, who returned this afternoon from New York, issued the following statement:

"The faculty has the utmost confidence that the Iowa board in control of athletics under the chairmanship of Dean C. C. Williams, with Dr. E. H. Lauer as its administrative officer, will command respect in all matters pertaining to physical education and intercollegiate athletics. They will have full support in a program calling for vigorous adherence to the highest educational standards. The university thinks first of its own integrity and its responsibility to the state. It never has nor will it allow any outside body to dictate the membership of its staff."

C.T. 12-9. SEPARATE BOOTHS FOR LADIES

MAJOR LEAGUES PONDER CLOSING SEASON EARLIER

Grid Popularity to Force Issue This Week.

New York, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The retreat of the baseball clans from Chattanooga progressed as far as New York today as officials, magnates, managers and camp followers gained strategic positions to await the annual meetings of the major leagues this week.

Driven from its traditional meeting site by the razing of the Waldorf-Astoria, the National league will assemble in the Hotel Commodore on Tuesday, and the American league will gather in the same place on Wednesday. The joint meeting of the two circuits will be held at the Biltmore on Thursday.

Two Issues Before Clubs.

Aside from the solemn ceremony of voting the two pennants to the Athletics and the Cubs, the two major circuits have two or three pieces of important business on which to take action, including an earlier closing date and a stand on the question of broadcasting league games. Both the early closing and the radio will be taken up by each league individually, with final decision doubtless awaiting the joint meeting over which Commissioner Landis will preside.

Although the 1929 world series encountered three fine afternoons in Philadelphia after a chilly opening and a frigid second game in Chicago, sentiment in the two circuits seems to run toward a closing date on the last Sunday in September, the 28th next year. The world series then could be completed in the first week of October, avoiding conflict with football except on Oct. 4.

Cuts Off Six Playing Dates.

A mid-April opening and a Sept. 28 closing would give the major leagues only about 170 playing dates for the accommodation of 154 games as opposed to 176 days available in the 1928 schedule. With Sunday baseball in Boston, however, the makers of the charts should find 169 or 170 days sufficient—provided the magnates first an reconcile themselves to the loss of the twentyfifth Saturday and Sunday of the longer arrangement.

The club owners seem to be somewhat divided on the question of broadcasting with the non-radio group slightly in the majority because of the traditional suspicion with which some of the magnates view anything which smacks of progress.

Philip de Catesby Ball, social giant of the major leagues, leads the opponents of broadcasting, contending that fans refused to pay to see the Browns play.

N. U. to Open Cage Season with Cornell

NORTHWESTERN.		CORNELL.
Bergherm	L. F.	O'Connor
Reil	R. F.	Lundt
Walther	C.	Welzel
Mundy	L. G.	Cook
McCarnes	R. G.	Bickoff

Referee—John Schommer [Chicago]. Umpire—Nick Kearns [De Paul].

Northwestern will present its 1929-'30 basketball team in the season's inaugural at Patten gymnasium tonight with Cornell college of Mount Vernon, Ia., serving as the opposition. The game will start at 8 o'clock.

Just what the Wildcats will offer in way of competition for the Big Nine title is problematical. However, Coach Dutch Lonborg will start a team composed of four letter men and one sophomore. Three regulars of last year's team will be missing. Hal Gleichman, forward, and Hal Schultz, guard, both went out through the graduation route. Frank Marshall, star guard, is ineligible.

The Purple leader has elected to start Rus Bergherm and Bert Reil, members of the football team, as forwards. These youths have been practicing only for six days and are far from the form required for later contests. Rut Walter, captain and center, appears to have recovered from a knee operation in August and is ready to perform at center.

Merrill Mundy, a senior and letter man, who played a year ago, will be given a chance as regular guard. He will pair with Bob McCarnes, lanky sophomore, who is reputed to be quite a performer.

Several other candidates are to be given a chance. John Whalen and Joe Schwartz, forwards, and Bus Smith, guard, all members of last year's team, probably will see action. A number of sophomores also will perform if things go well. They include Bob Lockhart, Lee Davis and Dal Marvil, guards, and Bob Hails and Conrad Lippert, forwards.

Cornell brings a veteran team. Coach Jud Dean has nine letter men on the squad that last year placed third in the Midwest conference. In the last few years the purple clad cagers from Iowa have won from Minnesota and also have played nip and tuck affairs with Wisconsin and Michigan.

Mastro and Taylor Speed Up Ring Drills

Bud Taylor and Earl Mastro squared away yesterday for a whirlwind training windup in preparation for their fight at the Chicago Stadium Friday night.

Both of the boys, of course, are thorough workmen and have felt no need of telling what they're going to do to each other, leaving their constituencies to attend to that matter.

The Mastro following is shouting a little louder than Bud's admirers, a circumstance that worries Bud little, in view of the fact his recent fights have convinced him he again is on the up grade.

Unlike Mastro, Bud is not referred to as a "comer," which may account for the calmer enthusiasm in his behalf. Mastro, on the other hand is eager for fields to conquer and feels himself on the way to the championship.

The promoters continue to look for a $70,000 house, which, on the bargain scale effective, means almost capacity.

The second of the series of boxing shows scheduled for the winter season in the Jai Alai fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue, will be held tonight. Paul Beeler, matchmaker, is stressing the claim that he will not seek any "alluring clowns" to smoke up his shows but will deal only with bona fide scrappers of known attainments.

Pesty Sparrows Fall in Vermin Class; Trap 'Em

BY BOB BECKER.

Although the common English sparrow usually is classed as a pest because of its noisy, rowdy habits, it is quite possible for this bird to be so abundant in certain localities as to rank it almost in the vermin class. When any bird annoys or drives away useful species on a farm or lot, the bird fan then has reason to take measures to reduce the numbers of such a pest.

The United States biological survey recognizes the English sparrow as a pest and has prepared a farmer's bulletin [No. 493] advising how to control these birds. It recommends the use of traps.

How to build the traps and operate them also are discussed in detail in this bulletin, available for distribution by the bureau in Washington, D. C.

Probably the best trap is the wire mesh type, a double funneled affair which can be made quite cheaply. When placed on the ground, baited with bread crumbs, rolled oats, or other similar foods, the English sparrows will enter it without much hesitation. In the winter, when food is scarce, is a good time to operate these traps.

Another advantage of winter trapping for the English sparrows is that there is less danger of trapping desirable birds in the north. Care should be taken at all times to see that no native birds are destroyed.

The weekly amateur boxing show will be held at the Marigold Gardens tonight. Matchmaker Johnny Coulon has arranged eight bouts.

Conroys Roll 3,002 Score in Toledo Meet

Toledo, O., Dec. 8.—[Special.]—The first contingent of Chicago bowlers competing in the 11th annual Central States Bowling association tournament rolled doubles and singles late today, landing tenth place in the first mentioned division, and fifth, seventh and tenth places in the one man class.

Late Saturday night Chicago bowlers also did well, winning second and ninth positions in the five men event. The John E. Conroys hit the 3,002 mark for second place, while Polacki Recreations totaled 2,932 to tie for ninth. The Palace Recreations, Detroit, lead this event with 3,125.

H. Lange and E. Schang aggregated 1,192 for the best Chicago doubles score. They had 423 for their first game, 390 in the second and 379 in the final. W. Barman and J. Badeselor came second with 1,179 as a result of 332, 396 and 451 games. E. Boyle and R. Hayes were third with 1,141. E. Hartman and J. Crimins, Detroit, topped today's doubles with 1,346.

P. Rankin was the big noise in the Chicago singles. He hit the wood for a 669 score for fifth position, collecting 215 in the first game, 209 in the second, and 245 in the third. R. Hayes made the next best showing with 668 for seventh place. He started out with 233 for the opening game, came back with 202 for the second and had 233 for the final. H. Lange was third with 651 for tenth place. He had a string of 241, 199 and 209 games. Other Chicagoans rolling in the select 600 class included: T. Reynolds with 619; S. Lock, 648, and E. Schang, 648.

CARNEGIE TEAM STOPS OFF ON WAY TO TROJAN GAME

Hopeful of Victory Over Coast Eleven.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

With only two defeats to mar its record, the Carnegie Tech football team in charge of Assistant Coach Bob Waddell passed through Chicago yesterday on its transcontinental journey to Los Angeles where it will meet Southern California on Saturday.

According to Waddell, the squad is in splendid condition and is prepared to put up a great game against the Trojans, who will meet the undefeated Pittsburgh eleven in the Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena, Cal., on New Year's day.

Lose to Strong Teams.

Carnegie, which has Walter P. Steffen, former University of Chicago star as its advisory coach, has lost only two games this year. In both instances it was defeated by two of the strongest elevens in the country. Notre Dame, a strong claimant of national honors, won from the Pittsburgh eleven, 7 to 0, and the Pittsburgh Panthers were victorious over Coach Steffen's team, 34 to 13. Tech played Washington and Jefferson to a scoreless tie.

Notre Dame won from Southern California, 13 to 12. Coach Rockne's eleven had to play its best to win from Carnegie, 7 to 0. On this basis, the eastern team cannot be considered a setup.

"Because of their fine showings against Notre Dame and Pittsburgh, the boys think they have a good chance to defeat the Trojans," Waddell said. "We sprang a surprise by defeating New York university and we may do the same against Southern California. We are hopeful, but not too confident."

Steffen in Charge.

Coach Steffen will be in charge of the party the rest of the way to the coast. Steffen believes his team has a good chance to win.

"If the boys execute formations as they did against New York university, Southern California will have a busy afternoon," he said. "We realize we have everything to win and nothing to lose. With the exception of Karcis, full back, everybody is in good shape. He will be able to play part of the game at least."

PLAN TO SPLIT SWIFT STOCKS FOUR FOR ONE

Holders to Decide January 9.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Plans of Swift & Co., Chicago meat packers, to split the capital stocks on a four for one basis were announced last night by President L. F. Swift in a letter to the stockholders. The recommendation of the directors will be voted on at the annual meeting on Jan. 9.

The proposal is to change the present capital stock from 1,500,000 shares of $100 par value to 6,000,000 shares of $25 par value and to exchange four new shares for each old share. The new stock will carry an annual dividend rate of $2, payable in quarterly installments of 50 cents, which is on a parity with the present annual rate of $8, payable $2 quarterly.

Desires Wide Distribution.

"A wider distribution of Swift & Co. shares is desirable in the interest of the company in the judgment of the directors," President Swift says in his letter. "This distribution can best be obtained if the capital stock is represented by a larger number of shares of a lower par value, making the stock more available to the smaller investor, including the company's customers and employes, as well as the consumers of the company's products.

"The company's capitalization will be $150,000,000, at at present. In addition to its paid-up capital, the company has accumulated surplus of over $76,000,000, giving the new stock a book value of approximately $37.50 a share for the 6,000,000 shares proposed to be issued. This does not include anything for goodwill."

Has Good Business.

Swift shares have always been regarded as a high grade investment issue but trading in the stock has been limited and market prices have conformed largely to book value. The present shares have a book value of more than $150 and the market price yesterday was around 137. This year the price has ranged between 123 and 145.

The company set a record for volume of business last year, with sales above $970,000,000 for the fiscal year ending Nov. 3, 1928. Net earnings were $14,813,182, equivalent to $9.87 a share, and surplus after the 8 per cent dividend was $2,813,181.

State Bank of Chicago Observes 50th Birthday

The State bank of Chicago, recently merged with the Foreman banks, today observes its fiftieth birthday. The institution was founded as a private bank in 1879 and offices were opened at 55 North La Salle street. In 1891 the bank was granted a state charter. Original deposits of $33,000 have grown to approximately $64,000,000.

Buyers Find Chicago Mart Easy to Shop

BY HOWARD CARSWELL.

It is a characteristic of the Chicago central wholesale market that scores of buyers from all over the middle west and other sections visit Chicago, buy their merchandise stocks and return to their homes after a one day visit.

Chicago is just an overnight train ride for most of them, while the compactness of the wholesale market in this city allows examination of a great diversity of lines in several hours which, in New York, might be a matter of days.

The Furniture mart has demonstrated the advantage of a concentrated market where buyers may look over manufacturers' lines in a comparatively brief time. This advantage will be further emphasized by Chicago's great merchandise mart, which will have about 4,000,000 square feet, or about 100 acres, of display space.

Miles of Displays.

Out of town buyers may view six and a half miles of display windows within a single building. Emphasized by these mammoth wholesale marts within an overnight train ride from the average city of the middle west, Chicago's position as the central market should in time become unrivalled.

Western buyers who still patronize New York need four or five days to see the wholesale market there, in addition to the two or perhaps three days ride by train at appreciable expense. The saving in time, expenses and freight charges alone is continually educating merchants of the middle west to Chicago's locality and its compact wholesale district.

New Yorkers inferentially oppose this trend to Chicago by insisting that styles and fashions originate there. As the style center, either real or fancied, New York still retains a leadership in several women's lines and women buyers, for the most part, are still patronizing the eastern center for dresses and kindred lines.

Because of its great concentration of population and wealth, New York is more prone to fads and unstable fashions, according to T. D. Reagan of Dunworth-Reagan company, resident buyers. The western department store proprietor would have difficulty in remaining in business if he stocked up on many of the passing New York fancies, he asserts.

Are Obtainable Here.

The same stable fashions can be obtained in the Chicago market, although the merchant who buys here naturally buys those which will not be out of style before he can sell them, Mr. Reagan contends.

Sherman Brothers company, the first resident buying office in this city, opened seven years ago with only the promise of Chicago's potential position as a central market.

Now more than thirty department stores in middle and far western cities are clients. Their 1929 business will double that of 1928, according to J. C. Sherman, a partner, who points out that more than ten syndicates and resident buyers' offices are now located in Chicago, with many more in prospect after the Merchandise Mart is opened.

AUTHORIZE U. S. BANKS TO REDEEM CERTIFICATES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Secretary Mellon announced today that he had authorized federal reserve banks to redeem in cash before maturity, at the holder's option, treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TD-1929 and 5S-2-1929, which are payable on Dec. 15.

The order becomes effective Dec. 10 and the certificates will be refeemed at par and accrued interest. The first series bear interest at 4¼ per cent and the second at 4¾ per cent. A total of approximately $700,000,000 in the two issues mature on Dec. 15 and the treasury has announced an issue of about $100,000,000 in treasury bills and $325,000,000 in treasury certificates to meet the financing. The total of the new issues together with income tax payments on Dec. 15 is expected to provide funds to meet the issues and operate the government until next March.

To Choose Directors for Chicago Bank of Commerce

Capital stock subscribers of the Chicago Bank of Commerce will meet tomorrow at the Palmer house to elect a board of directors, according to Henry S. Henechen, chairman of the organization committee. The bank is scheduled to open for business next month in the Union Trust building, Dearborn and Madison streets. The directors chosen at tomorrow's meeting will act as managers for one year dating from the opening of the bank.

This represents an increase of $100,686,372 or 4.72 per cent.

SEES BUSINESS GOOD IN 1930 FOR PULP AND PAPER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 8.—The volume of business in the pulp and paper industry has been well maintained in the first half of November and the prospects are bright for 1930, according to a round robin survey made by the American Paper and Pulp association and reported by its president, S. L. Willson. The paper industry is generally continuing the trend established during the first ten months of 1929, the report says.

The report covers 222 companies. Of these, 103 companies indicated that orders for the first half of November, 1929, exceeded in tonnage orders during a comparable period in 1928. Sixty companies reported orders practically unchanged and the remainder decreases.

Sec. Davis Would Extend Selective Immigration

BY SCRUTATOR.

Secretary of Labor Davis, in his annual report to congress, indicated that the immigration laws have held down the number of incomers from European countries to the desired extent, but added that the absence of restriction on immigrants from the Canada and Mexico prevents complete numerical control of immigration.

Canada in this respect presents no particular problem. A constant decline in the number of persons entering from that country, for permanent residence, has been noticed since 1925, and in the last fiscal year was less than two-thirds the number coming over the border five years before.

It is the Mexican—less in harmony with American standards and ideals—who furnishes the provocation for the secretary's recommendation of the application of quota laws to countries of North and South America. The Mexicans who came in 1929 were some 40,000, a considerable falling off from the peak of nearly 68,000 in 1927, but still an undue number. The remainder of Latin America sent only about 5,000.

No Laborers Needed, Claim.

Latin American immigration is disadvantageous to the countries of origin as well as to the United States. All of the nations south of the Rio Grande can well afford to keep what population they have. Some of them are actively engaged in trying to attract colonization from the crowded European lands. As Secretary Davis remarks, it is hardly neighborly for the United States to take away their native born who must be replaced by outsiders.

From the domestic standpoint there is little or no necessity for unskilled labor, under which description come most of the Mexicans. By race and habits they are less easily absorbed than any of the western Europeans, who are rigidly limited by the quotas.

It probably is not possible to explain the present American living standard by saying it is due to the cutting off of cheap labor supplies from Europe and the forcing of American business to learn to make profits by employing high priced labor. However, there has been a large increase in real wages since restriction was adopted as a policy. Some 280,000 immigrants were admitted in the last year ending in June, the Mexicans included. By deducting the losses in emigration, however, the net gain in population was less than 210,000.

Favors Quick Selection.

Secretary Davis believes there should be provisions that will permit quick selection of particularly desirable immigrants. He recalled an instance of a European capitalist who wanted to establish a large factory in the east, but was prevented from coming in by the fact that under the quota for his country his application and those of the key men he wished to bring with him would not be approved for more than two years.

The suggestion is that special cases arising, in which there is evidence that particular immigrants are needed here, could be heard publicly by the secretary of labor. He would be empowered to put applicants of this sort, particularly chemists, scientists and engineers in preferred classifications.

As pleas for the encouragement of the higher class immigrant and the barring of the less desirable the secretary's recommendations are worth congressional attention.

TERMINAL COST RUNS IN EXCESS OF EXPECTATIONS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Permission was asked today by the Cleveland Union Terminal company from the interstate commerce commission to issue $18,000,000 of gold bonds to be guaranteed by the New York Central, the Big Four, and the Nickel Plate railroads.

The funds would be used to reimburse in part the roads which are building the terminal for advances already made. These now total $29,666,400. The application cites that the terminal originally was estimated to cost $60,565,818, but now is expected to exceed that amount by approximately $28,000,000.

The bonds will be 4½ per cent first mortgage 50 year sinking fund gold bonds and will be sold at the best prices obtainable, but not less than 92 per cent of the par value.

Hoover Message Is Heartening.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 8.—A presidential message which spoke frankly about the collapsed stock speculation, but hopefully about the prospect of saving general trade from the old time after-panic reckoning, a treasury report which was not despondent about the effect of the Wall street crash on the public finances; though it recognized the obscurities surrounding such results and continuance of the White House conferences—these incidents of last week were reasonably heartening.

Mr. Hoover, it is true, concluded his remarks somewhat cautiously by the statement that "we have reestablished confidence" and that "a very large degree of industrial unemployment which would otherwise have occurred has been prevented." Mr. Mellon also refrained from cocksure prediction; taking refuge, as a December treasury report always makes possible, in confining specific remarks to the fiscal year ending with last June.

Stocks Improve.

But the disappearance of acute financial unsettlement was as visible on last week's stock market as in the

28 Days Early

IN 1926 the demand for electric power in Florida increased at an abnormal rate. A local utility company required a completely equipped power plant ready for operation in 250 days. Barstow engineers were given the job.

In just eleven days a freight dock was built complete—610 feet out into the river. Houses were built for 400 workmen. Steam shovels tore away the sand down to a stratum of oyster shell and coral. The plant was finished, equipped and in use 222 days later—28 days early.

WHEAT TRADERS FLOODED WITH CROP STATISTICS

Opinions Have Influence on Market Prices.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A deluge of statistics on the world's wheat situation, citing in particular the position of the United States, Canada, Australia, and Argentina, gives wheat traders plenty to think about and trade upon. All have more or less influence on market fluctuations.

In the main they suggest an elimination of the surplus at the end of the year, possibly a carry-over of 200,000,000 bu in excess of last year and probably a small reduction at the end of the season.

There are compilations from the United States department of agriculture, from Broomhall, the foreign statistician, and several from domestic statisticians.

John F. Barrett presents a careful survey of this year's crop, with estimated shortages of 110,000,000 bu in the United States, 260,000,000 bu in Canada, 120,000,000 bu in Argentina, and 50,000,000 bu in Australia, a total of 540,000,000 bu. These losses almost offset the heavy carry-over, and if the latter and this year's shortage in output are eaten up the carry-over for next year will be practically nothing.

Estimates on the Argentine surplus are 85,000,000 to 147,000,000 bu, the latter by Broomhall. The best people in Argentina, however, agree on abbut 20,000,000 bu surplus.

Argentina Fails to Respond.

Unfortunately for those who assume a bullish position on the wheat market based on Australian and Argentine crop shortages, prices in Buenos Aires have not responded in proportion to the reduction in the crop. This disappointment has induced traders to take profits on all sharp bulges above $1.40 for May in Chicago and replace their holdings on declines of around 3c or more. Were prices in Buenos Aires to advance sharply on the greatly reduced crop estimates and hold the gains, traders say they would be more inclined to take a firm position on the bull side in Chicago and other markets.

Foreigners are disturbed over the Argentine situation, yet late cables from Liverpool report Argentina offering wheat in the latter market at relatively lower prices than it can be laid down from America, which was in a measure responsible for heavy selling to take profits and possibly to limit losses attributed to eastern interests in the closing days of the week.

At the present the wheat market is more two-sided despite the fact that cash premiums are the highest of the season, and good export sales are being made daily, although not all are reported. December deliveries aggregated 15,686,000 bu and have been well taken care of.

Trading in futures increased matcially last week, with sales of 438,394,000 bu, against 291,219,000 bu the previous week and 130,927,000 bu last year. The open interest in December of 9,908,000 bu shows a good decrease, while in May it increased, being 153,932,000 bu at the last.

More wheat is being marketed in the southwest, and the market in all is regarded as nearer an export basis.

At the close prices were well toward the week's lowest, with December, $1.25@1.24⅞; March, $1.32⅝@1.32½; May, $1.36⅝@1.36½, and July, $1.36⅝@1.36¼, net losses for the week being 3⅛@4¼c.

Corn Deliveries Small.

The first deliveries of cash corn on December contracts were made Saturday, 20,000 bu. It is not expected that there will be free deliveries as stocks do not permit. The situation is more mixed with a disposition to buy on the breaks and take profits on sharp bulges. In parts of the corn belt offerings have become more liberal, but in others the disposition is to hold corn for higher prices. As a speculative proposition corn fails to attract a large outside trade.

At the close, gains, however, were ⅝@1c for the week. December finished at 89⅝c; March, 95⅝c; May, 97⅛@97⅝c; July, 98⅜c. Prices for the week follow:

Cash Oats Strong.

Oats are being absorbed by cash interests, but the movement is light and the market has a fairly strong undertone, net losses for the week being ⅛@¾c. Movement from the country is small and No. 3 white oats have moved up to December 1c over with No. 3 white December to 1c under. At the close December was 48⅝c; March, 49⅛@49⅝c; May, 50⅝@50⅞c. INSTALLMENT I.
AN UNPLEASANT AWAKENING.

The pineapple ornamented chiffonier, painted gray, was the first object which Kellogg saw, and he closed his eyes immediately, as if the sight were not at all pleasant. He sat slowly up, swung long legs from under the lumpy covers, and went to the heap of clothes on the scuffed leatherette chair.

Here he found cigaret and matches.

Kellogg, sitting gravely on the mattress—the sheet had been rumpled sack and feathers protruded as from a moulting goose—did not seem to belong in the somber room; he looked about him as if seeing it for the first time. A train hammered past, and Kellogg stared thoughtfully through the gray lace curtains at it, put a hand to his head as if it ached, and then slipped from the bed again and pulled down the shade.

His watch, on the chiffonier, told him that it was almost ten; he was putting it down when the door rattled. John Andrew said, automatically, "Yes," and glanced about quickly for his bag; he did not see it, nor the dressing gown he wanted; he sighed a second time and stood gazing uncertainly at the door.

It opened before John Andrew could decide to get back into the bed. He was vaguely glad that he had pulled down the shade.

"No job?" Kellogg heard.

She was, he saw, a very large woman. It would never do to argue with her. He did not feel like arguing with any one; the proper thing to do was to get back into bed and close his eyes again.

"How 'bout it, mister?"

Kellogg, backing toward the bed, flushed as the words hit him. He suddenly grinned, and his angular face became almost handsome. "It wouldn't be a good bet," he said. "Unless . . . tell me, please: is this New York?"

The woman stared at him. "Where'd you think it was?" she demanded.

"I hoped that it was Utica. It isn't. I probably haven't."

"Haven't what?"

John Andrew said gravely, "A job."

The woman's roving eyes checked off every object in the room and ended on John Andrew's scarlet and lilac silk pajamas. Before she could speak he said placidly, "I rather wondered where my bag was, too. Did I, by any chance, leave it downstairs?"

"Your friend took it with him," the landlady informed him.

So many emotions chased across the landlady's face that John Andrew began to laugh. As if the sound released a stopper, the woman began to talk rapidly, crescendo; a fine game they'd worked on her, and to think she'd fallen for it! Mr. Jennings telling her that his friend had taken the room, and that he—Mr. Jennings—had left the last two weeks' rent with his friend and that his friend would in the future pay in advance because he had a steady job . . . and she'd fallen for it. And let Mr. Jennings get away with a good suitcase. . . . "I suppose you don't intend to stay here at all."

John Andrew stifled a "Heaven forbid" and said only, "No."

"I can rent it easy enough. . . . Well, let's have what Jennings left."

"We'll see what that is," Kellogg agreed. Blanket draped across his shoulders, with as much dignity as he could summon, he strode to the pile of clothes on the chair. Even before he searched he knew what was there—a handkerchief, a key ring, a check book, a bo of cigarets. . . .

Now that he thought about it soberly, Jennings hadn't been much in college anyhow; he wondered why he'd gone out with him last night. But Jennings had seemed so down in his luck that it was pleasant to take the fellow around a bit, for a decent meal after a drink or two, always remembering that he himself must catch the midnight train for Utica. He believed now that Jennings had been telling a story when it was time to rush for the Grand Central, and that later Jennings had said something about there being another train at four in the morning . . . and then said something also involving an hour's sleep to set him right before he boarded the train. . . .

No, Jennings certainly wasn't a very good sort. John Andrew wished that he had merely given Jennings what might be called a loan and let it go at that.

"You suppose right, mister. I wouldn't." She was near the chiffonier now, and added, "And don't try leaving your watch."

John Andrew stared at the landlady and then said, "I'll get dressed, and then if you will allow me to use your telephone——"

"Which is right next to the front door? H—mm. You can use it, mister, but you leave your clothes right here and telephone the way you are. Not that I expect any good to come of it." She reached into her apron pocket and drew out a nickel. "Make the most of it," she said. "It's all yours."

John Andrew grinned at the landlady and she smiled half sourly back. Just as he felt a trifle more cheerful she said, as if she had been thinking it all the time, "I've read about you society flimflammers, but I never saw one of you before, nor pajamas like that, neither."

The blanket tighter than ever about him, John Andrew paraded down the corridor, down two flights of narrow stairs and to the telephone.

He paused before taking the receiver from the hook and looked grimly at the coin in his hand. There were a dozen fellows who would come with the money at once, but he could not be positive any of them would be in to answer his call. He must not call the Asiatic-Import; he was in trouble enough with his chief, Saunders, as it was, and especially so when Saunders found out that he was still in New York. That was out. There was Barbara, of course, who might be at home, but he sighed again as he thought of making explanations, and she was probably out anyhow.

There was no other positive thing to do; he dropped the coin and gave the number, much as if exposing his chest to a knife.

"Mr. Craig," he said. "Mr. Kellogg." He waited. At last, "Hello, Mr. Craig. This is John Andrew. No, I'm not in Utica . . . it's quite a story; too long to tell now, and . . . what? no; I haven't told them at the office yet, but I will . . . what? . . . yes, I'm going there just as soon as . . . I can't, right this minute, because striped pajamas are only done at European bathing beaches . . . no, sir, I'm not drunk . . . that's what I'm trying to tell you, sir; please send some one down here with a hundred . . . O, just in hock for room rent . . . wait a minute . . ."

To the landlady: "Where am I?"

And, after telling Craig, "I took this one right between the eyes," John Andrew said. "It happened like this, if you must know . . . what?"

There was now a long silence; John Andrew did nothing save listen, until he said lavelly, "I see. Yes, sir, I'll come in as soon as I can. Good-by."

"What'd he say?"

"I almost wish he had. No; it'll be here in ten or fifteen minutes. He was . . . just getting value received for it. Now I'll get some clothes on if you think it's safe to let me. I promise not to climb out of the window."

He turned and then pulled the blanket as high as he could, unaware of exposing his brilliantly clad legs the more.

He had not heard any one come down the stairs. His face was as red as the stripes of his pajamas, although he tried valiantly to appear serene.

Even his first terrified glance told him that she was a very pretty girl.

"Good morning," John Andrew said.

Why on earth had he said that—or anything? What difference did it make that a girl—even a pretty girl—had slipped up on him, to stand looking at if he were one of the apes in the zoo? In a few minutes more he'd be out of this confounded boarding house, and . . .

"Good morning," the girl said frostily. "Is the telephone free?"

"All you need," John Andrew informed her earnestly, "is a nickel. And the lady here will gladly lend you one, as she did me——"

"So I heard," the girl said.

John Andrew tried to glare at her. She was dressed all in dark blue—grateful to his eyes—with a tight little hat which was blue. Her eyes were at once cool and excited and shone frankly; John Andrew supposed that it was this obvious happiness—he realized that it assuredly did not concern him—which had made him speak.

"You shouldn't judge by first appearances," John Andrew said seriously.

"I know you're the Prince of Wales," the girl snapped. "Nobody else would dare wear such . . . such . . ."

"Say it," John Andrew grinned. He looked down and saw an expanse of scarlet and lilac; he flushed, but stood his ground.

"I really want to use the phone," she said.

It was only fair that he caught a word or two of what the girl said after the way she'd listened to what the landlady had told him, John Andrew decided, as he dressed slowly.

Good Morning!

This amusing number from the play by Frederic Isham was made some years ago as a silent film by George Fitzmaurice, who photographed the scenes in Lindon. The present version was assembled in Hollywood.

It is quite funny and very well done, and you get a chance to hear real cockney spoken—or what I assume is real cockney, knowing nothing at all about cockney.

The story told is of three British soldiers, who are reported to have been killed in action, but who have really been confined in a German prison camp—from which they escape. They are Jimmie Gubbins, a cockney; William Foster, an American; and "Spoofy," a shell-shocked gentleman of the upper classes who has no idea who he is but who has developed a remarkable knack for thievery. He just loves to take things—anything from a salt cellar to a baby, and it is this mania of his that causes the interesting developments that lead up to the highly satisfactory dénouement.

These three men return to their old haunts to find the unexpected waiting for them. Foster, who, by the way, is wanted by the police and is traveling under the alias of Jones, is greeted with greedy arms by Mrs. Gubbins, his buddy's stepmother, who knows a thousand pounds will be her reward for turning him over to the police. Her efforts to give him up and her stepson's determined attempts to circumvent her afford much amusement.

Beryl Mercer is marvelous as the sly, grasping, oily, gin-fond Mrs. Gubbins. Charles McNaughton as her son does a splendid piece of work. Nancy Price makes a brief and remarkably effective entrance as a landlady's impudent daughter, and Hilda Vaughn does Jimmie's cockney sweetheart with a nice feel for comic effect. Claude Allister is great as "Spoofy," Robert Montgomery believable as Foster and all other rôles are competently taken care of. Direction, synchronization, staging and photography are satisfactory.

The fun of "3 Live Ghosts" is rather quiet fun but audiences at the United Artists theater seem to like it.

THE CAST.

Pat King	Alice White
Bill Harrigan	Charles Delaney
Lawrence Mayfield	Wheeler Oakman
Jerry Donnelly	Ben Hall
Tillie Hart	Rita Flynn
Dowling	Gladden James
Dave	Bert Moorehouse
Cleo	Patricia Caron
Pa Donnelly	William Orlamond
Ma Donnelly	Milla Davenport

Alice White's admirers, of whom I am not one—though I honestly believe she has the most beautiful legs on the screen—will undoubtedly be keen for this picture, which offers her a meaty part. She talks, she sings, she dances, and is the object of nice Charles Delaney's affection—which she returns with interest.

Mr. Delaney as the little blonde lady's Big Moment brings a warm, virile, vibrant note to the proceedings. Rita Flynn as her pretty, loyal, and dumb buddess is clever and a dear. Wheeler Oakman as a suave night club owner who means no good to our Nell and to whom punishment is heartily meted out in due time by Mr. Delaney, is splendid, while other rôles are satisfactorily taken care of. Direction, photography, synchronization, and all the rest pass muster.

"The Girl from Woolworth's" is a maiden who sings and sells popular music at the busy mart advertised in the title. Her voice and personality attract the attention of a young man whose apparent business is spotting talent for Lawrence Mayfield's night club. Which is how Miss White gets a chance to show those legs plenty later on in the picture.

Mr. Delaney, as Pat's beloved subway guard, Pat Harrigan, thinks not highly of either her new job or her employer, does a lot of misunderstanding as to her motives and—see picture for further developments. You will find it quite a lively piece.

See you tomorrow.

INSTALLMENT XXXI.
SURRENDER.

Tom strode forward and pulled the door open. He went down the length of the room. He noticed that Kathleen had risen, was smiling. Suzanne's mouth trembled. She began to cry. He looked around. Kathleen had disappeared. But the waitress, who was gazing through the oval glass window in the kitchen, was startled to see him take Suzanne in his arms and kiss her and hold her there.

"I'll never object to anything you do again, as long as I live," she said. "O, Tom, do you really love me still?"

. . . . . .

"Where are you going?" he asked.

"I don't know."

"Do you mind if I come along?"

She did not answer. He strode at her side, idiotically still carrying the big bag.

"Of course," he said without warning, "that was a dreadful thing to do to Suzanne—to pretend to fall in love with her, and then make Tom send her away with you."

She was on the point of telling him when it occurred to her it is always well to begin with a reputation for prescience.

"It's so easy to see through you," she murmured. "Of course, I shall never tell Suzanne."

He looked at this goddess with respect. But he was not astonished at her wisdom. What made his heart thump so violently was that she seemed to have no anger left in her at all, she seemed strangely calm.

"O, I knew Capt. Jones would bring you here tomorrow morning."

"Look at me," he said. She kept her face averted. "I love you!"

"Hush! You mustn't talk like that. People are looking at us. That fat woman heard you."

"I love you!"

"Please be good, Bruce!"

"Then say you love me!"

"Of course, I do. You know that."

He murmured her name in a whisper that was bewildered and ecstatic. Suddenly he halted. "See here, you told me you were going to China!"

"Yes."

"Did you mean it?"

"It depends on you. Father is opening a branch there, and I thought with your experience you might like to go out for him."

"You—you meant you'd go to China with me?"

"Bruce, don't you realize we're walking on a public street. Stop! Where are you taking me?"

"Some place where I can kiss you!" he said.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Mary J. Robeson, 1238 Estes avenue, was awarded $5.

The Question.

The Answers.

J. B. Lesher, 4852 Sheridan road, dressmaker—I do not. I never mention what goes on in the shop. I have enough to worry about while I am there without taking my troubles home to be talked about. My wife has enough to worry about during the day without me bringing home more worries for her.

Robert Nordin, 7116 North Spaulding avenue, automobile business — Sometimes. Naturally she is interested and wants to know what problems come up. I like to discuss those things with her. Many a time her suggestions have been valuable. I believe it is good business to discuss such things with your wife.

Ira J. Bliss, 7 South Dearborn street, real estate — All the time. Women have an intuitive faculty, even in matters pertaining to complex business problems, which, if drawn upon, somehow, but unerringly, guides a man towards success. My conversations with my wife upon these subjects give me confidence.

W. E. Garrison, 5819 Blackstone avenue, university professor—I do. She has good judgment; any comment made by her is certain to be helpful. My success or failure means as much to her as it does to me. Therefore, I owe it to her to give her opportunity to express her opinion upon matters of importance.

David Kaplan, 123 West Madison street, vacuum cleaner distributor—I do. If any problems come up, or whether the day's business has been good, bad, or indifferent I always talk things over with her during the evening. If things are going right, O. K.; if wrong, her remarks are comforting.

THEATER

MISS RUTH DRAPER classifies more than ever as Theater. Her sketches, skits, and playlets—which, I believe, are of her own writing—abound in drama, whatever that drama may be—farce, comedy, tragedy, or travesty; and she, herself, is an actor in the best meaning of the word. I am often asked if I am of the belief that she would qualify if put to the chore of acting a rôle of importance in a play calling for her to take part with other actors. I don't know. Furthermore, I don't care. And I threw in the notion that she would be foolish to bother, whether or not she, herself, be of the belief that she would qualify. True, I suggested her to Mr. Tyler, of the revivals and such, when he told me he would like to do "Dulcy" in London, but was unable to think of an actress who would be as good in the title-part as Miss Lynn Fontanne. That was, I think, in 1921, when Miss Draper, now in London, was making good there. Mr. Tyler, knowing nothing about Miss Draper, cabled to tell me that I was a bit of a fool or something; and it is the memory of that courtly and costly message which gives to me certitude that, one of these days, he will organize an "all-star" cast of something, and ask Miss Draper to have a rôle.

If you possess any regard for me as a guide to what is good in the theaters, you will acquaint yourself with the nights, this week and next, when Miss Draper includes in her program "Three Women and Mr. Clifford," and spend one in the Selwyn. It is the most elaborate of the sketches she has as yet made known in Chicago; and it is the best. As his secretary, she fills Mr. Clifford's office with callers and with Mr. Clifford; as his wife, she rides with him late at night to their New-York residence; as Mrs. Mallory, she makes plain why Mr. Clifford isn't now as fond as he formerly was of Mrs. Clifford. And never in the years that are come and gone since the telephone made play-writing a simpler task for the minor dramatists has there been telephoning on the stage to compare with what Miss Draper does in looking after the multifarious affairs of Mr. Clifford, whose business requires him to talk with London, receive an important representative of Japan, have a tooth fixed, go into conferences, revise his charity-list, send roses to Mrs. Clifford, send orchids to Mrs. Mallory, take a massage, refer to "Alice in Wonderland," read a book named "The Psychology of Inflation," run out to Westbury to buy a pony for his son, keep in touch with the dirty work in Washington, and take Mrs. Mallory to dinner and a play.

Yes, indeed: whether you already know or don't know Miss Draper, you owe it to yourself to see and to hear her in "Three Women and Mr. Clifford." The playbill in the Selwyn doesn't say what she is to do tonight; but she is to be busy through the week. I learn from it that she will repeat last night's program tomorrow night. Other items in that program are "Doctors," wherein her Mrs. Grimmer is a gem of sheer burlesque; "Opening a Bazaar," wherein her titled Englishwoman is incredible to anybody who hasn't met her titled Englishwoman in her native haunts; "On the Porch in a Maine Coast-Village," which is familiar; and "A Miner's Wife," which I didn't see.

Miss Draper is a perfect reason for being glad to have evenings in Chicago this week and next.

News-Notes of the Stage.

"Simple Simon" now seems to be the title of the piece wherein Ed Wynn will be managed by Mr. Ziegfeld, who says that he will have the show ready about the middle of next month. Miss Harriet Hoctor, one of the most interesting of the native dancers; Miss Bobbé Arnst, who "paired" with Jack Donahue in "Rosalie"; and Hugh Cameron, who was so funny as the trainer in the Chicago performances of "Good News," will be with Mr. Wynn.

Mr. Ziegfeld adds that he will be ready for rehearsals of something new for Miss Marilyn Miller before Mr. Wynn's venture is "set."

Indications are that "Street-Scene" will be given in Chicago by the cast now acting it in New-York rather than by a cast assembled for this city. One of the indications is that Miss Grace George expects to appear Christmas-night in "The First Mrs. Fraser" in the theater there wherein "Street-Scene" has had its long and popular run.

The Messrs. Shubert say they are thinking hard about giving what they call "an Oscar Wilde cycle" in New-York, and mention as the plays in contemplation "Lady Windermere's Fan," "The Importance of Being Earnest," "An Ideal Husband," "A Woman of No Importance," and "A Florentine Tragedy."

Composer Plays His Own Songs to Critic's Taste

Alexandre Gretchaninoff Makes Chicago Debut.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Alexandre Gretchaninoff came to Chicago just in time to restore confidence in recitals by composers of their own works. Events of that sort have sometimes proved slightly disappointing in the past. His decidedly did not.

He appeared at the Studebaker theater yesterday afternoon, his first public appearance in Chicago, playing the piano accompaniments for a program of his songs, which were sung by Albert Rappaport, tenor. It was something of a test for a composer, but Mr. Gretchaninoff has written some fine songs.

He is one of a group of distinguished Russian composers, having survived them all except Alexander Glazounoff, who is also in this country for the first time. For the meaning of his songs one had to keep pretty well buried in a book of translations, since they were all sung to Russian texts, but with a glimpse of their purport it was easy to discover that he has a rather dramatic way of transferring literary ideas into music. He is particularly fond of folk song idioms, particularly folk song rhythms, upon which he erects some striking and at times impressive emotional effects.

Most of them need singing that goes deeper into the art of interpretation than merely making pleasant vocal sounds, and in Mr. Rappaport he had an artist capable of both. For Mr. Rappaport is fully conversant with the knowledge of how to get beneath the surface of a song. Some of the works have been well known for years, the famous "Cradle Song," for one. A good many others were wholly unfamiliar to at least one pair of ears in the audience, but all that were heard were in a high degree attractive.

Another newcomer, Katherine Bacon, introduced herself to Chicago with a piano recital at the Civic theater. Beginning, as she did, with the long, difficult, and highly serious sonata in F minor by Brahms, she displayed herself as a pianist of both gifts and development. She played it sturdily and imposingly, making light of technical hindrances, and if she did not avoid giving the impression that the work is more than a little pompous, a reference to the score will prove that there is considerable pomposity in it. For the rest of her program, Miss Bacon divided a group between Couperin and Chopin and a third among Ravel, Albeniz, and Liszt.

The Chicago String quartet bears a legend on its program that it is for the progress of chamber music in Chicago, and it is living up to the specification. It not only plays well but it brings out interesting music. A quartet by Eugene Goossens received its first Chicago performance in the Cordon club yesterday afternoon, which is worth hearing several times for the sake of better acquaintance. It is an attractive work, speaking the modern dialect, but not to a distressing extent, with humor in the turn of its phrases and unending interest in their progress.

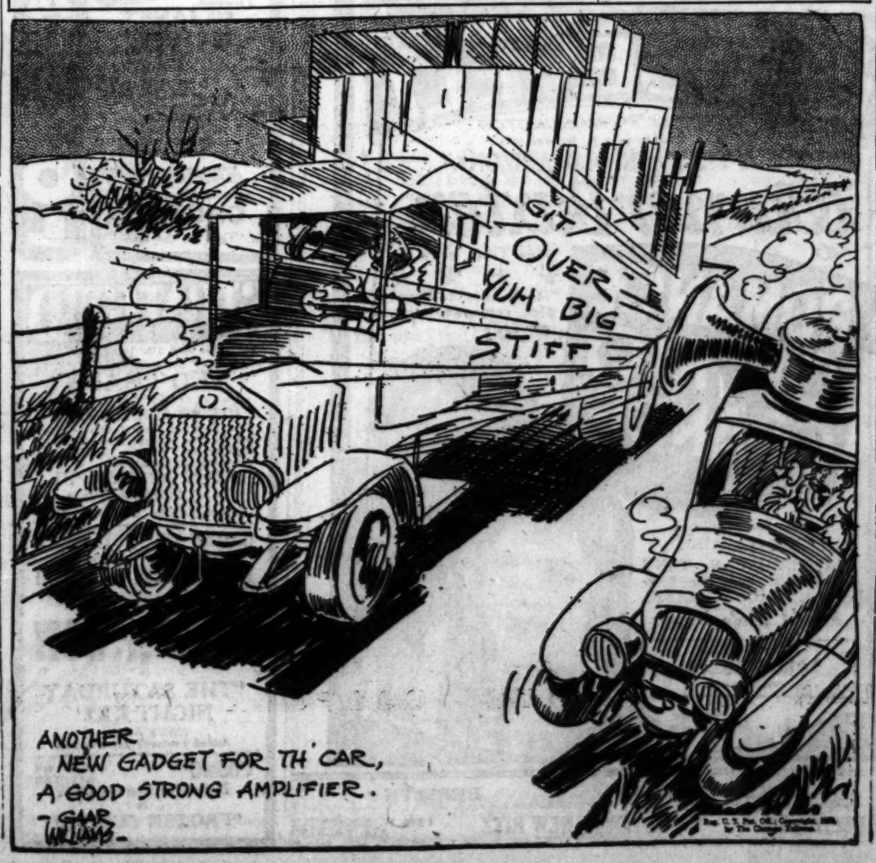
Pauline Manchester was awarded first place in the contest conducted by the Society of American Musicians yesterday afternoon. As a result, she will appear as piano soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra later in the season. Second place was divided between Pauline Peebles, pianist, and Pedro Espino, tenor, who will give a joint recital during the winter.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

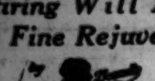
In listing the jury of award for Chicago's war memorial yesterday THE TRIBUNE inadvertently omitted the name of Col. Howard P. Savage. Col. Savage served as lay member of the jury, together with Col. R. R. McCormick, W. Rufus Abbott, Col. A. A. Sprague, and James Simpson. Architectural members were John Mead Howells, Ernest R. Graham, and Dean Everett V. Meeks of Yale university. Harvey W. Corbett was erroneously mentioned as a professional member of the committee, Mr. Corbett having been unable to accept the invitation to serve.

Funeral services of H. M. Bleed, 725 Latrobe avenue, will be held tomorrow at 1 p. m. at the Odd Fellows' temple, 5711 Chicago avenue, instead of at 2:30 p. m., as erroneously stated yesterday.

OUR SECRET AMBITION.



One Week of Early Retiring Will Act as Fine Rejuvenator



Can we sell you a little sleep this morning for those tired looking eyes and that enervated frame of yours?

At the present moment we cannot think of any potion comparable in a speedy recovery from what ails your looks than a week devoted to early retiring. You know that old adage about an hour's sleep before midnight being worth two hours after. Well, that's what we are asking you to try for one week only. Your late hours refunded if the remedy proves unsatisfactory. After a week's trial we will not have to argue sleep any more. You'll take it when you need it.

But selling sleep, and fresh air, and exercise because we can't offer them with fancy labels or with the aroma of an Egyptian seductress' past attached leaves us what you might call a bit dampened. It's so hard to get a good, attentive ear or to get an eye willing to flop its lid peacefully at the end of our discourse.

It's just about this time of year, too, that sleep is pretty generally needed if one is a gadder of parts at all. Tonight it's to play bridge over at the Brown's; tomorrow night you've got to see Greta Garbo's new hairdress around the corner at the movie. The next night you promised Gen you'd be over to meet that girl she's been telling you about; Thursday eve you're going to the show and later to dance at the club they're all talking about; Friday you have that gang coming to dinner and Saturday is your biggest date of all.

Twelve o'clock, one, one thirty you chalk up as the earliest of retiring hours in seven nights. If you're a strict prohibitionist you won't be tempted to take a bracer to see you through—but not all nice girls are teetotallers any more, and more often than you'd believe the chronic tippling habit begins with these pick-me-ups to set one on her feet for another late night.

And what they add to the tired looking eyes and the lethargic body isn't nobody's business. It's yours, and yours for sleep. One week out of a season, if one has to cancel engagements willy-nilly, is not going to ruin one's social career, especially if one can bob up the following week a rejuvenated creature.

Church Dedicates New $100,000 Parish House

Festival services yesterday marked the dedication of the new parsonage and parish house of Immanuel Evangelical church, 7000 South Michigan avenue. The new building was erected at a cost of more than $100,000. The parish house provides an assembly hall seating 1,000 and a gymnasium large enough for tennis and basketball. The dedicatory prayer was offered by the Rev. Dr. H. J. Schick, the pastor. He was assisted in the services by the architect, E. G. McLellan. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. T. A. Kienle, president of the Evangelical synod.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

When Lawrence was 4 his parents moved out into a newly opened subdivision. Nothing had been done to improve the grounds and there were many stones. Lawrence's chief pastime was throwing stones.

One afternoon Lawrence's mother was away and when she returned the older children told her that he had broken a window. She called him to her and said, "Lawrence, how did you happen to break the window?"

My little grandson, aged 2½, dropped a three pound can of malted milk on his toe, causing a large blood blister.

His father opened the blister as I held the little fellow on my lap, and he scarcely shed a tear. I commended him for it, and he looked up at me in surprise and said, "Man's don't cry, grandma!" L. A. C.

Eames McVeagh and His Bride Soon to Return

BY THALIA

Eames McVeagh, no longer Chicago's most eligible bachelor, and his bride, the former Zelie Barthelemy, are expected to return from their wedding trip in time to spend Christmas in Chicago. Friends who have heard from them during their travels gleam that they've had a fine trip, and fine weather.

Having accomplished the difficult feat of being married quietly without anybody finding out until afterwards, Mr. and Mrs. McVeagh sailed in October for Italy after a ceremony in New Hampshire. They landed at Naples, went to Rome, through the "hill" towns by motor, to Florence, Venice, and Milan, and then to Paris to visit Mrs. McVeagh's father, M. Antonin Barthelemy, who is living at 82 Rue de Grenelle. Then they journeyed to London, whence they are to sail for home. They will reside at Mr. McVeagh's handsome apartment at 900 North Michigan avenue, and Mr. McVeagh's father, Franklin McVeagh, will probably be here for Christmas with them.

The destinies of the Casino will be guided for another year by the same group of persons who held office last year. At the annual meeting last Tuesday Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman was reflected president. The others who will succeed themselves are Arthur Meeker, first vice president; Howard Gillette, second vice president; Barrett Wendell Jr., secretary; and George A. Ranney, treasurer.

The Wednesday afternoon program of the Junior league theater conference, which opens tomorrow, will be in effect a review of the various plays that have been produced by the league since its establishment in 1921 by Alice Gerstenberg and Annette Washburne. Robert Edmond Jones is to criticise and comment upon the scenes to be shown. "Pinocchio," "Aladdin," "Racketty-Packetty House," and "Treasure Island" will be represented by tableau scenes. Mrs. Robert Morrisson has charge of seeing that either the original players or understudies are on hand; Mrs. Charles Lindsay III. has been busy refurbishing the old set for "Treasure Island," and Mrs. Shreve Badger is unearthing the costumes for the other revivals.

One of the interesting things awaiting a purchaser at that treasure house of fascinating has-beens, the White Elephant Rummage shop, is a magnificent doll house with a past. It belonged originally to the former Mrs. Vernon Booth, now Mrs. Philip Lyndon Dodge, and suffered neglect in a storage house for long years after her doll days were over. Finally the plaything was sent to the Rummage shop, where Portia Bartlett Farwell saw it, and divined the possibilities of restoring it from the sorry state of decay into which it had fallen. She had a carpenter reconstruct it entirely, strengthening its wobbly walls and coating it with new paint, and then she furnished it completely from top to bottom in delightful miniature appointments. It stands about 4 feet high, has three stories, with a complete nursery in the attic, and green shuttered windows, with tiny potted plants. Its price is $200, and Mrs. Farwell did it for her Junior league "hours."

An attack of influenza has incapacitated Mrs. Russell Barnitz for the last few days and her job of decorating the house at 1444 Astor street that her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Russell, are to occupy is suffering delay thereby. Mrs. Barnitz is doing nothing about setting the date for her marriage to Robert M. Curtis until the Russells are ensconced in their new residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Maher were dinner hosts last night to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Paepcke and Mr. and Mrs. John Cochran, later taking their guests to the opening performance of Miss Ruth Draper's engagement at the Selwyn theater. Others attending Miss Draper's opening appearance included Mr. and Mrs. Russell Forgan, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Boyden Sr., and Miss Cornelia Conger.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Casalis [Mrs. Mason Bross], have arrived from the east and will be at the Lake Shore Drive hotel for about a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence H. Whiting of 1534 Lake Shore drive are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter at St. Luke's hospital on Wednesday. Young Larry Whiting, who has been the center of attention in the Whiting household, which includes also Henrietta and Frederick D. Countiss, will share favors now with the new sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph May Greeley of 655 Maple avenue, Winnetka, announce the birth of a daughter on Friday, Nov. 29, at the Evanston hospital. Mrs. Greeley is the former Miss Margery Gerould.

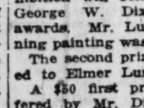
Now's the Time to Show You're a Good Fellow

BY THOMAS WREN.

"Neither you nor I get anything out of this except the feeling that you have saved some child from sorrow on Christmas morning."



That idea prompted the original Good Fellow to send his letter to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. And from that idea has developed the Good Fellow campaign to provide toys and good things to eat for the city's poor children on Christmas morning.

Good Fellows, you pay not one cent more than you want to pay, and every cent will go just where you want it to go. The plan is as anonymous as Santa Claus. The Good Fellow deals with no charity organization and no record of names is made. You give for the pleasure of making poor children happy and you are protected from professional beggars.

Two weeks from this evening the curtain will go down on this year's annual Good Fellow campaign sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Two short weeks, Good Fellows, and there is much for us to do. Imagine, Good Fellows, the responsibility that is ours—we can give to, or withhold Christmas happiness from, approximately 10,000 little boys and girls.

The first part of last week the whole program got away to a fine start. It lagged toward Friday, and on Saturday the enrollment of Good Fellows was small. With just a bit of coöperation, this unwelcome slack can be overcome.

Help make the Good Fellow campaign a success. Enjoy your Christmas by giving joy to the children of unfortunate circumstances. Enroll today at main Good Fellow headquarters in THE TRIBUNE's advertising and public service office at 1 South Dearborn street or at this newspaper's branch offices at 1101 East 63d street and 4152 West Madison street.

You may telephone Superior 0100 to enroll in Good Fellow activities or fill out the Good Fellow coupon.

All-Illinois Society of Fine Arts Opens Its Exhibit Today

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts opens today in the Stevens hotel its fourth annual exhibition of paintings by Illinois artists. It is a colorful, brilliant and unusual exhibit.

There are paintings to please every taste and each type of art, academic and modern, is worthily represented. The exhibit was carefully juried with the result that the average standard is high and so cosmopolitan was the jury that a rare variety of canvases were admitted.

Ben Silbert shows two of the most exquisite water colors. Words fail to do justice to their careful perfection. Claud Buck submits two poetical conceptions and Gerald Frank offers a delightful fantasy in green with Louis Weiner playing up to him in a romantic mood with "Deep Sea Butterflies," a fairy story of beauty wrought in color.

Pop Hart we turn to for realism, touched with humor and spiced by the freedom of brush for which modernism must be credited. Edna Vognild has two fascinating portraits of dogs and above them is enthroned a conservative cat under the demure name of "Cracker," painted by Benjamin J. Boek. John Goossens presents one of the most masterly arrangements of flowers, a bit of warm beauty, "Still Life." Carol Innes Procter gives us a charming picture in "Dolls in the Play Room."

Florence White Williams, Joseph W. Jicha, Richard Chase, Frederic Dalrymple [with a group of colorful water scenes], Charles Robert Morse, Signe Palmblad, Edward J. F. Timmons, Edgar Cameron, Torry Ross, Karl Plath, Grace M. Haskins, Lucie Hartrath, Charles H. Kellner [with a delightful portrait of three little sisters], Sam Byer, Edith Jane Cassidy, Kate A. Townsend and Marques E. Reitzel are among those who give distinction and character to the exhibit.

The exhibition will continue through Dec. 28.

BY HAZEL MOORE.

After too long an absence from the Chicago concert stage, Benno Moiseiwitsch returned yesterday to give a scintillant exhibition of piano playing at the Playhouse. It proved too small to contain either his art or his audience.

The major part of his program was devoted to that monumental work known as the Handel-Brahms Variations, opus 24. These he accomplished with amazing technical ease and an obvious affection. That he included all repeats in so long a work is proof of the latter. However, be it understood at once that his playing of even the most arid of the variations made it flourish with a colorful tonal bloom. Rhythmically perfect, his shading and phrasing were a joy to hear.

In response to the audible insistence of the audience, he played beautifully the Brahms piece numbered opus 119 and the rarely heard but brilliant scherzo of Mendelssohn as encores.

Other numbers eliciting approval were Beethoven's "Andante Favori," and the "Chromatique Fantasia and Fugue" by Bach, and the closing group of the four ballades of Chopin. The hope is hereby expressed that Mr. Moiseiwitsch will make his Chicago appearance more frequently.

At Orchestra hall, the Amy Neill String quartet continued the good work of popularizing the fine art of the string quartet in the second concert of the Chicago Chamber Music society series. Another fair sized audience responded to the lure of good music to be purchased for the nominal sum of 25 cents.

The music presenfed yesterday was worth more than that. Also the way of the four good players who compose the quartet was of a worth not to be measured in monetary terms.

The Brahms quartet in A minor, opus 51, was excellently played, with musicianship and balance. The quartet has developed a fine unanimity and flexibility. Add to this their firm and not too feminine tone and their popularity is understood.

Elsewhere on the program was the "Italian Serenade" by Wolf and the Mozart quartet in D major.

COVER U. S. WITH NEW CLINICS TO WAR ON CANCER

Surgeons Launch Their Greatest Battle.

War on cancer on a scale never before attempted will be inaugurated with the beginning of the new year by the American College of Surgeons, with its approximately 9,000 members. It was announced last night by Dr. Bowman C. Crowell, 850 Lake Shore drive, chairman of the organization's committee on the archives of malignant diseases.

Clinics in which standardized methods will be used are to be organized in cities in every section of the country. The members of the college will be asked to send their cases to these clinics and perfect records of all cases will be made and sent in to the department of clinical research of the organization in the Chicago headquarters.

Returns from Tour.

Dr. Crowell, who also heads the clinical research department, has just returned from a three weeks tour of the cities in which the clinics are to be organized. He will leave early in January, together with several heads of cancer committees, for the actual work of starting the clinics, and at each of the cities in which these are to be organized sectional meetings of members of the American College of Surgeons will be held.

The clinics are to be opened in the following cities, for the sections indicated, on the dates given:

Worcester, Mass., for the New England states, Jan. 6 and 7.
Richmond, Va., for Virginia, Maryland, and the District of Columbia, Jan. 9 and 10.
Atlanta, Ga., for Georgia and the gulf states, Jan. 13 and 14.
San Antonio, Tex., for Texas, New Mexico, and Oklahoma, Jan. 20 and 21.
Denver, Colo., for Colorado and the mountain states.
Des Moines, Ia., for Iowa and the Dakotas.

"We will open new clinics wherever they do not already exist," Dr. Crowell said. "The college is now spending all the energy and money it has at its command for the careful gathering of knowledge concerning cancer, and with 1930 the fight starts with a new impetus and in a larger scale than ever before.

Three Committees Active.

"We have three committees on cancer. One is on bone sarcoma, cancer of the bones; a second is on other cancers, and a third is to determine what influence heredity has on cancer. On cancer of the bones we now have complete records of more than 1,000 cases compiled over a period of seven years. We have 1,210 studies of cancer of the cervix and 800 of cancer of the breast, for a period of more than five years.

"What the ultimate result of our work will be no one can tell, but we know certain benefits have been derived already. We have determined, from experience of the foremost cancer men in the country, that cancer of the cervix responds best to radium treatment and that we get the best results in cases of cancer of the breast with surgery and radium combined.

"We are endeavoring to determine the relative merits of X-ray, radium, and surgery in the various cancer cases and have had a good deal of success."

Dr. Crowell asserted the great organization of surgeons will soon have other important announcements to make.

MOTHER ILL, SEEK MAN.

Mrs. Sadie G. Braun, 1234 Bryn Mawr avenue, yesterday appealed for aid in finding her brother-in-law, Leo Perry Braun, to inform him that his mother is seriously ill in her home at Milford, Utah. Mrs. Braun said Braun left Salt Lake City eight years ago and is believed to be living in Chicago.

All-Star Day on Air Leaves Elmer Happy

Praises Concerts of Two Symphony Orchestras.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Radio had a gala day yesterday, with an all star cast.

The Chicago Symphony, Frederick Stock conducting, through W-G-N, 2 to 3 o'clock, gave possibly the most attractive concert of the day, a program of both popular and concert type appeal. Stravinsky's famous and musically important "Fire Bird" suite was, I believe, given its first radio performance. The allegretto and presto from Beethoven's Seventh symphony must have been tremendously enjoyed by all listeners. Debussy's "Petite Suite" also was pleasing.

The Philadelphia Symphony orchestra, Leopold Stokowski conducting, through WCFL, 4:30 to 5:30, played as its major number the lovely and impressive Sympony in D minor by Cesar Franck. I believe this great work is unfamiliar to the radio audience; and, if so, the greater is the need of broadcasts by our nation's great symphony orchestras. Yesterday's was the Philadelphia orchestra's last concert in the present series. Mr. Stokowski stated that he was retiring from public concert work after the first of the year to devote twelve weeks to radio laboratory study in an effort to perfect the broadcasting of orchestral music.

Brahms' Second symphony was the major work played by the theater orchestra on the New York concert through KYW, 1 to 2 o'clock. This great work was admirably played.

William Mengelberg, conductor, Miss Kathryn Meisle, Chicago Civic opera contralto, and Toscha Seidel, violinist, were an illustrious trio of talented musicians on the New York concert through W-G-N, 8:15 to 9:15. Miss Meisle's rich, full contralto voice and her songs were a credit to Chicago; Mr. Seidel, who is but 24 years old, played with the skill of a man much older, and Mr. Mengelberg succeeded in making the studio orchestra vie in interest and worth with the work of the two famous soloists.

Jacques Thibaud, the famous French violinist, and Miss Leonora Cortez, an American pianist of talent, were guest artists on the New York concert through KYW, 6:30 to 7. Mr. Thibaud produces the most exquisite tones from the violin.

BROOKHART AIMS DRY LAW DART AT COURTS, MELLON

Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Senator Brookhart of Iowa charged today that the federal courts were lax in enforcing the prohibition laws and said that if no one else did so he would call upon the attorney general to make a survey of the way they handle liquor cases.

Speaking at the Georgetown Presbyterian church, the Iowa senator said htat when a federal court's docket was overloaded with liquor cases, it was evident it was failing to do its duty.

"If a court will impose the proper penalties," he said, "it's docket will soon be unburdened."

Brookhart also directed his criticism to Secretary Mellon, who, he said, should be removed from office. The border was patroled largely by immigration and customs officials, and the force was "entirely inadequate."

"Yet," he said, "when we gave Secretary Mellon $50,000,000 for patrol work on the borders he said he didn't need it."

EMBEZZLER OF $6,000 PUTS BLAME ON TAXI DANCES

Taxi dances were the ruination of Jack New, 40 years old, bookkeeper for the Wood Davis company, 4654 Lincoln avenue, who was brought back to Chicago yesterday from Memphis, Tenn., on a charge of embezzling $6,000. He confessed.

New, who is married, has two children, and lives at 2246 Ainslie street disappeared two weeks ago when discrepancies were discovered in his accounts. Police were informed a few days ago by Sophie Krause, 18 years old, a dancer in the Smart Set Dancing academy, 3 West Lake street, that she had received a letter from New in Memphis and he was captured there. New blamed his peculations on his fondness for taxi dances.

Fire Destroys Indiana Grist Mill 112 Years Old

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 8.—[Special]—One of Indiana's historic landmarks, a grist mill that had been in operation continuously for 112 years, was destroyed by fire today at Prymont, on Wildcat creek. The mill, built in 1817 by John Wagoner, still was being operated by water power from a race he built at that time. Originally, Wagoner sawed logs and cracked corn, but in 1839 he installed burrs for flour milling and latter the roller process was added. The ancient burrs, grinding corn when the fire started, caused by sparks from a chimney, continued to grind until the building fell in.

C. H. M'CORMICK TO TESTIFY IN GUARDIAN CASE

Santa Barbara, Cal., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Attorneys in the Stanley McCormick guardianship hearing indicated today that Cyrus H. McCormick, 70 year old elder brother of the multimillionaire, will take the witness stand tomorrow morning. He probably will be the last defense witness.

The hearing starts on its third week tomorrow. The action was brought by Mrs. Katherine McCormick, wife of Stanley, against Harold McCormick and Mrs. Anita Blaine, brother and sister of her husband, to oust them as his guardians and as trustees of the $50,000,000 estate. Mrs. McCormick charged the patient was not getting proper treatment and that his fortune is being dissipated.

Subsequent to the disclosure that Cyrus McCormick probably will be the final witness it also was learned that at least two weeks likely will be taken up with presentation of prosecution witnesses.

FIRED FROM OWN, CHILDS TO START NEW RESTAURANT

New York, Dec. 8.—[Special.]—William Childs, who was ousted from control of the Childs chain of restaurants last March, is planning a "comeback." He will establish a new restaurant at 102d street and Broadway and it will mark the first of a new chain, it is said.

The name Childs, however, is retained by the older company.

Details of the new venture have not been announced, but it is surmised that Mr. Childs will undertake to conduct his new chain on the so-called "meatless" diet, which led to his ousting from the Childs company.

Fire Destroys 8 Historic Dutch Houses During Gale

[Copyright: 1929: By the New York Times.]

THE HAGUE, Dec. 8.—Eight 18th century buildings at Middelburg, including the mansion "Verseput," known to thousands of American tourists, were destroyed by fire, which broke out at the height of the gale last night and was not extinguished until morning. The loss is estimated at $2,000,000.

BRITISH TROOPS IN INDIA WAGE FIERCE BATTLE

LONDON, Dec. 9 [Monday].—(AP)—The Daily Mail today prints a dispatch from Rawalpindi, Punjab, reporting that British troops had engaged in fierce fighting at Wana in southern Wazaristan. Beyond saying that "very important developments had suddenly occurred," the dispatch did not explain what the fighting was about.

Wana is only about 25 miles from the border of Afghanistan and is about 200 miles southwest of Peshawar, Northwest provinces. British troops in that section of India have long had to contend with incursions of Afghan tribesmen from their mountain strongholds across the border. These at times have reached serious proportions, but there has been none of any consequence for several years.

Moeling, 5000 East End avenue, has made no public appearances and is keeping her visit here as quiet as possible. Her sister, Miss Bertha Boling of Washington, D. C., has been a guest at the Moeling home for some time. Mrs. Wilson has just returned from a tour of the orient.

Too Often Christmas Is a Complete Drain on the Pocketbook

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bowans

A booklet, entitled "Toy and Plaything List for Christmas," suggesting toys for different ages, will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The stores, bless them for it, are urgent in their petitions to you to do your Christmas shopping early. The indirect effect of the postoffice's plea to mail your presents early has been to make you shop early so you can mail early. Two good admonitions.

But I want to give you a third one—do your Christmas shopping economically. Much as we love Christmas, all too many of us have a terrible, blue, heavy financial hangover after the holidays. For some people after Christmas means even more—it means a serious running into debt, without any greater happiness for any one concerned.

Of course, it's hard to tighten up your purse strings at Christmas. It's an intoxicating time. It goes to your head, especially when it comes to buying for the children. In your desire to give them the world with a nice big fence around it, you forget that children can be happy with much less than you think.

If your resources are slender Christmas can be a great strain, and about the only way you can keep from losing your head over it is by the most careful planning, always having a margin for those last minute things like the high price of Christmas trees, or the flowers for grandma, or the extra goodies, or the ribbons for the wreaths.

Decide how much you'll spend and stick to it. You do have to be awfully strong minded to do it, but one sorry experience in the past should stiffen your backbone. After Christmas debts are not easy to pay.

If you make the children feel that Christmas is more than just "getting," you'll find they're not hard to satisfy. But if, after shopping hard, you go over their presents a few days before Christmas and suddenly get that terrible sinking feeling—"O, is that all we've got for Skip, and Bud, and Sheila!" you can always resort to a device we've found most successful—you can fill in the gaps with a number of little things you know they like—a basket of stuffed dates, an especially nice lead pencil, a bag of ten new pennies, or some of the really good things that are on the counters of the five and ten cent stores—or even, sometimes, one that will be a joke. Wrapped handsomely, they give a look of bounty.

HAROLD TEEN—LILLUMS SCENTS A PLOT

Even Pajamas Take On a Feminine Air

BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—No, it is not strange that even our lounging pajamas should be skirting the coast of femininity. In a season when we are running back to the eighties and nineties for most of our ideas of what a lady ought to wear, the masculine character of the pajama is rapidly being undermined. Waist lines have crept up. Trousers have become so wide that they are often divided skirts. There are coquettish touches on sleeves and coats. There is, in other words, a radical change.

The charming example of today's feminized lounging pajamas is perhaps extreme in flaunting its reform. Yet that its excessive femininity is successful we must all admit. Its distinctive character is supplied, first of all, by exceedingly wide trousers which are in reality a divided skirt. These are made of rose pink satin and they are attached to a bodice of pink and gold brocade. An overskirt is attached to the bodice and this ties in front and is fitted carefully over the hips. The sleeves, neck line and panel of the bodice are all of pink satin, matching the trousers and overskirt. The small buttons down the front are gold.

Coincident with the increasing vogue of black lingerie constantly promised us by Paris, we find many of today's smart lounging pajamas executed in this tone. Whole sets composed of black crêpe, touched off with some vivid tone, form one of the most practical interpretations of the lounging pajamas and these, usually topped by three-quarter length coats, are ideal for the woman who is contemplating a long winter cruise or, indeed, any form of travel.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

The diagonal seams of this new model emphasize the smartly curved, flat hipline. And the hiplines merge into panels either side of the front and back, giving considerable length to the figure. The circular insets at the sides, and a godet at the center front, add a delightful flared fullness at the hem, while the deep V neck shows a Spanish influence in the scarf tie with fringed ends. Tweed printed silk is one of the smartest materials for this kind of a dress, which can be worn for shopping, luncheon or afternoon bridge.

The pattern, 3,127, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material with ¼ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

When Business Men Act Collegiate, What Are You Going to Do?

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Add this to unique and trouble making engagements and try to laugh it off in front of your spouse:

Louisa was married for six years, six years of sweet content. Upon the eve of the seventh anniversary arises a serious misunderstanding. A man with whom Louisa's husband is associated in business, it seems, has been asking a number of his men friends to come to luncheon, "Dutch Treat," at a favorite speakeasy. The invitation reads: "Bring your stenographer."

"Of all things!" Louisa groans. Each respective host buys his fair guest's luncheon and all the drinks she wants.

Now, friend husband, with the naïveté peculiar only to his ilk, insists that the whole idea is an innocent and harmless one and "he is simply pained and shocked to find that he is married to some one who has acquired a sudden mad passion for dominating him and curtailing his freedom."

Louisa protests that it is the cheapness of the thing that galls her. "A modern chorus girl form of diversion for the tired busines man," she adroitly terms it.

"He says he will give up going if I am inflexible on the subject," Louisa writes, "but he wishes me to understand that it spoils our heretofore happy relationship and makes him feel like a schoolboy forbidden to use his own judgment. He says I don't trust him!"

A vote among wives certainly would reveal that that was tugging on the trust leash a bit hard. If not on the trust—on the judgment, then!

We think a husband as naïve as all that ought to have a wife guard standing over him the full eight or nine working hours. He's just not safe out alone. He's the kind of bird they take for all he's got.

And what a village cut up the originator of the not altogether Dutch treat parties must be! What a cute mate he'd be! Always thinking up something bright to make the boys laugh.

Schoolboy stuff, big boys! Pranks you ought to have gotten out of your system first year in college!

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

Chickens are unlucky in the structure of their heads, for it makes them susceptible to colds. Poultrymen should try to avoid conditions that will bring on colds, says E. L. Brunett of Cornell university, at Ithaca, N. Y.

In the head of a chicken, in front of the grain cavity, are thin cones of bones located in chambers. The use of these chambers is to provide a space in which the inhaled air is warmed before it is taken into the lungs. When a chicken develops a simple cold an excessive amount of secretion forms in these cavities. As this increases the poor drainage of the cavities allows it to accumulate. This accumulation is an ideal place for bacteria to multiply, and the resulting bacterial growth makes the foul odor which is often present with roup.

A simple cold may be avoided or corrected by increasing the warmth with plenty of fresh air and providing plenty of dry litter. If the first stage is not checked the cold may end in roup, with its characteristic head swelling and foul odors.

The opinion that roup is a contagious disease is not well founded, according to Dr. Brunett, for there is usually some underlying condition that is indirectly responsible. This may be tuberculosis or worms, but whatever the cause it should be removed before a cure can be expected.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Popular Fruit Cake.

If requests did not come in every year at this season for the following recipe for easily prepared fruit cake usually from home cooks who have used, like, and lost it. I should still like to print this recipe, because this printing has long been an annual event in this column.

This cake is quickly and easily made because dates, raisins, and candied citron melon, for which candied pineapple may be substituted, are quickly prepared. (Nowadays the pineapple is one of the easiest things to procure in small portions.) The recipe, we repeat, is nothing but a cup cake with additions, and yet with fruit and nuts and a combination of almonds and vanilla flavoring it is delicious, especially when the top is covered with nuts and fruits.

The recipe is: One-half cup butter, one cup sugar, two eggs, one-half cup milk, one and one-half cups pastry flour, from one-half to one cup of nut meats cut medium fine, one-half cup fruit cut fine, or as much as one cup, one scant teaspoon cinnamon, or one-half teaspoon vanilla with one-half teaspoon almond essence.

Cream the butter and work in the sugar first sifted, then the powdered spices if they are used instead of essences. Beat the two egg yolks well, beat them then with the milk, and add to the first preparation alternately with the flour. If the flour is not worked in gradually and carefully the cake will be crumbly. Finally, add the nuts and fruits and flavorings and fold in the two egg whites beaten till stiff. Cover the top with pecans, almonds, pine nuts if you have them, pieces of date, etc., in figures.

The size and shape of the loaf will determine how to bake it, but the oven should never be above 350, and it is better to have it less than that so that the cake will not puff up. The flatter the top the better. If the fire is too hot the nuts and fruit on the top are almost ruined. Some people would think the amount of flour called for too little, but the dough must be stiff enough to hold up the decorations on the top, so a little more flour can be used, and should be if the eggs are large.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Fifteen Years His Senior.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am deeply in love with a girl 15 years my senior. Nevertheless, even though I am of age, my parents object to my keeping company with her. GEORGE."

I agree with your parents, George, and advise that you seek the companionship of girls of your own age. Your devotion to her would not be a lasting one.

Heater to Keep Baby Warm.

"My baby has not been well and the room has to be kept warm all night. Do you think you could get me an oil stove or heater no longer in use? It would help me a great deal. Mrs. L. W."

Since a warm and comfortable house is so vitally important where baby's health is concerned, I hope one of our kind readers will be able to supply the heater so badly needed. Isn't there one in your storeroom you won't care to use again?

CHILDREN SHOW FAMILY WAY TO COUGH RELIEF

MARGERY BOASE

Father, too, finds REM good for coughs

The two Boase children, John and Margery, of 144 E. 5th Ave., Columbus, Ohio, had very severe coughs for a time. Their mother, Mrs. C. W. Boase, tried several remedies without apparent success. Then she saw a REM ad and bought a bottle at Crouse's Drug Store on 5th Ave. near 4th St. It brought quick relief to both the Boase children. "REM proved wonderful," says Mrs. Boase. Then she adds, "Last spring we were on a picnic at Olentangy Park and John caught another cold and in the morning when he got up he had an awful cough, and I went to Crouse's as soon as the store was open, for a bottle of REM—I had used all I had—and the next morning he didn't have a sign of a cough. When my husband gets a cough, he takes REM too."
